Supervisors Stall Big Developments

State High Court Ruling Spurs Action

By ERIK M. INGRAM

In compliance with a far-reaching decision by the state Supreme Court, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday ordered all major development proposals placed on ice until environmental impact reports are prepared. (Another supervisors story, page 3)

The board's unanimous vote to postpone hearings on major projects came after lengthy discussion of the high court's ruling that an environmental report must be made on any proposal that could affect the ecology.

It remained unclear today how many development proposals on the county's already backlogged hearing calendar will be delayed.

Supervisors delayed six items on their agenda yesterday, including the controversial Martinelli Farms project north of Point Reyes Station. More are expected to be postponed next week.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, who outlined the decision for supervisors, told the Independent-Journal most of the planning commission's 18 hearings scheduled for Monday also will be delayed.

"At least for some period of time," Maloney told the board, "this decision will slow down or stop all development in California."

The supreme court's decision was handed down late last month, the result of a vigorous court battle between Mono County officials and conservationists over a county-approved condominium project.

The conservationists, called The Friends of Mammoth, won the case on environmental grounds using the state's Environmental Quality Act of 1970.

The court, in rendering its decision, interpreted the act as requiring environmental impact reports for both public and private developments. (Previously, the act had been interpreted as requiring such reports only for public projects built at taxpayers' expense.)

Maloney told the board the decision will affect nearly every development proposal before county officials except those with "trivial impact" on the environment such as individual single-family homes.

The reports, he said, must be prepared by the county or its consultants but the expense can be charged to the person seeking plan approval.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Conflicts In Marin Plan

By JEFF GREER

Marin's proposed new countywide general plan may be self-defeating because its goals conflict with each other, according to a committee of the City-County Planning Council of Marin.

Hired consultants and Marin citizens on the planning council's Economic Development Committee have said the countywide plan's ideals seem to have been drafted without evaluation of the actual results of its economic impact.

The general plan would limit the population to 286,000 by the year 1990, keeping western and central Marin largely undeveloped, while promising more business opportunity and new jobs in Marin, public ownership of thouunds of acres of open space, and a "mix" of housing and social environments for low and middle income families, young persons and senior citizens.

Creators of the countywide plan hope that it will "turn around" Marin's trend toward a one-class, high income commuter society.

The economic committee prepared a bulky report filled with statistics and philosophical questions challenging the practicality of the plan's various goals.

Angus N. McDonald, a consultant for the Economic Development committee, questioned whether the countywide plan's apparently conflicting goals were checked against each other during preparation of the various segments.

"The planning process was largely that of several parallel and unlinked processes... interrelationships between elements are not clear and were not studied deeply," McDonald said. As a result the countywide plan's "credibility remains questionable," he said. He is a member of Baxter-McDonald and Co., Berkeley consultant firm which conducted a $10,000 economics survey for the city-county council.

Most of the 30 Marin County citizens on the economic development committee agreed with McDonald's criticisms.

The economic report's challenge centers on the proposed limit of 286,000 population for the entire county by 1990.

The report cited a number of

No Action Recommended In Leaked Jury Report

In a report mailed to the Marin Grand Jury yesterday, the state attorney general recommended that no action be taken against any 1971-72 juror in connection with the Sausalito police investigation that was leaked to the press almost seven months ago.

"The evidence was legally insufficient to warrant filing a criminal complaint," Timothy A. Riordan, deputy attorney general in charge of the investigation, said today.

Riordan was called into the case by Milen C. Dempster chairman of the last grand jury and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales to investigate the leaked report which charged the Sausalito police were using a quota system of arrests.

Following the release of the secret document, the full jury adopted a report that recommended firing Sausalito's three top police officers, but the investigation continued.

Riordan's first step was to ask the grand jury for their copies of the leaked subcommittee report and all complied except the jury's youngest member, 24-year-old Richard W. Beban.

He refused to turn over the report when subpoenaed by the jury April 11 and fought the issue to the state supreme court before giving in under court order on July 13. He spent 24 hours in jail for contempt before turning over the investigation leaked to newspapers in March.

Riordan, claiming the investigation was secret because it was conducted under the wing of the grand jury, declined to comment on what evidence he uncovered.

However, other sources indicated all the reports were run through the state crime laboratory for fingerprints and evidence of photocopying with negative results. Beban's copy of the report was heavily stained apparently with coffee and other liquids, the source said.

Senate Rejects Welfare Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate voted today to shelve all proposed welfare reform plans and retain the present, often criticized system for the next five to eight years.

Deeply divided and unable to agree on a solution to the welfare problem, the Senate voted to test competing solutions for two to four years.

With time taken to set up the tests in different parts of the country, carry them out for two to four years, evaluate the results and pass new legislation, the decision meant the present system will remain in effect at least until 1977 and perhaps until 1980.

The Senate adopted a proposal by Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., calling for tests of these three proposals:

—President Nixon's plan under which poor families — whether or not on welfare — would be guaranteed a minimum income of $2,400 a year for a family of four. Some benefits would be paid to all families of four with income up to about $4,300 a year.

—Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's plan to make the income guarantee $2,600 for a family of four. None of the 27 states now paying more than that amount would be permitted to cut back on benefits.

—Sen. Russell B. Long's "workfare" plan under which welfare mothers whose children are old enough to attend school would be denied welfare but offered a job paying a minimum of $2,400 a year.

In a letter sent each senator two days ago, HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson called the testing proposal "the worst outcome of all" to a welfare debate which has confronted Congress since 1969.

It was in August of that year that President Nixon denounced the existing system of aid for dependent children as a "mess" and called for change.

Liberals charged in the Senate that he subsequently abandoned his own plan, calling for a guaranteed income for all poor families, whether employed or not. Nixon's change of heart, they said, made reform impossible.

On Tuesday, the Senate turned down, 52 to 34, a liberal-backed solution to the welfare problem which would have guaranteed every family—employed or idle — a basic minimum income. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., led the opposition and the sharp division indicated that the Senate might, as it did today, decide to shove all proposals aside.

One hand in his pocket, the other slicing the air, Long shouted in Tuesday's debate that "any one of these guaranteed income-for-not-working programs could destroy the country."

He called them "loaf-fare" instead of welfare.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., author of the defeated plan, called Long's alternative approach "slavefare."

Novato Council Reverses On Redevelopment Agency

Reversing its decision of the night before, the Novato City Council last night rescinded creation of a redevelopment agency aimed at downtown improvements. (Other Novato City Council stories, page 46.)

The surprise move, in which Councilman George C. Quesada switched his pivotal vote of Monday night, came at the conclusion of a grueling council meeting.

Quesada, who voted with the majority Monday night to approve agency creation by a 3-2 vote, announced he was switching his position in order to await completion of review of the city's downtown plan.

The councilman then voted with colleague Fred Ruegg and Dorothy Young, who were in the minority Monday night, to table the redevelopment issue.

Once downtown plan review is complete, Quesada said, he might again vote to form the redevelopment agency.

The agency was born Monday night amid squabbling over whether to pay agency directors — the councilmen themselves — $15 a meeting. After a series of parliamentary manuevers and split votes, the money was approved.

Novato's bid was the latest by a number of cities in Marin to launch redevelopment efforts to upgrade streets and other public facilities in advance of private development.

Such agencies have been criticized in some quarters because taxes from the private improvements are frozen until bonds for the public improvements are paid off.

'OCTOBER SALE' SECTION IS INSIDE

Today's Independent-Journal contains a special 16-page section on Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center, which is celebrating the eighth annual October Sale and Art Festival.

Artists will display their works and the Prince Charles Bagpipe Band and the Marin Symphony will provide music. Other special treats also are planned.

Tiburon Votes Overwhelmingly In Favor Of Open Space Bonds

Nearly half of Tiburon's registered voters turned out yesterday to approve overwhelmingly a $1.25 million bond issue aimed at preserving about 125 acres of open space along the city ridgelands.

The victory followed a similar $2.25 million bond issue approved by San Rafael voters Sept. 19. Still to come is a Nov. 7 vote countywide on a proposal to create a regional park district in Marin.

Of 1,820 voters who went to the polls, 1,327 — or 72.9 per cent — voted to tap their wallets for open space, while 493 opposed the bond issue. The turnout was 48.7 per cent of the city's 3,735 registered voters.

Vernon Perry, city financial consultant, has estimated bond payment initially will increase the city's tax rate about 27 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. The rate now stands at 73.5 cents.

With approval, the owner of a $50,000 home will pay an additional $33.75 per year in property taxes.

The city hopes to assemble a 300-foot corridor of undeveloped land running from Bluff Point at the tip of the peninsula to Ring Mountain. Currently, about 400 acres of open land are included in the city's building moratorium area.

According to Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert, the general obligation bonds probably will be offered for sale soon.

He said negotiations with affected property owners will also get under way shortly.

In addition to acquisition, the city council expects to preserve open space on the peninsula through changes in the zoning ordinance and by encouraging clustered housing development.

Vice Mayor Allan N. Littman expressed surprise at the comfortable victory margin. The bonds needed approval of 66 per cent of the voters for adoption.

"Instead of always talking about preserving the hills," said Littman," Tiburon can now actually buy them."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Charges To Be Filed

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Police said today they have enough evidence against Rabbi Meir Kahane, leader of the Jewish Defense League, to file charges accusing him of trying to smuggle weapons abroad for attacking Arab guerrillas.

The results of the two-week investigation have been turned over to the state's attorney, the police said, and Kahane will probably be released on bail Friday after being charged. He has been in jail since Sunday.

Word on the Kahane case — there was no indication what the charges would be — came as his office said there would be no comment on the JDL's role in the bombing of a Palestinian office in Paris.

Philippine Tribunals

MANILA (UPI) — The Philippine government announced today that two newly-created military tribunals will meet in a few days to try seven civilians, including a suspected Chinese narcotics syndicate mastermind, and more than 50 military men for violating martial law regulations.

The tribunals, which were formed on orders of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, will be "meeting in a few days," according to information secretary Francisco S. Tatad.

At his regular news briefing, Tatad also announced that one Roman Catholic nun and eight priests, including Rev. Cornelio Van Beek Lagerway of the Netherlands, who were arrested last week, had been released after they "pledged active support to the various government moves" following Marcos' martial law proclamation.

Pot Raid At Nike Site

PALMDALE (UPI) — Army detectives raided a Nike missile site in the mountains north of Los Angeles, arresting 19 soldiers on charges of possessing or smoking marijuana.

The raid yesterday followed a two-week investigation by an Army undercover agent who was assigned to the post as a soldier to ferret out drug users, military spokesmen said.

The raid was carried out by agents of the Criminal Investigation Division from Ft. MacArthur in San Pedro, according to an information officer there.

The men were from Battery A of the 4th Missile Battalion of the 19th Artillery Group, posted at a site on Mt. Gleason, he said.

Euromart Rejected

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — The Labor Party's annual rank-and-file conference today rejected British entry into the Common Market on terms negotiated by Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative Party government.

It called on the next Labor Party government to try to negotiate better membership conditions and, if it failed, to submit the issue to the British people in a referendum or general election.

Britain is scheduled to become a Common Market member Jan. 1.

Space Age Anniversary

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today marked the 15th anniversary of the launching of the world's first earth satellite — the dawning of the space age.

Soviet news media for days has been heralding the anniversary with articles and interviews, but none has given the slightest hint when the next major Soviet space spectacular can be expected.

The Soviets have not sent a man into space since three cosmonauts died aboard their Soyuz II craft June 30, 1971, after nearly 24 record-breaking days in space. Scientists said death was due to a sudden depressurization caused by a mechanical flaw.

Drug Ads Criticized

CHICAGO (UPI) — John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, complained today that drug advertising has encouraged the American public to develop a "take something" syndrome of pill-taking.

"From sunrise to closing benediction in the late evening, the American public is bombarded on radio and television by catchy little jingles, cute sketches and somber warnings, offering drugs and medicines to cure most little symptoms of real or imagined illness — or to provide escape from reality," he said.

Ingersoll told the National Association of Retail Druggists annual convention that "the average medicine cabinet gives testimony to the success of this mass media campaign. And the rows of bottles and vials of pills and tablets are a sad commentary on a society that once was noted for its ability to endure hardship in seeking its destiny."

Two Killed In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — The bodies of two men apparently killed by Northern Ireland's back-street assassins were found in Belfast today. A bomb touched off outside a crowded bar ysterday injured 30 persons.

Police found the body of a hooded man in a predominantly Protestant area of Belfast. He had been shot through the head.

Across town in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls area the body of another man, shot in the face and neck, was found. Neither was identified.

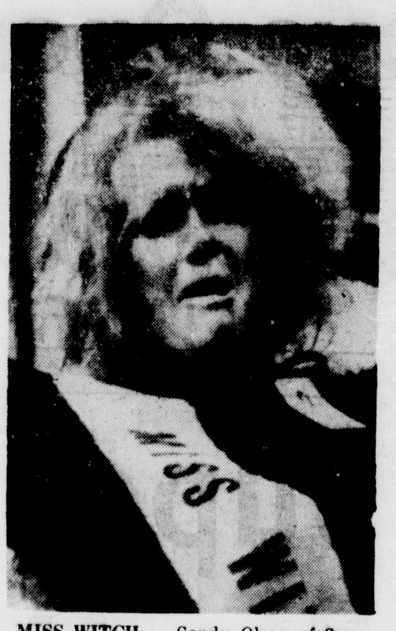

Selection 'A Shock'

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Anker Jorgensen said his selection as Denmark's new premier "came as a bit of a shock but somebody has to do the job so I accepted.

"They didn't give me much time to think it over, in fact less than five minutes," Jorgensen said.

Premier Jens Otto Krag resigned abruptly yesterday at the end of a speech to the new parliament. Krag said Jorgensen was his personal choice for premier.

The choice must be approved by the Social Democratic party's executive board. Then Jorgensen can present his credentials to the queen.

MISS WITCH — Sandy Olson of Springfield, Ill., reacted accordingly yesterday after being chosen "Miss Witch of 1972" at a service club contest in her town. Mrs. Olson, disguised as "Bad Bertha," will reign over Halloween celebrations in the town square.

Bus Monopoly Suit Is Filed Against G.M.

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York City today filed an antitrust suit against General Motors Corp. charging that the giant automaker has monopolized the manufacture and sale of public transportation buses.

The suit asks the court to force GM to divest itself of enough manufacturing facilities to restore effective competition and seeks triple damages for what it alleges were excessive prices paid by the city for buses.

It charges that GM has a monopoly of the bus market, which has resulted in excessive prices for the vehicles. It further states that the lack of competition has allowed the corporation to neglect significant improvements in its products.

GM has acquired all competitors in the field and consequently stifled competition, becoming the only domestic manufacturer of buses used for local public transportation, the suit says.

Mayor John V. Lindsay announced that the suit, filed in Manhattan federal court, was a class action on behalf of all cities in the country which have bought buses for public transportation.

No other municipalities participated in the suit, however.

A spokesman for the mayor's office said the suit marked the first time a local government has asked divestiture of facilities by a major corporation.

However, Corporation Counsel Norman Redlich said the federal government sued GM on similar grounds in 1956 but settled that case nine years later without compelling the automaker to give up any of its manufacturing plants.

He said all previous actions of this kind have been initiated by the federal government.

Storm Cuts U.S. Bombing; Command Silent On F111s

SAIGON (UPI) — Typhoon Lorna cut U.S. bombing raids over North Vietnam to their lowest level in a month Tuesday. The U.S. command declined to say whether the controversial but weather-immune F111 fighter-bombers flew any of the reduced missions.

Military spokesmen said the typhoon swirling off the North Vietnamese coast limited U.S. warplanes to 120 strikes above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams, the fewest since Sept. 3. But the spokesmen would not say whether the radar-directed F111s, one of which crashed last week from unknown causes on its first combat mission, flew through the storm.

In South Vietnam, Communist troops Tuesday cut the two major food routes leading to Saigon in what military spokesmen said could be a move to isolate the capital before the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential elections. But both highways were open again today and the U.S. command ordered at least 21 B52 bombers to drop more than 650 tons of explosives on suspected North Vietnamese positions within 35 miles of Saigon.

The U.S. Command also threw 28 fighter-bomber missions against Communist positions in the 11-province area surrounding Saigon known as Military Region III. Pilots reported destroying six bunkers. The command said 225 strikes were flown by American airmen throughout South Vietnam in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, 159 of them in the far northern quarter.

The $15 million swingwing F111 crashed Thursday, the day 48 of the sophisticated jets arrived for their first missions in Indochina in four years. The two-man crew is listed as missing. F111s were recalled from the war zone in 1968 when three went down due to apparent mechanical flaws.

While the controversy over the F111 continued, the U.S. Navy ordered the nuclear-powered carrier USS Enterprise back to Vietnam duty and its planes flew strikes in both North and South Vietnam Tuesday, spokesmen said. The Enterprise, based at Alameda, Calif., had not been on duty in the war zone since Jan. 24, the Navy said.

Spokesmen also said the guided missile light cruiser USS Oklahoma City, flagship of the U.S. 7th Fleet, fired on targets just below the DMZ Tuesday. The vessel knocked out two "enemy emplacements" and destroyed a large bunker, spokesmen said.

A U.S. Command communique indicated no major damage was inflicted on targets in North Vietnam Tuesday. A spokesman said yphoon Lorna was downgraded today to a tropical storm, moving north in the Tonkin Gulf and that it could be presumed that air action had increased over North Vietnam today.

U.S. spokesmen in a delayed report said today Communist gunners outside Saigon Monday shot down one American helicopter and riddled two others. Three crewmen were slightly wounded in the incidents. The choppers were fired on near Ben Cat, 27 miles north of Saigon in Binh Duong province.

Investigation Sought On Terrorism Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee has called on the Pentagon to investigate charges that U.S. servicemen routinely murdered South Vietnamese civilians suspected of Viet Cong activities, many of whom might have been innocent victims of faulty intelligence.

The subcommittee said in a classified report, obtained by UPI Tuesday, that the Defense Department knew of the charges involving a counter-terrorism program, called Phoenix, but had failed to investigate.

The report said 20,587 suspected Viet Cong infrastructure members were killed under the Phoenix program from the beginning of 1968 through May, 1971, and "it is impossible not to wonder how many of those persons were the innocent victims of faulty intelligence."

The report by the Foreign Operations and Government Information subcommittee, based on almost two years of hearings and investigation in Vietnam questioned the "serious moral considerations of U.S. support for a program that allegedly included torture, murder and inhumane treatment of South Vietnamese civilians."

However, the parent Government Operations Committee appeared ready to kill the report through inaction. A Sept. 17 meeting to consider the report was called off, and only a handful of members appeared for a Tuesday meeting, preventing a quorum.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich. charged a "complete double cross" by both Republicans and Democrats to prevent the report from being approved.

"It would seem that here in the eighth year of the Vietnam war, we would want to get this thing out," Conyers said. But he added it was "clear that Congress wants to rationalize this whole damned thing."

Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., subcommittee chairman, promised another effort to get the report through the full committee next week. He said he had been assured that if he could guarantee a quorum, another meeting would be called.

Drinking Police Will Be Helped

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Robert Colville, Pittsburgh police superintendent, announced Tuesday his department is establishing a program to help policemen who have drinking problems.

"An officer has been assigned to full-time duty to counsel members of the department with drinking problems," Colville said. "He will confer with the officers and their families and advise them of the various agencies which can help them."

The officer assigned to head the program, Colville said, was an alcoholic who "licked" the problem 10 years ago through Alcoholics Anonymous.

Ex-G.M. Head Urges Fight On Alcoholism

NEW YORK (UPI)—James M. Roche, retired chairman of General Motors, called Tuesday for an all-out community effort to fight alcoholism.

Industry can help identify alcoholics, he said, "but we are not equipped for the extensive treatment of alcoholism."

China Lashes Superpowers In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— For 66 minutes, Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Chiao Kuanhua accused both "superpowers" of deluding the world on disarmament and of meddling. But he launched his heaviest criticism against the Soviet Union.

The United States found Chiao's speech before the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday "fairly moderate" but Soviet delegates who listened sullenly to a tongue-lashi ng aimed mostly at them had no comment.

"By Chinese terms, it was a fairly moderate speech," said Ambassador Christopher H. Phillips, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation. "It contained no surprises."

While some delegations surrounded Chiao to congratulate him on his speech, Ambassador Yakov A. Malik and his Soviet delegation left the hall without a word.

The United States did not come off unscathed.

Declaring staunch support for North Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia and calling for U.N. action to restore Prince Norodom Sihanouk to power in Cambodia, Chiao called on Washington to accept the peace terms laid down by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

"At present," he said, "the people of the whole world, including the American people, strongly condemn the U.S. government for its wanton bombing, mining and blockading against the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and resolutely demand that it immediately stop all its acts of aggression against Vietnam and the whole of Indochina and withdraw all the armed forces of the United States and its followers, so that the peoples of the three Indochinese countries may solve their own problems independently, free from any foreign interference."

The assembly's annual policy debate, due to end next Wednesday, went on today with 10 smaller nations scheduled to be heard.

The youngest governor of Oklahoma was J. Howard Edmondson, who took office in 1959 at the age of 33.

Tomales Sewage Warning Issued

Marin County supervisors were warned yesterday the Regional Water Quality Control board is poised to issue a cease and desist order against the community of Tomales for pumping raw sewage into Key Creek. (Another supervisors story, page 1)

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney told supervisors the regional agency has given the county 60 days to begin corrective action or the town "may be shut down."

Maloney said the order was directed to the board of supervisors since it is the legislative body for Tomales Sewer Maintenance District, which has assets totaling $1,300.

While acknowledging the funds wouldn't go far toward improving the community's sewage problem, the board directed the department of public works to use the money in planning some corrective action.

One possible solution would be a community septic tank to replace the ancient sewer line running directly to Key Creek near Shoreling Highway.

APPOINTMENT —Appointed Gerda Endemann of Larkspur, a senior at Redwood High School, to the county's youth commission. One vacancy remains on the commission from Supervisor Louis H. Baar's Fourth District. Interested youths living in Baar's district may contact him.

ALCOHOL — Approved a contract with the state which will provide $151,500 in state funds for the county's comprehensive alcoholism program. The program, approved in August by the board, will expand rehabilitative services for alcholics.

CONTRACT — Approved a $14,190 contract with the Marin Aid to Retarted Children. The group will provide respite service for families of mentally retarded children.

AGREEMENT — Approved an $8,990 contract with Rafael Convalescent Hospital for treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

AIRPORT — Approved a $15,000 contract with the planning and engineering firm of Wilsey and Ham of Foster City for consultant services on the Gnoss Field master plan. The county will pay $5,000 and the federal government the remainder.

CULVERT — Awarded a $22,946 contract to the Albay Construction Co. of Martinez for installation of a culvert along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard west of Inverness.

ASSETS — Accepted the county's annual "balance sheet" from Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell showing total assets, minus liabilities, as of June 30 at $38.7 million — an increase of $3.6 million over the preceding year.

DRUG — Approved a contract with Center Point drug treatment center for a $95,000 drug treatment and education program. The program is funded primarily by state funds. No county money is involved.

HOTEL — Agreed to delay abatement of the historic Olema Hotel until Dec. 26 to allow the owner to conclude negotiations with a group interested in preserving the old building.

MERIT — Authorized a $511 per year merit increase to John Kottage, a junior civil engineer in the department of public works. Kottage, who earns $984 per month, has been on special assignment to the county counsel's office working on court cases.

ZONE 9-A — Scheduled Oct. 31 for a public hearing on the dissolution of the Ross Valley Flood Control Subzone 9-A, which was created for creek maintenance. Taxpayers became disgruntled when an attempt was made by the county to use the subzone for financing capital improvements. They asked it be dissolved.

CINTURA — Authorized changing the name of Cintura Avenue in Lagunitas to East Cintura and West Cintura avenues.

LAS GALLINAS — Rejected a request to redesignate Las Gallinas Avenue in San Rafael Meadows to another name.

IGNACIO — Authorized changing the name of Entrada Drive in Ignacio to Enfrente Road between Ignacio Boulevard and Entrada Court.

SAN PEDRO — Authorized changing the name of San Pedro Road to North San Pedro Road between Ranchitos Road and Biscayne Drive and to South San Pedro Road between Biscayne Drive and Embarcadero Way.

POINT REYES — Rejected a request to change the name of Point Reyes-Petaluma Road in West Marin.

TIBURON — Authorized changing the name of Tiburon Boulevard to Redwood Highway Frontage Road between adjacent northerly and southerly sections of the frontage road.

FERN — Rejected a request to change the name of Fern Road in Kentfield.

CREEK NATURALIST — Adopted a job description and salary range for creek naturalist, a new position requested by the Novato Flood Control Zone board. The post, which will enforce codes and ordinances regulating waterways in the district, will have a salary range of $984 to $1,195 monthly. The salary is included in the district's current budget.

CABLE TELEVISION — Agreed to send a representative to a hearing by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee in San Francisco Oct. 17 on state regulation of cable television.

AMBULANCE CONTRACT — Continued until next Tuesday recommendations from the Comprehensive Health Planning Council on physical qualifications for ambulance firms instead of one.

CRIME LAB — Reaffirmed support of a proposed centralized crime laboratory in response to written comments from Dr. John Manwaring of the Marin Medical Laboratories questioning some aspects of the program. Michael A. Chrystal, principal administrative analyst, told supervisors his staff had studied the comments and do not believe they warrant any changes in the proposed crime lab.

ECOLOGY CENTER — Approved a one-year contract with the Marin Ecology Center, Inc. with the county paying $5,000, matched by the National Ecology Foundation. The issue was continued from last week when supervisors asked for additional information.

RECYCLING PROJECT — Was informed that officials of Survival, Inc. have withdrawn their request to contract with the county for a four-month demonstration project in the Department of Social Services to determine the feasibility of recycling all county waste paper.

REDEVELOPMENT — Characterized the City of San Rafael's plans for redevelopment projects as "the beginning of an erosion of the Marin tax structure," voted 3-1, with Robert A. Roumiguiere dissenting and Louis H. Baar abastaining, to instruct County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to attend the city's public hearing on its plans Oct. 26 and make known the county's stand.

BART Crash Probe Expanded

FREMONT, Calif. (UPI)—An investigation into the crash of a Bay Area Rapid Transit train will be expanded to cover all safety measures of the system.

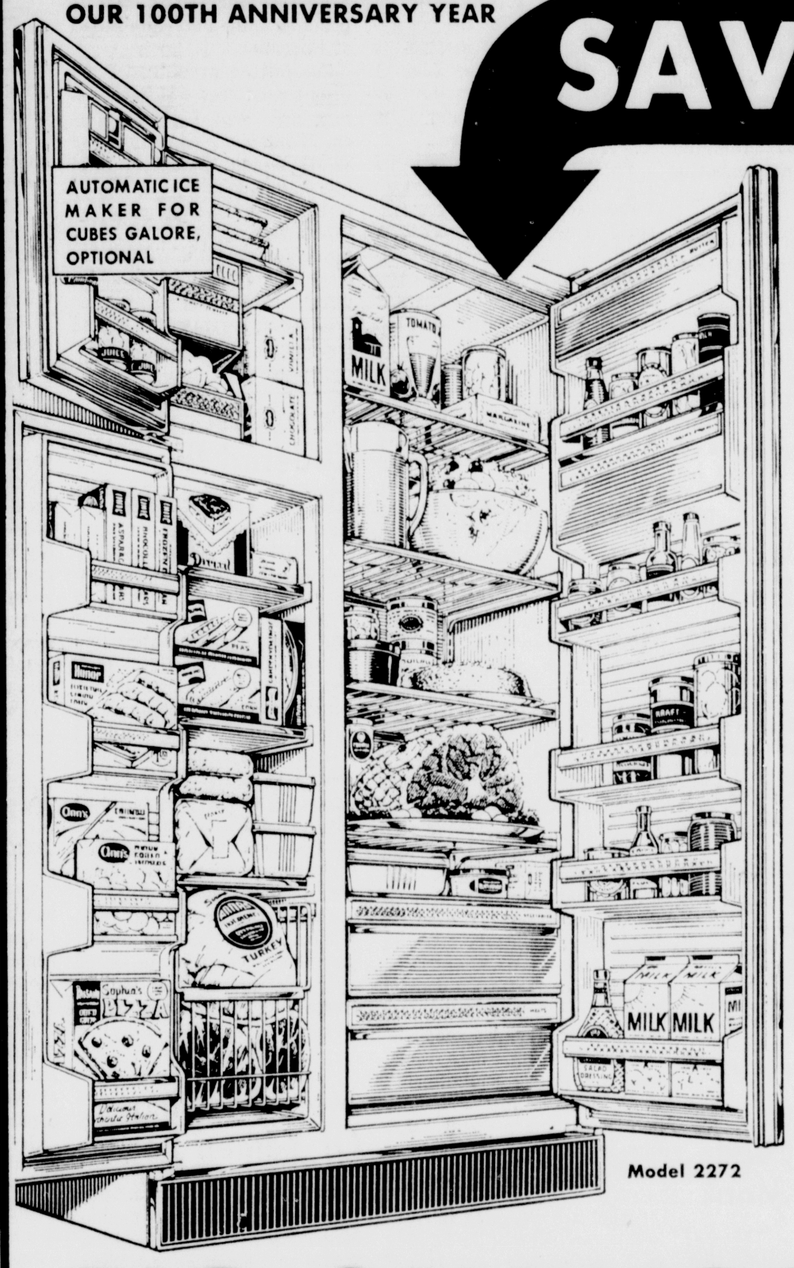

The California Public Utilities Commission said Tuesday its investigators will join federal and BART officials looking into the crash which injured five persons Monday.

While the probe will focus on the accident, the commission said, the investigation would encompass "the automatic train control system of BART and all other safety appliances and procedures of BART."

of a project must be established by the county, he said, adding Marin's Environmental Protection Ordinance — still on the drawing boards — may serve as a guide.

The county's 11 cities — like counties and cities throughout the state — are similarly affected by the court's ruling in the same manner.

San Rafael, for instance, already has placed a ban on building permits pending decisions on which projects in the city have trivial impact and which have significant impact.

(For the reaction of Novato's city council last night, see story, page 46)

Officials in Fairfax, San Anselmo and Larkspur anticipate major impact, with the latter's city manager, Kent B. Bathhurst, saying the first project likely to be affected is the 240-unit Larwin apartment development atop Bon Air Hill for which a building permit is being sought.

Sausalito City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr said no building permit will be issued pending advice of the city attorney.

Other cities' officials said they would continue issuing permits pending clarification of the court ruling.

"It's getting so people can't even use their property because of all the nuts running around saying it's going to change something," brooded Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

"Why not go back to the Legislature which created this monster (Environmental Quality Act) and get it revoked or changed?" he asked.

"I doubt the Legislature will do anything to overrule the supreme court," responded Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who added it would be premature to approach the Legislature (now in recess) since all implications of the ruling are not known.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, though saying he was distressed by the prospect of bringing all economic growth in the state to a halt, said the decision could be lived with.

Environmental impact reports on major projects "could be what the county wanted anyway," he added.

New Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere sided with Baar, urging emergency legislation to end the threat of unemployment to "thousands, if not hundreds of thousands of people."

In response to questions from Carl Brown of the Redwood Empire Builders' Association, the board agreed not to block building permits this week to those who already have won county approval for their projects.

On a motion by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, the board agreed to a list of staff suggestions for complaince with the court's ruling.

The list directs the staff to prepare a procedure for apportioning costs of environmental reports to applicants; prepare environment reports on the proposed countywide plan, balanced transportation program and agricultural rezoning; review the county's capital improvement plan for projects requiring environmental reports; and review ordinances for necessary changes to comply with the new ruling and develop standards to judge environmental impact.

The board, meanwhile, will make findings on each item as it comes up as to whether it may affect the environment and will direct the planning commission to do likewise, subject to appeal to the board.

At Baptiste's suggestion, the board also agreed to use several of those projects now pending as prototypes for establishing procedures for environmental impact reports.

Among items delayed at least two weeks were the Martinelli Farms development plan for 68 homes near Point Reyes Station, a land division appeal from Donald Walters of Tamalpais Valley, a land division appeal on the Menzio property in Tamalpais Valley, the county's proposed grading ordinance, rezoning of lands along Merrydale Road in San Rafael Meadows, and amendments to the countywide open space plan.

Work Projects On Highway 101

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow were announced today by the State Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. The southbound inside lane between Marin City offramp and Rodeo Avenue closed from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for trimming shrubs.

2. The middle southbound lane on Richardson Bay Bridge closed from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for welding.

No. 2 Ex-Wife To Pay No. 1 In L.A. Ruling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge has ordered the second ex-wife of Gerald Paul Glickman to pay his first ex-wife $8,852.80 in alimony and child support.

Court documents showed the decision Tuesday stemmed from a unique arrangement in which the second ex-wife and Glickman agreed to the payments in exchange for the divorce between Glickman and his first wife.

Glickman later married and divorced Mrs. Glickman No. 2.

Mrs. Glickman No. 1 sued Mrs. Glickman No. 2 because her former husband was considered "uncollectible."

A court spokesman said Glickman now lives with his mother.

Concert Fracas Leads To Fines

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Three members of the rock group Jefferson Airplane, including lead singer Grace Slick, were fined Tuesday on charges stemming from a disturbance at a concert here Aug. 21.

Miss Slick and guitarist Paul Kantner, both formerly of Marin, had been charged with assaulting a police officer but were allowed to enter guilty pleas to a lesser charge of obstructing an officer. Both were fined $50 and given suspended 30-day jail sentences.

Equipment manager Charles Cassady was charged with profanity. He pleaded no contest, was found guilty and fined $15 plus court costs.

Record Applied To Wrong Man

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in stating that Larry David Adams, 22, of Marin City, was convicted of a burglary in Santa Rosa April 15 and previously served 60 days in jail.

That information applied to a codefendant, Keith James Jackson, 19, of San Rafael, who was arrested with Adams and Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of San Francisco, outside Le Cambert restaurant in Tamalpais Valley last November.

Each pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count of attempted burglary and Jackson was ordered to serve 60 days in jail. Adams and Stringer were given 15 days Friday after a judge noted they had clean records.

Three Arrested After Shooting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three Chinatown youths have been arrested as a result of a shooting attack on a car.

Police said the incident was part of the continuing feud among youthful Chinatown gangs.

Seven shots were fired into a car shortly after midnight Monday. Two youths suffered minor injuries.

Strep Infections Lead Disease List

Streptococcus infections headed the list of communicable diseases reported last week to Marin County health authorities. There were 79 cases, 35 of them in Novato.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, said 21 cases of gonorrhea also were reported, along with three of syphilis, two of infectious hepatitis and one of mumps.

PLAN

Bay Area forecasts that indicated that Marin would be home for about 364,000 persons by 1990 under so-called "free market" conditions.

The larger population might make it easier for the countywide plan to meet most of its goals, the committee said. A comparison was written by Philip K. Buskirk and Glen Smith of the committee.

Buskirk and Smith warned that the limited population "would tend to" reinforce Marin's present trend toward a one-class, higher-income commuter society, with high costs of land development driving out the young wage earner and the retired person.

It would be harder to develop efficient in-county transit, the auto would continue to be king, and fewer new businesses and jobs would develop in Marin with the lower population.

However, Buskirk and Smith said, the lower figure would place less pressure on open space and the environment.

The "free market" population would "tend toward" new businesses and new jobs in Marin, better transit, more social and housing diversification and a smaller percentage of commuting by Marin residents, the economic study predicted.

The study agreed that the larger population would make it harder for the countywide plan to realize its open space and environmental goals, but argued that development would provide a larger tax base for local governments to meet all their needs.

Consultant McDonald warned that if the board of supervisors and Marin's 11 cities adopt the countywide plan, they would have to make "a commitment" to the housing mix and other policies to make them come true in the face of pressures imposed by limiting development.

"What are we going to do if, in 1978, we find that the housing goal (diversification) is not being met. Permit conversion of open space areas?" McDonald asked. "What if the countywide open space district passes," but no countywide review agency to oversee development is accepted by the county and cities, he questioned. "What if we don't get the buses" to replace the autos, he also asked.

The questions will be among many raised at tomorrow's hearing on the countywide plan, to be held by the City-County Planning Council. The session will begin at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chamber.

Elderly Homeowners Can Have Tax Break

Homeowners age 62 or older have until Oct. 16 to file claims for senior citizens property tax assistance, according to state controller Houston I. Flournoy, chairman of the franchise tax board.

To qualify, homeowners must have a total household income of less than $10,000. Claim forms are available from any office of the Franchise Tax Board or by writing to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento 95807.

Camper Stolen While Owner Eats

A Los Angeles County man who left his keys in his Volkswagen camper while lunching yesterday at the Octopus Restaurant on Redwood Highway in Novato found his vehicle gone when he came out.

Novato police said the 1967 vehicle bearing license plate AEU010, was stolen at about 2:45 p.m. from Ryan Herz of Woodland Hills.

Save Schools Group Completes $27,000 Pledge

The Petaluma Save Our Schools Committee turned over its last check last night, completing its promised $27,000 contribution to the Petaluma Board of Education.

Committee president Dona Cook turned over a $1,000 check to schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer. The group pledged to raise $27,000 to help the district keep schools off double sessions and to keep Grant School open.

The bulk of the funds were turned over to the school district in June, but late pledges were received and last-minute fund raising events were staged last month to reach the goal.

Park, Rec Work Ordered In Dope Charges

Two persons arrested after a sheriff's deputy became suspicious of a license plate have pleaded guilty to misdemeanor drug charges and been ordered to work five days for a park and recreation department.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court reduced felony marijuana possession charges against Barbara Gail Cohen, 24, of Forest Knolls, and Alvah Sheldon Howard, 22, of no fixed address, and placed them on probation for a year on condition they do the work.

They were arrested Sept. 8 by a deputy who stopped to investigate one license plate wired over another on their van on North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

More Shelling Of Yemen Border

BEIRUT (UPI) — Southern Yemen forces shelled Yemen border towns Tuesday despite a Southern Yemen government request for a cease-fire, Yemen Information Minister Ahnihl Dahmash said.

In a dispatch from Sana, capital of Yemen, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) quoted Dahmash as saying Tuesday: "South Yemeni forces are still shelling the cities of (Yemen) along the border despite the fact Democratic (Southern) Yemen has requested a cease-fire."

He said the total killed in a Southern attack on the border town of Qataba was more than 100 with hundreds more wounded.

De Fremery Guitar Concert Monday

A concert of Renaissance, classical and Spanish guitar music will be given by Phillip de Fremery at the Cafe Ambrosia in San Anselmo on Monday at 8 p.m.

A native of Marin, de Fremery is currently on his third nationwide concert tour. He was recently appointed to the faculty of the State University of New York at Purchase. He graduated from San Francisco Conservatory of Music in 1970.

Explosion Triggers Blaze In Brooklyn

NEW YORK (UPI)—An explosion ripped through a commercial building in Brooklyn early today, triggering a five-alarm blaze that spread through 10 other structures, including occupied tenements.

At least 19 persons were injured, including six members of a family trapped briefly when their tenement collapsed. The fire department said all were rescued safely from the ruins.

OBITUARIES

Jerry C. Fowler, 16, Dies

Jerry C. Fowler, 16, of Petaluma, died yesterday at a local hospital after becoming ill at his home Monday.

Fowler was found unconscious by his mother after he returned home from school Monday. The Sonoma County Coroners Office said death was apparently due to natural causes. An autopsy was planned.

Fowler was the son of Jerry W. and Elia Fowler, 757 Bodega Avenue. He was born in Chula Vista and was reared there and in Petaluma. He was a junior at Petaluma Senior High School and had won academic honors on several occasions.

Fowler was active in boy scouting for many years and had been scheduled to receive the Eagle Scout award soon. He had lived in Petaluma for five years.

He is also survived by a sister, Cindy May Fowler; two brothers, Eddie and Ronnie Fowler, all of the family home; and two grandmothers.

Feb. 25 - "Wildlife Safari to Ethiopia," by Jeffrey Boswall.

April 8 - "Twentieth-Century Wilderness," by Tom Sterling.

Arrest On Gun, Robbery Charges

Leroy Raymon Quintana, 29, of 7 Rebecca Way, Novato, was arrested by San Rafael police last night on suspicion of armed robbery and being a felon in possession of a firearm.

Quintana was arrested at Third and Tamalpais streets during a scuffle with three men.

The men — Carl Hodges, 32, and Thomas Carl Rathes, 21, both of 227 Paloma Avenue, San Rafael, and Michael McNulty Scroggins, 24, of 321 Paloma — told police that Quintana threatened them at gunpoint and demanded their wallets.

Quintana was booked into Marin County Jail. No bail was set pending an appearance today in Marin Municipal Court.

Moore To Speak At High School

Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for state Assembly from the seventh district, will speak before Rohnert Park students at 1 p.m. tomorrow on the need for reform in the Legislature.

He will address social science classes at Rancho Cotate High School.

Also, a buffet - dance will be held in Moore's honor from 8:30 p.m. Saturday at Novato Community House. Reservation may be made at Moore headquarters at 1380 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Funeral will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

MABLE MILLAR

She is survived by three sons, Kenneth and Donald Millar of Walnut Creek and Allan Millar of Houston, Tex.; a daughter, Lois Carr of Walnut Creek; 18 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Heart Fund or a favorite charity.

HENRY REYNAUD

Henry Reynaud, 73, of Petaluma, an automobile dealer, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

He was born in San Francisco and moved to Mill Valley in 1906 and to Petaluma in 1910. He formerly lived at 226 Liberty Street.

Reynaud had owned the Reynaud Motor Co., Santa Rosa, since 1940. Prior to that he had an Oldsmobile dealership in Petaluma.

Reynaud attended the University of California at Berkeley.

He is survived by a son, Henry Reynaud Jr. of Petaluma; a daughter, Jeanne Chaffin of Oroville; a brother, Leon Reynaud of Santa Rosa, and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

YOLANDA MENTJOX

Yolanda Mentjox of San Rafael died today in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 56.

Mrs. Mentjox was born in Italy and came to this country about 42 years ago, living in Marin since that time. The family home is at 29 Meadow Drive.

She was the wife of Cornelius Mentjox, a roofer.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Guy Robinson of Novato; two sons, Cornelius Mentjox Jr. of Novato and Nat Mentjox of San Anselmo; a sister, Ireme Romanin of Ukiah and a brother, Nat Romanin of Colorado, and seven grandchildren.

Private funeral will be Friday in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

SAM SMOOT

Sam Smoot, 82, Petaluma rancher and real estate broker, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

He was born and reared in San Francisco and worked 25 years for the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. Smoot then went into the dairy business and owned ranches in Bloomfield and Bolinas.

Smoot moved to Petaluma in 1946 and had been a real estate broker for many years. He lived at 19 La Cresta Drive.

Smoot was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge, Rebekah Lodge, Petaluma Lions Club, past president of the Petaluma International Folk Dancers Club, past president of the Petaluma Riding and Driving Club, past president of the Petaluma Kiwanis Club and Tomales Grange. He had also been active for many years in planning the annual Old Adobe Days Fiesta.

Smoot is survived by his wife, Alberta; a daughter, Patricia Nilson of Aptos; and a grandson.

Funeral will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be private.

The family prefers contributions to the Sonoma County Heart Association.

Syria Weapon 'Buildup': No Alarm

By The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The alleged increase in the supply of modern Russian weapons to Syria appears more important in terms of political propaganda and prestige than in any military sens.

This wuld seem to be true for the four countries concerned: America and Israel on one side; Russia and Syria on the other.

The U.S. and Israel have been sending cold shivers down their own spines, and those of others who go along with their view, with the claim that this new Russian move increases tension in the area.

But two factors produce an air of disbelief here in this thesis: the factual basis for alarm is flimsy. It rests in part on reports quoting "Arab diplomatic sources" in one Beirut newspaper which is well known for being pro-West to the extent that it is banned in Syria. The paper headlined an "Air Bridge Between Odessa and Damascus," which turned out to consist of just four Antonov transport planes. (Israeli sources say the airlift delivered up to 20,000 tons of military equipment.)

Beyond casual references to MIG 21 planes and SAM 3 missiles, no details of the arms have been provided. And the crucial fact that the airlift ceased after a couple of days went unreported.

The second factor is that it must be recognized that what Russia is, perhaps, now doing in Syria is precisely what America has been doing openly in Turkey for 25 years and for five years semisecretly in Syria's other neighbor, Israel. That is, supplying weapons and training.

Despite talk of a newly developed Russia "threat," Russian naval ships, in fact, have enjoyed port facilities at Latakia and Tartus in Syria for some years now. Furthermore any arms that the Russians are supplying to Syria are no better, and certainly less numerous than those the Egyptians had.

And, finally, reconnaissance planes over the eastern Mediterranean were not and will not be any real threat to the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Any such Russian planes would have to operate from Syrian airfields several hundred miles east of their former Egyptian bases, thus reducing their effectiveness. For Israel, it is said here, the threat is a new pretext for not making peace, nor withdrawing from the occupied Syrian Golan Heights. Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon promptly drew this same conclusion.

Syrian SAM 3s and MIG 21s will be a threat to Israel only if she attacks Syria. Apart from spoiling raids Israel is unlikely to make a large scale unprovoked attack on Syria because Israel already has all the Syrian territory it wants.

Nor is the presence of increased numbers of defensive Russian arms likely to provoke Syria into attacking Israel, the reasoning goes. It did not do so in the case of Egypt. For Russia, the talk of Moscow "moving in" on Syria is a tremendous propaganda boost, a geopolitical counterthrust that almost makes up for the expulsion from Egypt.

And she has achieved this without incurring any additional risk of being dragged into a Middle East war. With two Communists in the Syrian cabinet, Russia may feel closer to Syria than she ever did to Egypt, but no one now expects Russia to go to war for any Arab country, however leftist.

As for Syria, an increase in its defensive strength is naturally reassuring, but not all that important, not unless it decides to allow the Palestinian commandos to operate into Israel from Syrian territory, a step that would probably bring on an Israeli counter-attack. Syria is being very accommodating toward the Palestinians, but the number of incidents on the Golan Heights has not notably increased.

But as the favored friend of Russia in the eastern Arab area, and with some new Russian arms to prove this point, Syria's political prestige is increased far more than its military potential. Hence, for instance, Syria's President Assad can claim that on his recent visit to Moscow, he was playing the middle man between Russia and Egypt.

U.S. And Panama Head For A Confrontation

By JAMES N. GOODSELL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Panama and the United States appear headed toward some sort of new confrontation over the status of the Panama Canal.

The long-simmering dispute surrounding ownership of the 60-year-old waterway flared anew this month as Panama's newly elected Assembly voted unanimously to demand that the Panamanian Government spurn the nearly $2 million that Washington pays annually to use it.

The demand was merely an expression of the Assembly's opinion — and has very little real force since the Assembly lacks any genuine legislative powers. Yet the vote cannot be taken lightly.

Viewed against the background of the growing dispute between Panama and the United States over the canal, the vote is bound to strengthen the hand of Panamanian strong man, Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera, who has ruled the Isthmian nation since he seized power in October, 1968.

Although the new Assembly, which was elected in early August, is widely seen as a rubber-stamp instrument in the hands of General Torrijos, it does represent Panamanian opinion, which is increasingly nationalistic in tone.

Moreover, the vote on the Panama Canal was the very first aciton of the new Assembly as it convened, evidence of the importance of the canal in Panamanian thinking.

The actual text of the Assembly document is interesting. It asks "the entire world" to take note that the canal and the 500-square-mile zone surrounding it "has not been purchased or conquered or annexed or ceded or rented or its sovereignty transferred by the Republic of Panama to the United States."

When the United States entered into treaty arrangements with the new Panamanian nation just after the turn of the century, the treaty governing the canal and the zone gave the United States control of the area and permittej it to act as if it were sovereign in the area — but did not give it sovereignty.

There is little doubt that sentiment for a transfer of control of the canal to Panamanian hands has been growing in Panama ever since the riots of January, 1964, which resulted in the breaking of relations between the two nation.

Those relations were resumed only after protracted negotiations in which the United States promised to make a number of unspecified changes in the status of the canal and the zone surrounding it.

Those changes have yet to be made.

At the moment, the United States retains control of the canal and zone in much the same fashion as it did 60 years ago when the canal went into operation. There have been some minor changes, such as the hiring of an increasing number of Panamanians for jobs in both running the canal and administering the zone. But the basic question of who controls the United States-built canal has not changed.

General Torrijos is expected to use the recently passed legislative motion to make new demands on the United States when talks on the future of the canal resume sometime after the November election in the United States.

For its part, Washington appears divided on the whole issue. The State Department, representing the views of the administration, wants to work out a new accord with Panama.

Convicted Landlord Draws $15,000 Fine

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Paul S. Cooper, 41, first landlord convicted of breaking federa rent controls, Monday was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay $15,000 in civil penalties.

"The greatest deterrent" to other landlords "is the psychological impact of prosecution," noted U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson. Cooper was convicted of making false statements to the government about rent increases at the apartment complex he owns in Hollywood, and of taking "retaliatory actions" against the tenants who aided the government.

Society Of Artists Sets Show

Paintings, graphics, sculpture and crafts by members of the Marin Society of Artists, many of them award winners, will be shown at the 45th annual art exhibition of the society opening Friday at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

A reception and award presentation at 8 p.m. in the Frances Young Gallery will open the show which will continue through Oct. 29.

Regular daily hours will be from 1 to 4 p.m. with the gallery closed only on holidays.

Art for the exhibition was chosen from almost 300 entries by a panel of artists and instructors.

Winners of $100 merit awards are Tony Williams, painting; Nelcy Tarics, graphics; Gayle Luchessa, sculpture, and Janet McNinch, craft.

Show Cause Hearing Set For Sta-Power

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court judge has ordered the state to show cause why an order banning Sta-Power Industries from selling gas and oil distributorships should not be lifted.

Sta-Power is a San Rafael-based company belonging to the corporate empire of millionaire William Penn Patrick of Tiburon.

Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., attorney for Sta-Power, seeks in superior court here to set aside the ban. A state hearing officer ordered Sta-Power last month to stop selling distributorships unless it registers them with the state.

Superior Court Judge Byron Arnold set a show cause hearing for tomorrow.

Week's Mail May Decide Inquiry Fate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —This week's mail deliveries to a handful of congressmen may determine whether the Watergate affair will be aired in a public investigation before the Nov. 7 presidential election.

The House Banking Committee Tuesday rejected a proposal to launch a full-scale investigation of the financial entanglements brought out by the June 17 break-in at Democratic National headquarters.

But committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., and other committee leaders said they expected public opinion to force a turnaround in enough votes to allow the investigation to start next week.

Neither the civil nor the criminal trials in the case could begin before the election, and the only other possible investigation would be by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Administrative Practices and Procedures subcommittee.

A spokesman for Kennedy said the idea of an investigation was not dead, but "we are about where we were," he said, presumably meaning there was little chance a probe would be started before Congress adjourns in about two weeks.

Patman wanted his committee to authorize a look at the flow of money into the Nixon campaign fund coffers, where it came from, why some of it was transferred through Mexico, and whether any of it was used for illegal acts.

Patman said the negative committee vote was engineered by the White House.

Warning On Disease In Dogs

Owners bringing dogs to Marin from Atlantic or Gulf Coast states are advised to have the pets examined by veterinarians for canine heartworm disease.

A spokesman for the Marin County Veterinary Medical Association said that in those states, where mosquitoes are numerous, dogs could be suffering from the potentially fatal disease without showing symptoms.

The association suggests that armed forces personnel recently stationed in Southern states, other residents arriving from the South and owners of hunting dogs shipped into Marin from that area get their dogs examined.

The disease is transmitted only by mosquitoes, and its incidence is increasing throughout the nation, the spokesman said.

Minimum Wage Hike Hopes Are Dimmed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House backers of an increase in the minimum wage had only a minimum of hope today they could get Congress to approve the boost if it carries out its plan to adjourn this month.

However, efforts were under way to force a post presidential election session to complete action on the measure, which remained sidetracked following a key House vote Tuesday.

The House rejected for the second time in as many months an effort by Democrats to send House representatives to a conference with the Senate to work out a compromise measure.

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats voted 196-188 to reject the conference move claiming Democratic conferees were ready to "sell out" to the more liberal Senate passed measure. The House voted 198-190 on Aug. 1 to refuse to go to conference.

In yesterday's vote, Don Clausen R-First District, voted against, and William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, did not vote.

The House bill would raise the federal minimum wage for covered workers from the present $1.60 an hour to $1.80 two months after enactment and to $2 one year later. The Senate bill would increase the minimum to $2 one year after enactment and to $2.20 a year after that.

Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., leader of the effort to go to conference, said he would urge Speaker Carl Albert to arrange for a post election session of Congress to consider a new move.

"If we adjourn for good as planned on Oct. 14, then the bill is dead," Dent said. Earlier Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said "the fate of this bill will be decided today for this session of Congress."

The chief point of contention was not the wage increase itself but a provision in the House bill backed by Republicans to allow youths under 18 and full time students to work for less than the minimum wage. The Senate had no such provision.

"This is a sellout of the worst kind by the Nixon administration to the conglomerate restaurants, the McDonald chain, the Kentucky Fried Chicken people and the Toddler Houses," Dent told UPI. "They want cheap labor, to put back youth labor at full time work at a sub minimum wage."

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., arguing for the "youth differential" said it would put high school dropouts to work "and provide jobs for the age group with the highest unemployment, the teens." He said without the provision "youths will turn to crime in increasing numbers, to pushing heroin.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON WHITE'S HILL

A 34-year-old banker from Contra Costa County died last night when his speeding car (left) crossed the center line on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard on White's Hill, according to the California Highway Patrol, and crashed into a truck whose driver had swerved to try to avoid the collision. The force of the 11 p.m. crash tore off the rear axle of the truck (right). Dead of a massive skull fracture was James Donald Williamson of San Ramon, an officer in the international office of the Bank of California. He was the 29th traffic fatality in Marin County this year, compared to 25 by this time last year. The truck driver, Eugene J. Sky, 35, of Phillipsville, Humboldt County, was not injured.

EXPERIMENTAL PROGRAM

Body And Mind Awareness

By PATRICIA PERRY

In the late 1960s College of Marin students chose subjects like "U.S. Imperialism in Latin America," for their own experimental studies program.

Last year they resurrected the alternative learning project after a two-year interval and opted for subjects like yoga, first aid and organic eating.

This year, according to student Mike Augusto, director of the college's experimental studies program, "most of them are into body and mind awareness."

So in the 1972-73 school year, students are going in for massaging each other for the sheer pleasure it gives, lurking behind trees and "leaping forth to startle and amaze" and indulging in the sometimes strange activities of intensive group experience.

The experimental program is a far cry from what students were interested in five years ago, said Robert Flynn, faculty advisor.

"Then it was highly weighted towards political issues and analysis; we had courses on Marxism then. Now people want to learn things that they can use for personal growth. That's where the force is now — mind and body awareness."

Funded by Associated Students with a $400 budget, the experimental studies program is directed by Mike Augusto. It's not designed to replace any courses offered by the college, rather it's an alternative educational experience; no credit or grades are given.

Classes are held in the afternoons or evenings, with a maximum fee of $2 per session. Class subjects evolved naturally, with people who liked the idea of teaching something volunteering their services.

"Classes can be taught by he who desires to share any gifts acquired in the life process," said Augusto.

Typical of the gift sharers are Michael Wilson of Mill Valley and John C. Strange, who are running "The Society of St. Andrew Field Project and All-Star Review."

Anyone who joins their class on Mondays and Fridays at noon in room B of the college center can expect to "perform an amazing variety of bizarre things before the student body of College of Marin, lurking behind trees and under mushrooms, leaping forth to startle and amaze."

It will be a homegrown version of guerilla or street theater, with impromptu performances springing up all week long on campus. Wilson and Strange, who have worked with Bay Area travelling theaters, hope to work up a Mummers' Troupe and intend to recruit singers, dancers, actors, jugglers and musicians.

Two kinds of massage classes are also offered. Sensory massage taught by Jeffrey Hyland on Wednesday evenings will emphasize technique. Students will need a one-inch foam pad, oil and may wear loose fitting trunks.

"Massage for Hedonists" taught by Rose Collet on Wednesday afternoons, will be purely for pleasure, as the title explains. The massage will be out of doors mostly, and students need a pad, oil, and a blanket or sleeping bag.

Other classes designed for body awareness include body aesthetics, yoga postures and dance stretches, two kinds of karate, kundalini yoga, flamenco dancing, experimental movements, belly dancing and "effort-shape movement analysis."

Totally new to the college scene are two classes on intensive group experience, to be taught by Paul Broadman of San Rafael. Director of the Intensive Group Workshop in San Rafael, Broadman offered to set up the classes himself, said Flynn and Augusto.

The borchure states, "To participate, you need only have a willingness to take risks."

However, Augusto said he foresaw no problems in students participating in the course - "group leadership is a big thing now in the business world."

Other classes include conversational Italian, chess, fabric collage, astrology, tarot, jazz, improvisational theater, pantomime and biblical accuracy.

"The classes are very informal," emphasized Augusto, "and aren't restricted to students - we welcome community people of any age. And there isn't any enrollment or registration. All that's needed is to show up at a class."

Pair Awarded Damages In Mayday Arrest Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal judge has awarded $9,000 in damages to two persons arrested in the 1971 Mayday anti-war demonstration in Washington, saying the rights of citizens must be safeguarded "particularly in times of stress and strain."

The men, Peter Roberts and Dennis Lieberman, were among 7,000 persons arrested in Washington on May 7 during the massive demonstration at the time of the U.S. incursion into Cambodia.

In the course of the suit, the District of Columbia argued that the demonstrations presented police with an emergency situation.

"The court does not feel that it should take into account in any way the circumstances prevailing in the community at that time," U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said in his ruling Tuesday.

"The constitutional protections that are available to citizens of this country are protections which must be zealously safeguarded and the appropriate time to safeguard them particularly is in times of stress and strain.

"They were not protected here by the authorities and there is nothing in the circumstances of the arrest which led the court to feel there was an emergency condition confronting the police at the point where these arrests were made that would in any way have justified the conduct of the police officers."

Roberts and Lieberman, Labor Department employes, were arrested at a downtown intersection although they said they showed identification and were on their way to work.

Of the 13,000 persons arrested in massive police sweeps during the week of Mayday demonstrations, only a few were ever brought to trial.

Bending Money

MASERU, Lesotho, Africa (UPI) — Maseru police have warned Lesotho residents against accepting 20-cent (26 cents U.S.) coins circulating in the country. Police said the forged money was easy to spot: "The coins are more or less pliable."

Actor's Widow Sues Over Death

DENVER (UPI) — The widow and two children of former film star Audie Murphy have filed a $10 million lawsuit against the owners of an airplane that carried the actor to his death in a Virginia mountain crash.

Mrs. Pamela Opal Lee Murphy filed the suit Tuesday against the Colorado Aviation Co., Inc.; American Western Plastics Corp.; Telestar, Inc., the holding company that controlled both firms; Michael Fitzgerald, president of the plastics firm and Telestar, and the estate of the plane's pilot, Herman Butler.

Butler, secretary of Colorado aviation, was one of six men killed when the Beechcraft Aero Commander crashed May 28, 1971, on a flight from Atlanta, Ga., to Martinsville, Va. The plane had flown to Atlanta from Denver to pick up Murphy.

Resort Owner Files To Void Rezoning

The owner of the Marin Town and Country Club in Fairfax yesterday filed suit to invalidate an initiative ordinance the town not only hasn't applied, but apparently doesn't intend to.

Max Friedman asked in Marin Superior Court for an order forbidding the city from enforcing an April 11 ballot initiative that rezoned the old resort from commercial to a zone which allows only private recreational facilities.

But City Atty. Wallace S. Myers subsequently questioned the validity of rezoning by ballot box and the town council began public hearings to make the change by council vote. A final hearing is slated for Oct. 24.

Until the council acts, City Administrator Robert E. Crowe said he considers the 26.8-acre recreation area zoned commercial and will probably advise the town council not to fight the suit during a closed session Tuesday.

Friedman's suit, filed by attorney Bryan R. McCarthy, contends "zoning legislation is not a proper subject for initiative action" and points out that in its notice of public hearing mailed out in August the town said the property was zoned commercial, not commercial recreational.

The suit claims that if the recreational commercial zoning is enforced, it "deprives plaintiff's property of all reasonable value."

If the council approves an ordinance embracing the same purpose as the initiative, McCarthy told the Independent-Journal Friedman will sue again.

The ballot vote on Friedman's land was forced by a citizen group which began circulating a petition after Friedman announced plans last year to sell his property to an Oakland firm planning apartment development.

Friedman canceled the plans under heated public opposition and reopened the swimming resort April 15.

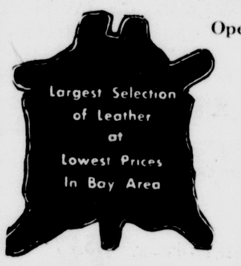

The resort owner, however, has continued to fight the recreational rezoning which McCarthy called "taking of his land for public park purposes without paying him compensation under the law."

Friedman has claimed the resort is no longer profitable.

Uranium Mining

DENVER (AP) — Uranium mining began in Colorado during World War I when radioactive samples were taken from Uravan on the Western Slope to Paris for Madame Curie's famous experiments.

RAYMOND LUCE

Oakland Boy, 4, Kidnaped; Hunt Is On

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Four-year-old Raymond Luce was pedaling his plastic tricycle Monday and Connie Melson, 3, played nearby just 200 feet from the Luce family home.

As Connie tells the story, a black man wearing an orange shirt stopped his brown car and ordered Raymond to "get off that thing."

Judy Luce, 22, was at home when Connie ran inside and shouted, "Raymond's gone with a man!"

The young mother ran to the street. All she could find was Raymond's plastic tricycle.

About 50 Oakland police searched the middle-class neighborhood while helicopters combed nearby hilltops Tuesday in what inspectors said was a suspected kidnaping.

"We're worried ... we're really worried," said a police officer as the search failed to turn up any clues to the whereabouts of the blue-eyed, blond-haired youngster.

"We're just praying we get Ray back without him being hurt," said his father, Ralph Luce, a truck driver.

"I would like to make an urgent plea," Luce said over television Tuesday night in an appeal to the person who took his son.

"If he is released unharmed I will not file any charges or sign any complaints against him.

"I'm not a man of means but if it's money he wants I'll even try to get that for him."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said it had offered all its facilities to help Oakland police and FBI agents sat in on police briefings.

Registered sex offenders, motor vehicle license records and other files were combed for some clue, police said.

Pigskin Found Effective As Burn Treatment

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Pigskin that can be kept in cold storage has been found by Army doctors to be as effective as skin from cadavers in treating burn victims.

Dr. Paul Silverstein of the Army Institute of Surgical Research at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., told the American College of Surgeons Monday that skin taken from a cadaver within 24 hours of death was still the best burn dressing.

But because of the limited availability of cadavers, short storage time and the danger of transfer of viral infections, other dressings were sought.

Pigskin could be frozen for later use, he said, but this was not the case with cadaver skin.

Senior Disputes Drug Statistics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Riordan High School's senior class president has released a survey which disputes testimony about narcotics given by a classmate to a congressional committee.

Lou Colzani, the president, said Tuesday his survey showed that 10 per cent of the seniors used marijuana on a regular basis, not 85 per cent or 95 per cent as classmate Jim Griffin told congressmen.

Colzani surveyed all of the senior class and reported that 55 per cent had tried marijuana at least once while the rest had not.

Camera Store New Bus Ticket Agent

Strawbridge's camera and stationery store has become the new agent for commuter bus tickets in Mill Valley, replacing the bus depot bookstore across Lytton Square.

The stationery store at 86 Throckmorton Avenue signed a contract yesterday with the Golden Gate Bridge District, which provides the bus service.

According to the district's transportation developer, Jerome M. Kuykendall, the district has signed a month-to-month agreement with the stationery store giving the ticket seller a 5 per cent commission on sales.

He said he does not anticipate moving the ticket agency back to the bus depot, but that such a shift would be possible if the district felt it was in the best interests of Mill Valley.

The depot's contract to sell tickets was canceled recently because its proprietor, Janice Aronoff, was violating district policy by splitting up commuter books, selling individual tickets and keeping the extra money, according to H. Donald White, bus transit manager for the district.

Kuykendall told the Independent-Journal yesterday that he would not establish a second ticket agency in the Miller Avenue business section, as requested by the Mill Valley City Council Monday night.

"If we put two agencies in Mill Valley, we'll get calls from Sausalito, Tiburon and Corte Madera asking for new ticket agencies. Pretty soon we'll have 60 agencies and I'll have to hire three men just to keep track of them all."

"Agencies are an expense which we want to keep to a minimum," said Kuykendall.

As a public agency, he said, the district has an obligation to cut its costs and keep its fares as low as possible.

For similar economic reasons, Kuykendall rejected a suggestion that the district sell individual tickets.

"Selling individual tickets is just another added cost," said Kuykendall. "We would rather operate on a cash basis."

Mufflers Are Major

ROLLO, Mo. (UPI) — The design improvement of mufflers to alleviate noise pollution is a major area study at the Rolla campus of the University of Missouri.

Innocent Plea To Assault On Sausalito Policeman

Tommy Lee Walker, 27, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to felony counts of assaulting two men, including a Sausalito policeman, after a misdemeanor count of battery on a Fairfax officer was dismissed in another case.

Judge Robert A. Smallman dismissed the battery charge after Walker admitted disturbing the peace during an altercation with Sgt. Melvin Dollahite in Fairfax in June. In that case, Smallman sentenced Walker to work 60 hours for a park and recreation department.

Walker then moved to the court of Judge Peter Allen Smith where he denied assaulting Sausalito officer Robert Klein and a hitchhiker. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 17.

Walker was arrested Sept. 28 after he allegedly hit John W. Randolph, 27, of Mill Valley, in the 3000 Block of Bridgeway, then hit Klein. The officer was hospitalized with a concussion, broken nose and cuts after arresting Walker.

A former convict who spent much of the last 10 years behind bars, Walker has been speaking to groups and classes throughout Marin about prison reform.

Taxes Catch Up With Numbers King

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)— Legendary numbers kingpin Joseph "Newsboy" Moriarty has been ordered by a federal court judge to pay more than $1.5 million in back income taxes.

U.S. District Court Judge James. A. Coolahan issued the judgment against Moriarty Tuesday. U.S. Attorney Herbert J. Stern, whose office represented the Internal Revenue Service in the case, said the money represented unpaid federal income taxes for the years 1960 and 1961.

Palo Alto Policeman Is Fairfax Candidate

A 34-year-old Palo Alto policeman is among three candidates for Fairfax's long vacant post of police chief, the Independent-Journal has learned.

Sgt. Frank Benaderet, a 12-year veteran of the Palo Alto force, yesterday confirmed he was one of three candidates recommended for the post by a screening committee last Sept. 19.

Benaderet said he didn't wish to make any further comment.

City Administrator Robert E. Crowe would neither confirm nor deny reports that Benaderet was among three candidates he interviewed for the post on recommendation by the screening committee.

Crowe had earlier confirmed a report that Fairfax's acting Chief of Police Charles A. Grasso was among the three candidates, saying it was a matter of public information that Grasso had applied for permanent status.

Crowe said he would present his evaluations of all three candidates to the city council in closed session at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall. Under the town code, Crowe is charged with making a final recommendation, to be either ratified or rejected by the council.

Crowe said he did not know whether or not the council would make a choice at tonight's special meeting.

To qualify for the post, the council has ruled that a candidate must have logged at least 10 years police experience in the state, including six years as sergeant or above. A prospective chief must have two years of college training or its equivalent, hold an advanced Police Officers Training Certificate, and hold at least 90 police officers' educational points.

Both Grasso and Benaderet reportedly meet these requirements.

Fairfax has lacked a permanent chief of police since James R. Orr was fired last September.

Suicide Aid Center Gets New Life

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center can survive for another six months because of a grant received this week, according to Executive Director Richard H. Reuben.

He said yesterday that the Babcock Foundation has given the center $6,000 in a grant that runs from October to April.

An earlier grant of $5,300 from the San Francisco Foundation was contingent upon the center's receiving the Babcock gift, Reuben said.

Until long-term funding is obtained, such as through the county's Community Mental Health budget for state Short-Doyle funds which the center hopes to get for 1973-74, it will continue to depend on grants and community contributions, he said.

Although the center has been in precarious financial condition, crisis calls received there have increased from 50 a month to more than 300 a month in a year's time, Reuben said.

He said Marin's suicide rate is second only to San Francisco in the nation and there had been 36 suicides by mid-August this year.

Marinship Development Study To Council; Hearing Scheduled

A preliminary planning study of Sausalito's Marinship area and recommendations on how to facilitate future development of the area were presented to the city council last night.

The proposal by Sasaki, Walker Associates calls for public access to the Marinship waterfront, a major street parallel to Bridgeway from Napa Street to the north city limits, and a major parking facility in the area.

The council did not discuss the 11-page study but scheduled a special meeting for Nov. 2 to consider it.

The planning firm also recommended that streets and utilities required for further development of Marinship be created as soon as possible. The improvements, estimated to cost $2.3 million, could be financed through an assessment district or a city redevelopment agency.

The Marinship area lies east of Bridgeway and north of Napa Street. It encompasses 275 acres, including 130 acres of partially submerged or submerged land. Approximately 100 acres of the land is available for private development.

The proposal suggests the city move to acquire needed rights-of-way for the streets and utilities.

The planners recommended continuous access to the Marinship waterfront and said a system of access should make it possible for people to walk, bicycle and generally go anywhere they want along the waterfront.

"This does not necessarily mean the entire waterfront must be a public park," the report stated. "There are many uses such as yacht harbors, restaurants, hotels and water-oriented commercial uses where access to the water is open to the public.

The study also calls on the city to maintain the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks as some form of public transportation corridor leading from the downtown area to the northern parking lot. The form of transportation to be used in the corridor is not delineated.

The lot, which would be financed by the city's parking authority, would provide commuter parking for the ferry, visitor parking to avoid downtown congestion and parking to support future Marinship development. It would cost between $1.3 and $2.5 million.

The firm also recommended that the council:

1. Provide money to update engineering and planning studies for Marinship and make plans for financing of the recommended improvements, including contacting property owners to see if they are willing to join the proposed assessment district.

2. Seek a consultant to prepare a revised master plan for the area, along with guidelines for uses to be permitted in Marinship.

Silver Dollars May Be Taxed

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The Nevada Tax Commission is studying whether it should put a tax on the sale of silver dollars, known as "car-twheels."

Tax Commission executive secretary John Sheehan said Tuesday the dollars are legal tender and thus exempt from taxation.

Commission member Howard Winn said the dollars that casinos and coin shops sell for $2 and $3 each makes the car-twheels "personal property" and should be taxed.

Smith Paintings Are On Display

Oil paintings by Margaret B. Smith of Kentfield will be on display at the San Rafael City Library until Nov. 4.

Mrs. Smith, a member of the Marin Society of Artists and the Society of Western Artists, has shown her works throughout Marin.

Ford Says Protectionist Bill Has 'Catastrophic Potential'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II Tuesday called for the defeat of protectionist legislation now pending before Congress and said it has a "catastrophic potential" to backfire on the U.S. economy.

Ford told the French Chamber of Commerce that the legislation, aimed at protecting American business firms from foreign competition, could actually cause more unemployment and result in higher prices for the American consumer.

The measure, the Hartke-Burke Foreign Trade and Investment Bill, has little chance of being passed in its present form, but it represents a very real threat, Ford said. It would cut annual purchases from the Common Market by about $2 billion a year, imports from Japan by another $2.5 billion and cost Canada about $3.5 billion in business.

The Hartke-Burke bill "would destroy the whole fabric of international trade and investment," he said. "It would eliminate the multinational corporation as an effective contributor to economic growth in the developing nations as well as in the developed nations."

Ford said it is a false assumption to think that jobs for Americans can be increased by restricting imports. The Hartke-Burke bill would cut imports by about 25 per cent from the 1971 level and countries whose exports to the United States are cut "could and surely would retaliate against U.S. import quotas," he said.

"The end result would probably be a reduction in jobs in U.S. export industries at least equal to any job gain in the U.S. industries that compete with imports," Ford said.

"American workers would be no better off and American consumers would be worse off because they would have to pay higher prices for a limited range of purchases."

State Funding Tied To Cotati Bonds Passage

The Cotati School District board heard last night that voters must approve a $400,000 bond issue before state funds can be available to build a new school.

Schools Supt. James H. Davidson said the board met with Jack Swoboda and Robert Oldham of the State Department of School Finance. The men said $600,000 in state funds are available for Cotati to build its needed 15-classroom school, estimated to cost $1,000,000, but that local bonds must be approved before the district can become eligible for state aid.

Davidson said the board directed the district finance committee to meet next week and determine when a bond election should be held.

Construction Site Lumber Is Stolen

Lumber worth $337 was stolen from a construction site at 27 San Marcos Place, San Rafael, contractor Ronald William Kelly told police yesterday.

Kelly said the theft took place Monday night.

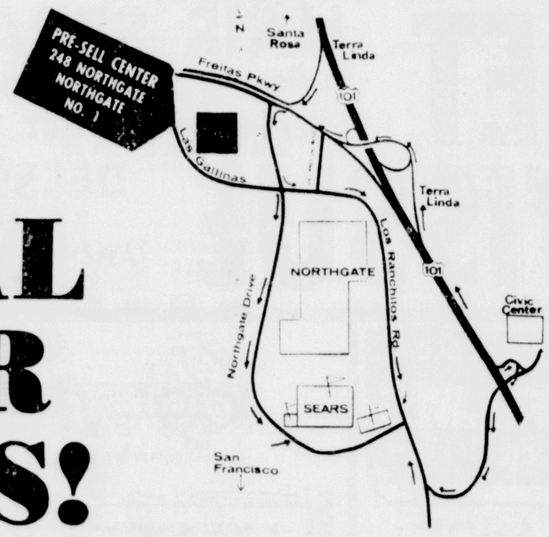

Search Off For Missing Pair

The Coast Guard has called off a search for two persons who apparently drowned in a fishing tragedy Monday at Tennessee Point, southern arm of Tennessee Cove on the Marin coast.

Cindy Carver, 18, of San Pablo, fell 20 feet into water while fishing from a ledge, and James Southerland, about 45, also of San Pablo, tried unsuccessfully to rescue her.

Miss Carter's brother, Larry, threw a line toward the couple but was unable to reach them. Coast Guard boats and a helicopter searched unsuccessfully for the pair.

Sausalito Moves To Protect Land Buyers

For the second time in two years, the Sausalito City Council has moved to provide protection against fraud for buyers of property in the city.

The council last night approved first reading of an ordinance which would require a seller of residential property to provide a prospective buyer with a record of any city action which would affect use of the land.

The intent is to give the buyer greater assurance the property he purchases can be used for the purpose he intends. The doucment will detail any past actions of the city which might curb future use of the property.

An almost identical ordinance was rejected in November 1970 after City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr told the council the cities of Tiburon and San Anselmo had reported that similar regulations in their communities were proving unenforceable.

The council gave no indication as to why it decided to revive the proposal. The only dissenting vote was by Councilman Sally Stanford.

Violations of the law will be infractions, punishable by a $500 fine.

"I certainly think the people who buy property in this community deserve this kind of protection," said Mayor Robin Sweeny.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

IMPROVEMENTS — Was told that property owners representing 61 per cent of the privately owned land in the downtown, slightly more than the percentage required, have agreed to an assessment district to finance long-awaited improvements to downtown Bridgeway, including sidewalk widening. The council agreed to consider formation of the district at its Oct. 24 meeting.

MEETING — Scheduled its next meeting for Oct. 24, since three councilmen will be out of town on Oct. 17, its regular meeting date. The council also adjourned to Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. when it will resume discussion of the Golden Gate Bridge District's plans for a proposed ferry terminal in Sausalito.

PIER — Awarded the contract for repair of the city's municipal fishing pier to Healy Tibbits Construction Co., whose low bid was $8,300.

LIAISON — Appointed Robert Clark to serve as the city's liaison to the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

TRIP — Agreed to pay $836 for the recent trip to Washington, D. C., by mayor Robin Sweeny and Councilman Stephen A. Fraser to plead for inclusion of Wolfback Ridge in the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area. Mrs. Sweeny said a $2,000 grant from the Sausalito Foundation had not been used to pay the cost of the trip, but for a part-time lobbyist to push for placement of the idge in the park.

NEW POSTS — Approved job descriptions for the new positions of building inspector-zoning administrator and assistant city planners.

RAILROAD — Asked the city attorney and city staff for reports and recommendations on a proposal from the Sausalito and Richardson Bay Railroad Co. to establish a narrow-gauge railway on the abandoned Northwestern Pacific Railroad line running through the city. The council will consider the proposal further at its Oct. 24 meeting.

PERMIT — Approved a request from Golden Gate Bridge District for a 90-day extension of its conditional use permit to operate a ferry in Sausalito. The extension is to permit the city and the bridge district to reach agreement on the district's plan for a Sausalito ferry terminal. A terminal is a condition of the use permit.

SUIT — Rejected a $150,000 claim by Arthur Ring, who asserted he was illegally evicted with police assistance on March 10, 1971, from his residence at 106 West Street, and refused to waive the 90-day time limit for such claims against the city. The council was unmoved by the explanation of attorney Robert Plath of San Francisco that the 18-month delay in filing was the fault of one of his employees.

Sausalito Wants State Help In Parking Problems

The Sausalito City Council last night asked the state Legislature for help in solving the city's growing problem of commuters and visitors who park on residential streets, leaving no room for those who live there.

The council passed a resolution asking that the California Vehicle Code be amended to permit local cities to grant some form of "preferential parking privileges" on the streets for residents and their guests.

"How are you going to tell the difference between the guest of a resident and a tourist or commuter?" asked Councilman Sally Stanford.

Mayor Robin Sweeny, who proposed the resolution, admitted she did not yet know how any legislation along these lines could be enforced. "We may have to try several methods if the legislature approves our request," she said.

The San Francisco Board of Supervisors recently passed a similar resolution in response to the problem of Marin residents who drive to San Francisco, park in residential neighborhoods, then take the bus downtown, Mrs. Sweeny said.

Bidding War Opens For Rome Colosseum

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fausta Vitali, a real estate agent, was on her way to Rome today with a certified check for $10,000, to be offered as down payment on the Roman Empire's most imposing ruin—the Colosseum.

Financier Thomas Merrick, 57, wants to bid for it, saying he will pay $1 million for the ruin to save it, hoping to attract another $1 million to pay for much needed repairs.

Warsaw Visit Set By American Priest

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Cardinal John Krol, an immigrant Polish couple's son who rose to become a priest of the Roman Catholic Church and Archbishop of Philadelphia, will travel to Warsaw next week. He will be the first American Catholic prelate to make an official visit behind the Iron Curtain since World War II.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

TODAY'S A PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY? Everybody should know that! But did you know October 4 also is the birthday of a U.S. President's wife? Born in Leesburg, Tenn., she was Eliza McCardle, daughter of a shoemaker. At age 16 she was courted and wed by a tailor named Andrew Johnson, who could neither read nor write. She taught him his ABC's. This started him on a political career which led to the presidency. Mrs. Andrew Johnson was a grandmother by the time she became the First Lady. (P.S. Don't forget good old Rutherford B. Hayes. Today is his birthday, too.)

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

1. CHARLTON HESTON, movieland's adventure hero, is 48 today, looking as fit and firm of jaw as ever. He returned to the U.S. screen after completing a new film version of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," which he rehearsed in England and filmed in Spain. In Hollywood, Heston was head of the (A) Rose Bowl Committee; (B) Screen Actors Guild; or (C) Surf and Swim Club.

2. BUSTER KEATON, famous for his deadpan comedy in a score of feature films, was born 77 years ago today. Along with Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy, he continued making movies even after "talkies" killed the silent techniques. Although he died in 1966, Keaton is noted for his Civil War epic: (A) Birth of the Nation; (B) The General; or (C) Gone with the Wind.

3. FREDERIC REMINGTON, who lived only 48 years, left America a heritage of great paintings and illustrations. Born on Oct. 4, 1861, in Canton, N.Y., he took up art and became famous for his real-life sketches of mid-19th Century people picturing (A) soldiers and Indians; (B) immigrants in New York; (C) bathing beauties.

ANSWERS

1. B (Screen Actors Guild); 2. B (The General); 3. A (soldiers and Indians).

(Send local birthdays to Birthday Editor, Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902, at least four days before the date of the birthday. Include name to be published and telephone number of sender; print legibly.)

South Was Afraid Of Ruff, But It Was His Best Chance

"How could you possibly take that risk?" asked East. "Weren't you afraid I would ruff the second spade?" "Certainly I was afraid," South replied truthfully. "But it was still my best chance."

FIRST TRICK

The conversation was all about the first trick. South decided not to win the first trick, holding up his ace of spades. This looked dangerous, especially since East had followed suit with the ten of spades.

This hold-up play is used chiefly at notrump, where there is no danger of a ruff. As declarer in this case showed, however, the hold-up is useful also at a trump contract.

West continued with the queen of spades, and this time declarer took the trick. He took a trump finesse, losing to the king of hearts, and held his breath.

NO MORE SPADES

Fortunately, East had no more spades. The hold-up play had run East out of spades, as a result of which he couldn't return that suit.

No matter what East did, South could regain the lead, draw the rest of the trumps and take a club finesse. East would get the queen of clubs, but declarer would eventually discard his last spade on one of dummy's clubs.

South lost only one spade, one trump and one club, making his contract.

SOUTH LOSES

It is easy to see that South would lose the game contract by winning the first trick. He would next lose a trump finesse, and East would be able to return a spade. West would take two spades, and East would later get a club trick to defeat the contract.

Aerospace Raise To Be Appealed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal court ruling which allowed a 12.5 per cent wage increase for about 100,000 aerospace workers will be appealed by the Justice Department.

The department filed notice of appeal Monday with the temporary emergency court of appeals set up in the District of Columbia to handle wage-price guideline cases.

Earlier, the Pay Board disallowed a portion of the aerospace workers' contract which gave them a 17-cent cost of living allowance in addition to a 34-cent wage increase for a total package of 51 cents an hour, or a 12.5 per cent increase in the first year of the contract.

Anti-Theft Steps Taken At Schools

The Fairfax School District Board last night learned that steps are being taken to discourage thefts at district schools.

The glass in the office complex at Deer Park School has been replaced with reinforced plastic and school equipment will soon be bolted down, according to Gwyneth McGee, district secretary.

She said the action comes in the wake of the theft of three typewriters and an adding machine from Deer Park School over the past several months. Thieves gained entry by smashing glass in the office complex, she said.

She said the board decided to investigate various types of burglar alarm systems available for installation at district schools. The matter will be considered at the Oct. 17 meeting, she said.

The Fairfax School District board also:

LAB — Learned that a University of California science lab van would visit the district this year.

ENROLLMENT — Reported enrollment this week was 968 students, one less than last week.

READING — Learned that students enrolled in the reading program at Manor School have shown good progress.

PROPERTY — Decided to allow a homeowner on Glen Drive to buy a 20-by-100-foot strip of White Hill School property which adjoins his lot.

HEATING — Learned that a faulty heating line at Deer Park School has been corrected.

ATHLETIC FIELDS — Decided to establish rules and regulations for use of district athletic fields. The fields have been used for horseriding, motorcycling and golfing in the past.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:45 p.m. Oct. 17.

Jury Won't Tour Sylmar Blast Site

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The jury in the Sylmar tunnel explosion trial will not personally examine the tunnel as planned, because of fears it bores through a dangerous reservoir of oil and gas.

They will see movies of the tunnel instead.

Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. and three of its employes are on trial for alleged violations of safety regulations at the tunnel, where 17 members were killed in an explosion last year.

Municipal Judge George W. Trammell III changed his mind Tuesday about a personal tour of the tunnel by jurors, following protests from defense lawyers that it would be unsafe. Two defense lawyers said they would refuse to enter the tunnel.

"We believe, based upon some studies that have been made, that there is what is called a high pressure reservoir of oil and gas in that tunnel," attorney David Finkle told the judge in a hearing in Trammell's chambers.

"That tunnel is literally in a shallow oil field ... what holds the gas back may simply be a membrane that could give out at any time."

Defense attorney Karl Ransom told the judge that he and attorney Douglas Dalton would refuse to enter the tunnel, according to the transcript on the hearing in chambers.

"Based on what we have heard since our last visit to the tunnel, we have been to that tunnel for the last time," Ransom said.

Rise Expected In Birth Rate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state Department of Finance says the number of births in California, which declined more than 32,000 in 1971, is expected to increase within the next two years.

In a report released Tuesday, the department said the trend of declining births continued through June of this year but added:

"It is probable that within a year or two births will again rise, reflecting the ever more favorable (for childbirth) age composition of the population."

Younger: Reinstate The Death Penalty

State Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger came to Sausalito yesterday to advocate reinstatement of the death penalty, praise California's indeterminate sentence system and decry delays in criminal cases.

Younger spoke to about 175 persons at a tea at the Sausalito Woman's Club cosponsored by the Sausalito Police Department.

The attorney general told the group that the state Legislature, which has set punishment for crimes for the past 100 years, is more responsive to the will of the people than is the Supreme Court, which has abolished capital punishment.

He called for the reinstatement of the death penalty, at issue on the November ballot, saying it was most needed as the mandatory punishment for prisoners who kill prison guards.

As for the administration of criminal justice, Younger said, "Delay is the defendant's best case."

The defense can delay a trial for more than a year while key witnesses move away and the memory of the crime grows dim in the public's mind, he said.

He cited a case in Southern California which has been in the courts 14 years, saying emphatically, "That's not justice."

He recommended legislation at all levels to tighten the appellate process.

The indeterminate sentence he called "the best system ever devised," adding that "mostly people in prison don't like it."

Many prisoners prefer a definite sentence, according to Younger, so they can put in their time without making an effort to improve themselves while the indeterminate sentence rewards those who work hard, have a good attitude and learn a trade while incarcerated.

He also said that 50 per cent of those now in state prison are there for crimes of violence.

Lombardo To Appear In Marin

Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians will appear in concert at the Marin Veterans' Memorial Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 18.

Lombardo's show will include old and new favorites, played in the style that has made him famous for decades.

Geraldine Allen Nims, 43, of 94 Washington Novato, arrested Sept. 29 on Highway 101, fined $225 and placed on probation for one year.

Arson Suspect To Get Hearing

A preliminary hearing for a Sausalito man charged with setting fire to his former home in Bolinas has been set for Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Charles K. Post, 28, pleaded innocent Monday.

He was arrested in Petaluma after a chase at 80 miles an hour Sept. 16, two hours after the 19th century Victorian structure at 19 Brighton Avenue caught fire. The house was valued at $58,000.

Post was a volunteer fireman in Bolinas until two years ago.

Bay Area Pipe Band To Perform

The prize-winning Bay Area Prince Charles Pipe Band will present an "evening in the highlands" at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 28 in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building at the civic center.

The four-year-old band was founded by J. Willaim Merriman of Mill Valley and assistant directors are Jack Sutherland of Corte Madera and Trevor Atkinson of Napa.

Special highland dances such as the highland flight and the sword dance will be performed by the band's precision dance team, which includes two Marin high school students, Theresa Reynolds of San Rafael and Erin Burgin of Mill Valley.

Soloists with the band will be tenor James Wright and Richard Lancaster, known as the "Scottish bard."

Tickets for the event are now on sale under the direction of John Hoye of San Rafael.

Chamber Music In Santa Venetia

Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church, will present an evening of chamber music Sunday at the church at 8 o'clock.

Artists in the free program include Joan Smith, soprano; Joe Benson and Marilyn Coyen, oboe; Kathy Conner, English horn; Ed Harris, clarinet; Lynn Mehlinger and Roy Oakley Jr., violin; Delbert Schneider, cello, and Joanne Oakley and Margaret Oakley, piano.

TASTING THE old-fashioned freezer ice cream they are preparing to crank up at their Terra Linda Guild 2 Sweet Shoppe booth at the Grape Festival Saturday are Mrs. Frank Stocking (left) and Mrs. Patrick Tyrell-Smith. They will use Mrs. Stocking's recipe, which she, her children and grandchildren have enjoyed from the wooden freezer.

Old Recipes For Ice Cream Featured At Grape Festival

. "Violet ice cream: remove stems from one small bunch of violets and pound in mortar until well macerated. . . "

The women of Terra Linda Guild 2 of Sunny Hills run the Sweet Shoppe booth at the Grape Festival each year, and they've been researching old ice cream recipes for the crank freezer old-fashioned ice cream they will offer at the Festival Saturday near Marin Civic Center.

In the process, they have come across some old and fascinating cookbooks, including recipes sach as the bunch-of-violets ice cream from 50 years ago. If you wish to experiment with the violet dessert, strain the violets through cheesecloth and add violet coloring. The book suggests that "light purple violets be used and the results will be most gratifying." Cream and sugar and Yvette cordial were the other ingredients.

From the brown and brittle pages of an 1888 church cookbook came the information that ice creams were of two types: Philadelphia ice cream made mainly of sweetened cream, and plain ice cream made from a cooked custard base.

Along with remedies for whooping cough and scarlet fever and directions to make furniture polish, liniment and cold soap, the women found many ice cream recipes.

They tried out the recipes and found it was necessary to adapt them to modern tastes and methods. Because electric freezers were not available in the old days, the ice cream was served soft and melted quickly.

The guild did find an idea that has started them on a specialty item for their Grape Festival booth from a 1919 cookbook — Flowering Ice Cream. It is a flower pot of ice cream with a blooming flower on the top.

One of the ice cream recipes that they will use for hand-cranked freezer ice cream on Saturday is that used by Mrs. Frank Stocking of the guild for her children and grandchildren.

CRANK FREEZER ICE CREAM

5 Eggs
1 Quart cream
2 Tsp. vanilla
2 Cups sugar
Pinch of salt

Beat eggs until thick. Add the sugar gradually, continuing to beat until sugar is well dissolved. Add the remaining ingredients. Put mixture into freezer. Pack ice and rock salt around it and churn until frozen.

Test the recipe at home or try it at the Grape Festival from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

'Shape Cake' Can Shape Up A Party

Shape up your next party with a shape-cake that makes even the ordinary recipe look like something very special.

Shape-cakes are baked in special molded tube pans. Sponge, angel food, chiffon, fruit and butter-type cakes —and even filled cakes —take on the pan's contours with agility, as do most breads and coffee cakes. This kind of pan is made to order for the popular Bundt-type cake mixes as well.

The 12-cup pan is made of thick cast aluminum for even heat distribution that assures best baking results.

For parties, large quantities of molded salads and desserts can be shaped in the shape-cake pan, as can meat loaf, molded ice cream and ice-fruit rings.

DATE-NUT CAKE WITH RUM SAUCE
(16 servings)

1¼ cups butter or margarine
2½ cups sugar
5 eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3¼ cups sifted cake flour
⅔ cup milk
1 cup firmly packed, coarsely chopped, pitted dates (about 12-ounces unpitted)
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts

Rum Sauce

2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup light rum or
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 1-ounce bottle rum flavoring

In large mixing bowl, beat butter and sugar until smooth and creamy. Add eggs, one at a time, blending well after each addition. Stir in baking powder and salt.

Set aside three tablespoons of flour. Add rest of flour gradually to butter-sugar mixture. Gently mix. Add milk and beat until batter is smooth.

In small bowl, mix the dates and nuts with reserved three tablespoons of flour. Stir into batter with spoon.

Grease shape-cake pan generously with two tablespoons softened butter or margarine. Dust pan with flour and shake out excess. Pour batter into pan and smooth top surface. Bake in preheated 325-degree oven for 1½ hours or until cake springs back when pressed lightly in center and begins to pull from pan sides. Cool in pan on rack for 10 minutes.

For the optional rum sauce, combine in small sauce pan the water, sugar and butter. Heat over low heat until mixture reaches a boil. Remove from heat and add rum or rum flavoring.

Invert cake onto large platter. Remove pan and pour rum sauce over cake. Place pan back over cake and allow to stand 10 minutes. Allow to cool before slicing.

Cottage Cheese Dressing Recipe

Tempt tastebuds with cottage cheese dressng.

In a small mixing bowl beat 1½ cups of cottage cheese until fairly smooth. Beat in ⅓ cup chili sauce, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, one tablespoon chopped green onion, one tablespoon lime juice and one teaspoon of salt. Cover and chill.

Use as a dressing for summertime salad arrangements of shrimp, sliced hard-cooked eggs, sliced avocado, radishes, cauliflgwerets, chilled cooked carrots and gouda cheese wedges.

AN EASY ROAST

It's The Season For Pork Dishes

As the days of autumn arrive, so do visions of hearty meals. With pork seasonally increasing in supply, it is an ideal time to try this spiced pork roast with glazed fruit and onions.

Pork loin roasts often are featured as specials during the fall and are easily roasted. To insure the best finished product, use a roast meat thermometer to determine the degree of doneness. Pork should be cooked until it reaches an internal temperature of 170 degrees.

While the spiced pork roast is cooking, prepare the fruit and onion sauce. Orange juice and lemon juice form the sauce base to which prunes, apple wedges and onions are added. The sauce is delicious and a complement to the mouth-watering flavor of pork.

FOR EASIER carving, have the backbone loosened from the rib side of the roast at the market. Then when you take the roast out of the oven, remove the backbone before serving the roast at the table. Place the pork loin roast on the platter with the rib ends up and the rib side of the roast in front of the carver. The carver should slice downward between the ribs for chop-sized servings.

Pork is not only delicious, but nutritious. It is the richest food source of thiamin and provides sizable quantities of other B vitamins. Like all meat, pork is 96 to 98 per cent digestible and provides protein of the highest quality. A three and one-half ounce serving of cooked, lean pork in the form of a loin chop will contain approximately 250 calories.

Serve this spiced pork roast with glazed fruit and onions with buttered broccoli, pear and grape salad, hot biscuits, beverages and ice cream with old fashioned pound cake.

SPICED ROAST PORK WITH GLAZED FRUIT

4 to 5 pound pork loin roast
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup pitted prunes
2 red apples, cut into 6 to 8 wedges
6 to 8 small white onions, cooked and drained

Rub outside of roast with mixture of salt, ginger, mustard, nutmeg and pepper. Arrange pork roast fat side up on rack in shallow uncovered roasting pan. If a meat thermometer is used, insert point to center of lean part of roast away from bone and fat. Bake in a 325 degree oven until meat is fork tender, two and three-fourths to three hours, or until roast reaches an internal temperature of 170 degrees.

To make sauce, combine orange and lemon juice, sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; mix well. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Add prunes; cover and cook slowly 15 minutes. Add apple wedges and onions; mix carefully to coat with sauce.

Heat until apples are tender but hold their shape, 10 to 15 minutes. Serve sauce with or around roast. Yield: Six to eight servings.

AN EASILY prepared entree for dinner, this pork roast is surrounded with glazed prunes, apples and onions. When the roast comes out of the oven, remove the bone for easier serving.

Peanut Butter Pick-Me-Up

Kids love peanut butter and so do many adults. For after-school snack or after-work pick-me-up, try "peanut-butter-scotch smoothie."

Put one cup milk, one 3¼-ounce package of instant butterscotch pudding and pie filling and one-fourth cup peanut butter in a blender. Blend at high speed until smooth. Add 1½ cups milk and blend. Chill and serve in tall frosty glasses.

Top The Salad

Lemon sour cream dressing will top your summer salads with tangy flavor. Gently blend ½ tablespoon of fresh lemon juice and 2 tablespoons of confectioners sugar into ½ cup of dairy sour cream. Chill and serve on fruit salads. Yield: one-half cup.

How To Make A Milk Julep

Take a tip from Southerners who have enjoyed the mint julep for years — but make a milk julep, a high-energy mint-flavored ice cream and milk drink.

Blend four tablespoons mint jelly with one-half cup milk. Gradually blend in 1¾ cups additional milk and one or two drops of green food coloring.

To serve, pour one-half cup of the mint milk mixture into a 12-ounce glass, add 3½ ounces of ginger ale and mix well. Top with a scoop of chocolate ice cream and garnish with a sprig of mint.

The 'Soup De Jour' Made With Apples

For most Americans, the "Soup de Jour" is a steaming bowl of broth, a vegetable or a cream soup. Europeans like these at least as much as Americans do, but they also enjoy quite another type of soup. This is the fruit soup which may be appetizer or dessert.

Almost any fruit or berry can be used for fruit soup. But after the apple harvest, apple cream soup is likely to be the fruit soup of the day.

APPLE CREAM SOUP

1 quart water
4 medium cooking apples, pared, cored and quartered
½ to 1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup red wine
¼ cup corn starch
½ cup heavy cream
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon sugar

Bring water to boil in medium saucepan. Add apples; cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes or until fork tender. Put through a food mill or sieve into saucepan. Stir in half to one cup sugar (depending on sweetness of the fruit) and the lemon rind.

Bring to a boil over medium heat. Gradually stir wine into corn starch; blending until smooth. Stir into apple mixture.

Bring to boil and boil one minute, stirring constantly. Chill. Whip cream with vanilla and one tablespoon sugar.

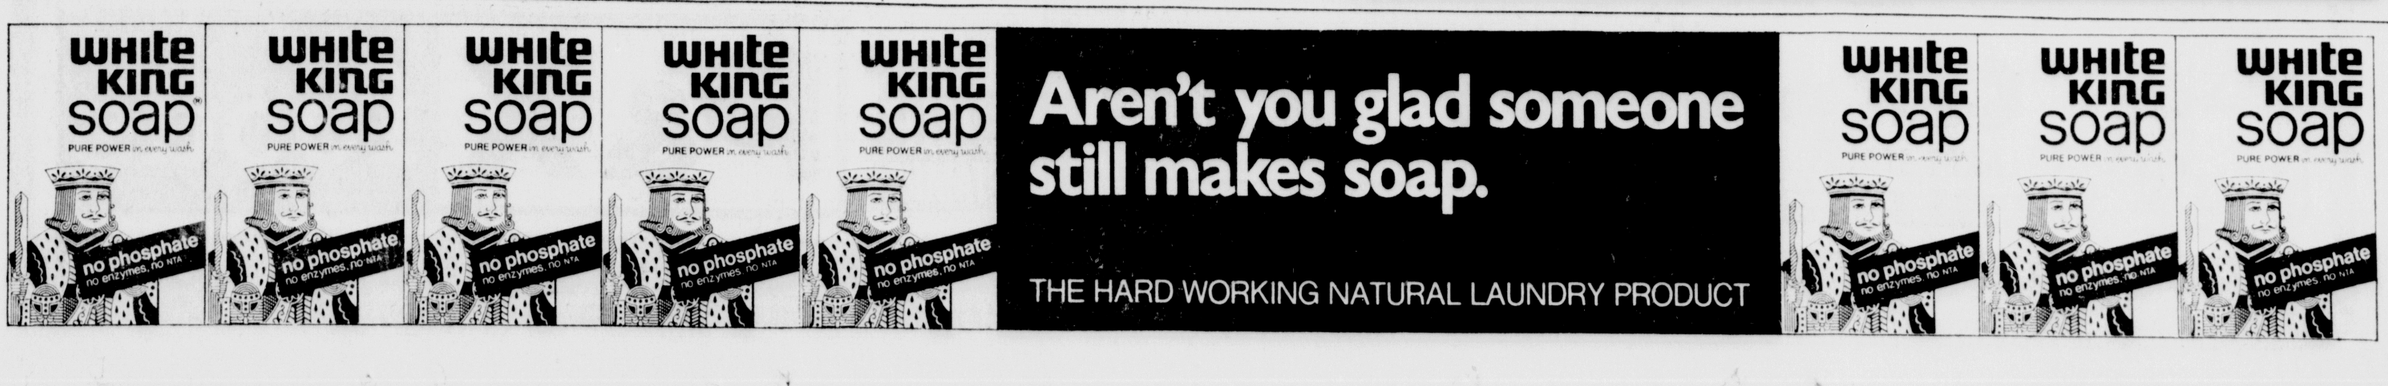

Serve with chilled soup.

Makes about one quart.

Americans Hungry

Americans are a hungry lot. It requires more than 34 billion pounds of food every year to satisfy the public's eating-out appetite.

For A Special Treat, Try Blintz With Apple Filling

Whatever you choose to call them — blintzes, blinis or crepes — the fragile paper-thin pancakes wrapped around a filling and then butter-fried to a golden brown crispness are delicious eating.

If you have never tried them with a spicy apple filling, you have a treat in store. And now that the new crop of apples is being displayed in every marketplace in all its splendor, it's a good time to add to your apple repertoire with this recipe.

Top the hot blintzes with a ribbon of ice cold dairy sour cream.

APPLE BLINTZES

Batter

1 cup sifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
few grains salt
3 eggs
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Mix and sift flour, sugar and salt. Beat eggs; add to dry ingredients. Add milk; stir until smooth. Stir in melted butter. Strain through fine sieve. Let stand two hours.

Melt ½ teaspoon additional butter in seven-inch skillet; pour in a thin layer of batter. When set and brown on underside, remove from pan. Repeat until all batter is used.

Spoon apple filling on browned side of each pancake; roll up carefully. Fry in additional butter until golden brown and crisp. Serve hot, with dairy sour cream. Makes 10 to 12.

Apple Filling

3 apples, pared and diced
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅓ cup melted butter or margarine

Combine all ingredients in saucepan; cook over low heat, stirring often, for 10 minutes or until apples are soft. Cool to room temperature.

Makes enough filling for 10 to 12 blintzes.

Quick Way To Put Sunshine In Hair

The quick way to put sunshine in your hair is called balayage, a French word meaning sweeping.

The top layer of hair is painted with a lightened formula in quick strokes with a broad brush. The solution is left on from 10 to 30 minutes — the longer, the lighter the streaks. Then the hair is shampooed.

Something For Breakfast That's Different, Quick

Despite concern about nutrition, many people are still skipping or skimping on breakfast.

The excuses are all familiar — "I don't have time," "I'm trying to lose weight," or "I'm just not hungry in the morning." But nutritional authorities point out that breakfast is a must.

Scientific studies have shown that people who do not eat an adequate breakfast have slower reaction times and are not as mentally alert as those who do have a good breakfast. In other words, the body needs energy and nutrients in the morning to function efficiently.

A bowl of cereal with milk, a glass of juice, toast with butter and milk to drink will meet most people's morning nutritional needs and supply the energy to keep them going all morning.

Those people who say they are "just not hungry" may be tired of the usual breakfast fare. Tempt them with caramel-pineapple cereal casserole. This golden brown whole wheat cereal casserole can be made in the time it takes coffee to brew.

CARAMEL-PINEAPPLE CEREAL CASSEROLE

1 can (8½ ounces) sliced pine apple, drained
3 cups liquid, pineapple syrup and water as needed to make measure
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup instant hot whole wheat cereal
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
⅓ cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon water
¼ cup chopped pecans

Drain pineapple slices; save syrup or juices and add water as needed to make three cups of liquid; add salt and bring to boil.

Add cereal slowly in a fine stream to boiling water, stirring constantly, and cook as directed on package label. Spoon hot cereal into eight-inch baking dish or casserole. Top with pineapple slices. Melt butter or margarine in fry pan; add brown sugar, water, and pecans.

Heat and stir until mixture is bubbly and syrupy. Drizzle over cereal and pineapple slices. Serve immediately, or cool, cover, and chill overnight in refrigerator. Then in the morning bake in 375 degree oven until heated through, approximately 15 minutes. Yield: four servings.

Lemon's Output

Count on a medium lemon to supply two tablespoons of grated rind and three tablespoons of lemon juice.

"OK—OK' Analysis Explained

The book "I'm OK — You're OK: A Practical Guide to Transactional Analysis" has been on the best seller list for the past 23 weeks, and more than 7000,000 copies have been sold. Last night the author, Dr. Thomas A. Harris of Sacramento, a pioneer in the application of transactional analysis, explained the form of psychiatry to an overflow crowd in Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

"Transactional analysis is a system of communication, a vocabulary of simple words to explain very complex meanings," Dr. Harris said. "Fundamentally it promotes change."

T. A. uses groups because they offer maximum opportunity to see and hear the parent, the child and the adult in action, he said.

There is a "parent," "child" and "adult" inside each of us, the doctor explained, because all of the past is stored in our heads.

DURING THE years from birth to 5 the child is totally dependent, in a state of helplessness. At that time the parent image is being fixed by what the child sees and hears, according to Dr. Harris.

"The parent reveals itself in the here-and-now as a huge collection of shoulds, does and musts," he explained.

Inside each adult is a little person, who remembers unpleasant (or not OK, according to the doctor) feelings such as helplessness, being small and clumsy.

The child sees himself as not OK, and he sees his parents as OK and he stores up a chaos of feelings.

Harris and his staff have been traveling throughout the country conducting T. A. workshops and also operate the Institute for Transactional Analsis in Sacramento, where patients come for five-day-stays culminating in a 24-hour marathon when they sign a contract for the changes they want to see in themselves.

"OFTEN A patient will say, 'Doctor, I had a very happy childhood' and I say, 'You're a liar,' " Dr. Harris said. "One hurt can outweigh 100 joys and it is important to understand the feeling.

"The feelings we experience today — guilt, fear, rage, fury — were originally recorded early in life and like tapes are always ready to be replayed."

The adult, which seems to be the norm in the T. A. realm, comes along at about 9 months and is born out of the child's need to know what life is all about. The rule is "only as an adult can one change," and change is to achieve "I'm OK — You're OK."

According to Dr. Harris, 98 per cent of the population is in the position "I'm not OK — You're OK."

As Dr. Harris spoke, his wife, Amy, made diagrams on a blackboard behind him. She drew arrows between circles representing the child, the parent and the adult as her husband spoke.

TO CLARIFY her drawings, Mrs. Harris explained, when two persons are together there are actually six.

Her explanation of the three within each person is first the child, who saves up feelings and then uses them as an excuse to do something he shouldn't; the parent, who carries on an internal dialogue, telling the person he is doing something wrong; and the adult, who gets good feelings without hurting others and achieves the ultimate feeling, "I'm OK — You're OK."

T.A. has a definition for love, according to Mrs. Harris, and it is the freedom to see the child in another person.

"When you love you see the other person's needs and also the hurting kid inside," she said.

"There are six steps to getting rid of internal dialogue (the distraction of the parent)," Mrs. Harris said. First you say, 'I hurt,' second you ask, 'which part of me hurts?'; third is 'who dunnit?' and the fourth step is asking, 'what is my parent saying right now?' Next, what am I going to do differently, and finally 'what am I going to do next time?' "

"Make lists and place them on your mirror," Dr. Harris recommended. "Remember, you can't change today, but you can change tomorrow."

The talk was the third in a series, "S. O. S. — Stress in Our Society," sponsored by the Marin Association for Mental Health and the College of Marin. Next week's speaker will be Dr. Eugene Shatkin, a psychiatrist and pediatrician, who will discuss children, concentrating on the mental health aspects of his specialties, the battered child, the dying child and crisis in the family. — J. PUTTING JAIL hours to good use, women inmates of Marin County jail learn crafts and sewing skills that may help them when released, through a recently inaugurated program by Marin Red Cross volunteers. Here Joan Murphy (left) and Mrs. Richard Jessup (right rear) teach sewing and craft skills. Joan Murphy, a San Anselmo artist, was enlisted to help when the inmates requested a mosaic-making project.

Spending Tuesday In Jail Part Of Volunteer Program

Toni Busse and some of her friends spend every Tuesday in jail. That's the day that the volunteers from the Red Cross run a recreation and crafts program for women inmates at the Marin County jail.

Mrs. Walter Busse is a member of the Marin Red Cross board of directors and now heads the recently inaugurated Red Cross program for the women inmates.

Each Tuesday the volunteers cart craft materials and other supplies through the steel door on the second floor of the Hall of Justice to give time and talent to the program.

"It's a wonderful program and the girls are just crazy about it," comments Chief Matron Evelyn Jones. "They look forward to Tuesdays — the first thing I hear in the morning is 'Don't forget, Tuesday is Red Cross day."

She said that the two positive effects are the recreational and the learning of crafts.

THE IDEA for a jail program in Marin came last March during the showing of a new Red Cross film, "More than Coffee and Doughnuts." It depicted a successful program in a women's prison in Arizona, and a member of the audience who had recently completed a misdemeanor sentence in Marin County jail mentioned to Toni Busse that there was a real need for such a program here.

Toni Busse formed a committee, which worked out an outline for a proposed jail program and submitted it to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos.

"When we received permission to start the program, we were ready to go, but weren't too sure how the women inmates would receive us," Toni recalled. "We hoped they wouldn't consider us Red Cross do-gooders."

"The Red Cross arrived," says Deputy Jones, "with everything necessary to make a dress — zippers, thread, buttons, patterns and materials."

"One girl was about to finish serving a six-month sentence and had nothing presentable to wear home. The Red Cross brought her material and she made a really good looking mini-dress. Another girl has made a couple of dresses for her child on the jail sewing machine. Through the Red Cross program the girls can make up to date clothes while serving their sentences and be fashionable when they leave."

Another Red Cross volunteer, Sue Boucher, is in the cosmetic business. She comes to sessions to show the women inmates how to apply current makeup.

"One girl," continued Deputy Jones, "had never thought about crafts before. She asked the Red Cross volunteers to teach her how to embroider. They got the equipment and some material to practice on. Her practice turned out beautifully. She is enthusiastic about her new skill and is now drawing her own designs."

SURPRISED AT how quickly and how well she learned a new skill, the young woman announced to the volunteers, "Now that I've learned to embroider I'd like to learn to knit."

Knitting magazines, yarn and needles were brought to the jail and a simple pullover sweater pattern selected. The Red Cross volunteers taught her how to do simple stitches and with a little help from Deputies Brown and Wade, a lovely sweater was completed and proudly displayed to the Red Cross volunteers on their next visit.

Another inmate is completing a beautiful crewel hanging from materials donated to the program by a Tiburon merchant. The jail program can use donations of any kind of material, yarn, zippers, crochet thread, scraps from crewel work, or twine for macrame. Sophisticated games such as Monopoly are also welcome.

Toni Busse says she has had nothing but, "cooperation from all the people involved in the program. The women inmates seem to have assumed responsibility for making the program work, and that is why it is accomplishing its purpose."

ONE DAY the inmates remarked that it would be fun to make mosaics. Toni enlisted the aid of Joan Murphy of San Anselmo, an artist who recently had a show of her oil and acrylic florals at the Co-Op in San Francisco.

Deputy Jones recalls that the volunteers arrived at the jail with bags of beans, macaroni, rice and split peas. "I thought they were going to start a cooking class." The women turned loose their imaginations and produced some beautiful mural mosaics under Joan Murphy's guidance.

"It's very possible," observed Deputy Jones," the results of the program are more far reaching than what we can see and know at the moment. When the girls leave here perhaps they can turn to some skill they learned here in the jail as a source of income. They enjoy the things they are learning and it keeps their minds and hands occupied and gives them something good and productive to think about."

Lt. Newall Snyder, who heads the jail staff, agrees the program has taken hold well and the women inmates are enjoying it.

"When you are confined to a cell," he said, "it is pretty nice to have the same people coming in all the time with armsfull of materials for you to work on."

ON THE AGENDA

Women's Golf Club Schedules Three Handicap Tournaments

Three handicap tournaments for members of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club are scheduled for Fridays Oct. 13 and Oct. 20.

At the end of the series, a trophy party and informal luncheon will be given at noon Oct. 20, at the clubhouse in Mill Valley. Mrs. Leon Adams is tournament captain, and Mrs. Rigby Wilkie is trophy party chairman.

PROBLEMS AFTER DIVORCE

'Men Suffer As Much As Women'

Marin Women

Wednesday, October 4, 1972 Independent-Journal, 23

By JOAN LISETOR

"A man can go out and do what he pleases. He can go to a bar, where it's easy to meet people or he can join organizations for single people," said Bill, sitting in the living room of his home in San Rafael.

Also in the room were Al, twice married and in his 40s; Jeff, 32, whose seven-month marriage was annulled last year; Martin, also in his 40s and twice divorced; and Mel Krantzler, a divorce adjustment counselor, who was divorced two years ago after 24 years of marriage.

For four hours they discussed the problems men face after a divorce.

"WOMEN HAVE it easier when it comes to meeting people after a divorce because they are prime targets," continued Bill, who at 42 has been through five divorces.

"We all know men suffer as much as women," Mel said, "but why do so few seek help?"

"Men are stronger. They think they can recuperate themselves and handle the problems themselves," Al said.

"Often a man initiates the divorce and moves out for another woman so he doesn't have any problems," Bill said.

"After my wife left I went looking for sex objects, and I found nothing but chicks who had left their husbands and were all out looking for me," Jeff said.

TO JEFF the separation from his wife was an agonizing learning experience. He missed the absence of routine, he explained.

Martin, whose second divorce was final seven months ago, said that after he and his wife separated, "I was hurting quite badly, and at the end of the day I would come home, feed my face, get into bed and read. For awhile I had trouble functioning on the job."

"I wanted a warm body in bed. Sometimes I would toss and turn all night," Al said. After his first marriage, which lasted 18 years, he spent two lonely years when he was very vulnerable. He had known his second wife just four months when they married two years ago. They separated last May, he said, and he is experiencing some of the same feelings he had after his first divorce.

All of the men agreed they missed the warm presence of a woman more than the physical contact.

Al said he dated a 36-year-old virgin on and off for about a year and his friends couldn't believe it.

"A 36-year-old virgin — she has as much of a problem as I do being married five times," Bill said.

"I DATED a lot, but I was lonely," Al said of his first divorced period. "The emptiness would gnaw at my insides. There is a false feeling when you are with members of the opposite sex, because eventually you have to come home to an empty apartment. It's earth shattering."

"You bring a woman home with you but the feeling is transitory," Martin said.

"First thing I did was go pick up a woman, and I went through all of the body motions," Jeff said.

"But with no heart," Martin said, recognizing the situation. "Sex doesn't help when you are seeking warmth and tenderness."

"Were you ever tempted to go back?" Mel asked the men.

"I left to better myself, because I didn't want an obsolete article tagging on my tail," Bill said, who has been single for three years.

Jeff said, "I still think of her every day, but if she called or came knocking on the door I wouldn't receive her."

AL AND Jeff both said they had considered reconciliations with their wives but knew they would have to go through the hurts again, so it wouldn't be worth it.

To Martin a reconciliation is out of the question, he said.

"Why won't just any woman do if you're lonely. What are you looking for?" Mel asked.

"An emotional home," Martin responded.

"I'm looking for a friend," Jeff said.

"Someone I really like," Al answered.

To Bill, a woman to whom he can relate and share interests is the ideal.

"Can you meet them at singles groups and parties?" Al asked.

"Oh, it becomes a full time occupation, going to all those things — always out looking," Jeff said.

"A good place to meet women is the Sausalito ferry," Marin offered.

Bars are out of the question, all agreed.

"WHAT DO you miss most," Mel asked.

"Her, even the fighting," Jeff said.

"Companionship," Al said, "and the sharing I had in my first marriage. We had nothing when we got married, and we began accumulating things together, but when things start to go sour you start pointing to things and saying, 'That's mine.' "

"I miss some friends who sided with my wife," Martin said. "And someone to share meals with. Eating in restaurants every night gets old very fast."

"I miss the 'phony baloney' homework my kids bring home," Al said. "We had a very close relationship. I have three teen-age boys."

"Briefly, it was a relief to be without the responsibility of children," explained Martin, the father of three girls. "Now my greatest pleasure is to have them around the table at my house. I would like very much to have them live with me."

Bill, who has two children living nearby with their mother, who has remarried, explained that they are working into a new family life.

"THEY CALL their stepfather 'Dad' and sure it hurts, but they live with him. I only have them with me about once a month. They are busy with Little League and 4-H. I can't give them parental guidance. I would rather not interfere."

Al's first wife used their children to get to him, saying he couldn't see them if he did not do certain things. That didn't last long, because he wasn't about to have his children alienated, he said.

Both Al and Martin have heard, "All I am is your babysitter," from the mothers of their children, they said.

All agreed that women are unaware of the pain men suffer after a divorce. Feelings of worthlessness, vulnerability, loneliness and difficulty relating are the worst.

"It's really worse for men because they won't seek help," Krantzler said.

He is starting a 10 session divorce adjustment seminar on Oct. 16 at the Family Service Agency of Marin and is afraid the men who need help won't attend, he said.

"Men have as many problems as women, but I can't get them there for help," he said.

"Would you marry again?" he asked. "I wouldn't."

Jeff and Al said they would, and Martin said yes but with some reservations. He would like a long term relationship with a woman, not necessarily marriage, he said, and all of the men agreed.

"But marriage," said the five time loser, "that's a subject for legalized punishment."

Resort Collections Feature Dresses

One and two piece dresses, costumes and evening dresses predominate over pants in the resort collections now being shown in New York, according to Women's Wear Daily.

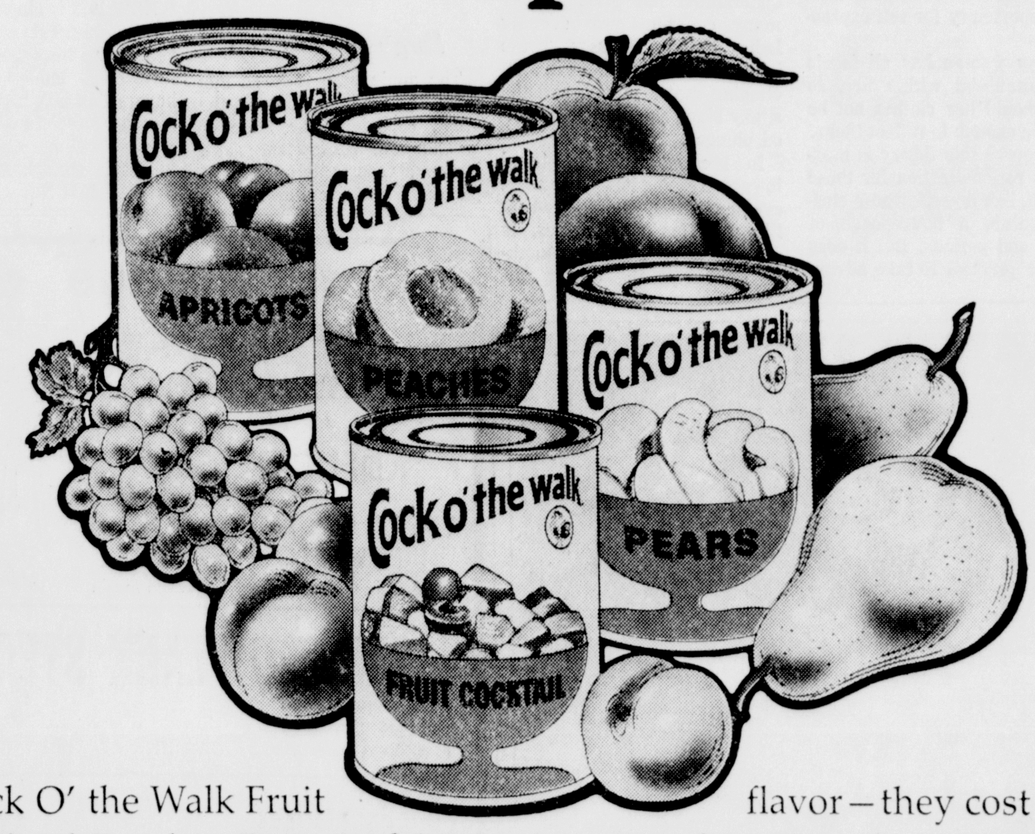

Clothes are prettier, with floral prints important, and short and long blouson dresses in the new soft lines are making a comeback.

Afro Braids

Afro braids give a new wrinkle to a classic American look. Starting front and center, section off a one-inch or slightly bigger square, divide it in three and braid it tightly toward the face.

Make three more squares and braids on each side, with the ones over the ears pulled down straight. Next comb your Afro forward to hide the part and spray setting lotion on all the little hairline fuzz to flatten it.

Our taste by any other name is more expensive

Cock O' the Walk Fruit Cocktail, Peaches, Pears and Apricots are equal in quality and taste appeal to the top national brands. Yet for all their great California flavor—they cost you pennies less. But don't take our word for it. We'll give you 50¢ to try any three of them and compare for yourself.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Smaller And Smaller Bedrooms With Bigger And Bigger Beds

DEAR HELEN:

Can you tell me why home builders keep making bedrooms smaller and smaller, while furniture makers keep making beds bigger and bigger?

I read the other day that king- and queen-sized beds were closing standard sizes out of the market. My wife read it too, so she ordered us a king-size monster which, when it came, left us not even enough space to chase each other comfortably around the bedroom.

Now I like a long bed that I can stretch out in, but I see no need for all that width, not if you're as compatible as we are. (Both of us sleep in the middle.) And I like to be able to open my dresser drawers all the way.

Are these big beds just a fad, if not, when will architects make bedrooms to fit them — for middle income people? — 2x6 MAN WITH 6½x7½ BED IN 10x10 ROOM

DEAR 2x6:

Happy Day! I was beginning to think no one sided with me against king-sized beds. Now that I've found a friend, I dare express my views, which are: Not only do king-sizers usurp needed space, but they're expensive (those blankets, spreads and sheets!!) and they're the very dickens to make.

Architects, bedroom furniture manufacturers: Take note! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Lately there have been more articles against legalized abortion than for it. Here are my somewhat different opinions.

All over this country people are dying at various rates for various lacks. They die slowly because they lack proper nutrition, proper housing, medical treatment, things they marginally cannot afford. They die rapidly because they run a car's brakes or tires too many miles — no money for replacements. They die from lack of proper rest, holding down two jobs to make the budget balance. In general, they are loved and wanted people we hate to lose.

When society forbids an abortion it is forcing the creation of a specifically unwanted human, which is a trifle ghastly for that human, but also forces the diversion of some of society's resources to his maintenance. At the same time we're creating new "lacks" from overcrowding, increased taxes (for welfare), etc., and thus affecting the rate at which "wanted" people die.

Forestalling an abortion doesn't, in this society, result in a net gain in life. Somewhere we are hustling a wanted person into dying to make room for an unwanted person. It's a swap, and a pretty poor one.

I've heard some talk about voting referendums on the subject. How about we start in now to make sure it's a fair election with only qualified voters . . . I mean women of child-bearing age, of course. — DAVID

DEAR HELEN:

I don't think aborting a "potential" child is murder, but I do think that every woman considering abortion should have counseling first — and it must be her decision, not that of parents, husband, boyfriend, friends. Many abortion clinics offer such counseling — insist on it. — OUGHTA BE A LAW FOR ALL

Pressure Is On Women Today To Find Fashion Personality

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Now that mode of dress is more a matter of individual taste than ever before, there is pressure on a woman to discover her "fashion personality." In choos ing her clothes, a woman also is choosing the identity she wishes to project.

While this new-found freedom gives cause for rejoicing, there is also something intimidating about it. The woman who says about an item of clothing, "This is really me," really means it and often goes on to base an entire wardrobe on that particular style. The result is predictability: We come to expect certain public figures, and even our friends who have established a certain sartorial consistency, to maintain their set image.

But to unify one's wardrobe is in a sense to pigeonhole one's personality. The woman whose clothes fall primarily into one category, whether tailored or slinky; sophisticated or demure; conservative or bohemian; masculine or feminine, imposes an artificial limitation on her opportunity for self-expression.

Every woman has all facets of womanhood within her, so why should her clothes not be eclectic enough to reflect them?

Of course this theory is marvelous rationalization for those women, like myself, whose closets contain a hodgepodge of styles and periods. But it does seem a pity not to take advantage of this unprecedented freedom in fashion to liberate oneself from "self-stereotyping."

In no area is the spectrum of attractive possibilities broader than in evening wear. Because it represents the ultimate in romance and drama, fancy dress has always given the designer special license to indulge his flights of fancy with ever-increasing abandon. We have traveled light years away from the '50s and those rigid, pastel, net dresses that looked like baggy tutus.

New York evening wear for the fall- winter season ranges from the sporty to the sensational. The sweater, which has made a comeback in all areas of fashion thanks to Halston, drapes nonchalantly over a long sweater-dress cut with the utmost simplicity. A favorite this season is Bill Blass's shirt dress which combines a navy-blue angora sweater with a pale yellow satin skirt, collar, and cuffs.

Variations on the sweater are the cardigan jacket, the cape, and the topper most often wrapped around a slim silhouette. The casual look is not only understated but practical, for many cover-ups warm chilly ladies in bare dresses. These include the halter dress in soft, clinging matte jersey, and the slinky black sheath with assorted plunges.

In keeping with the trend toward dressing down, the short evening dress, most often in filmy chiffon with ruffles, is enjoying a renaissance. Another revival is the dinner suit with either skirt or pants which have taken an unassailable nocturnal stand. Romantic black or brown velvet with white satin-blouses is the most popular version of the suit.

Along with metallic prints and fibers, sequins lend an unmistakable glamour to the evening scene, though that stranger across the crowded room may sometimes look more like a grounded mirror ball than a woman.

In siren styles, Victor Joris and Geoffrey Beene have exalted another welcome revival, the chemise. The exaggerated dolman sleeve (a private bete noir) is the predilection of both Donald Brooks and Oscar de la Renta. It looks stunning when a woman's hands are on her hips but like a sack of potatoes when her arms are down. In an even more exotic vein are Halston's caftans, Adele Simpson's Egyptian gowns, and Norell's harem skirts.

There is indeed something for everyone, and everyone's every mood.

New Dimensions Through Fashion

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "New Dimensions in Living through Home Fashions." That is the theme for Debut '73, the nationwide home-furnishings promotion that takes place in stores across the United States from Oct. 1 to 14.

The aim of Debut '73 is to inspire more people to take more pride in their homes and to increase their awareness of the importance of an attractive and comfortable home.

The crux of this two-week thrust, sponsored by the Home Furnishings Council Inc., is to inform and educate consumers and to help them solve their decorating problems. Women will have a special invitation into stores — to look and learn — as they look over introductions of new furniture, carpeting, bedding and accessories, and enjoy the totally planned and coordinated rooms that will highlight many displays. New directions in design and color and new use of materials will be explored.

NOW 1972 is almost certain to be the biggest sales-volume year in the history of the home-furnishings industry. Potential buyers this fall, hoping to wake up tired interiors with new purchases, will be exposed to the full style gamut. According to the Fairchild News Service survey, Mediterranean retains its powerful grip as the best-selling style in the country today. American Colonial ranks in second place, followed by Traditional, Modern, Italian Provincial, French Provincial, and 18th-century English, in that order.

The "natural look" that surfaced recently will be abundant this autumn. It will include plenty of clear finishes on raw, unstained woods such as pine, oak, and maple. Butcherblock will be seen in everything from sofas to lamps, and woven cane will receive new play.

The new orientalism that has come to the market since the admission of China to the United Nations will be much in evidence, as will the increasing use of smoked bronzed glass in furniture.

HOMES WILL be outed as serene havens and refuges from the world, on one hand, and as the greatest environments for entertaining friends, on the other.

In city areas, small-scaled tables designed for the "el" or mini-dining room are being purchased for most apartments.

Large Apple Crop

The apple crop is large this year, and production in the West, especially the state of Washington, will top last year's harvest, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

PTA Reaffirms Stand On Public Money

I-J Special Report

CHICAGO — The National Parent-Teacher Association has reaffirmed its opposition to public money being distributed to any institution other than public, tax supported schools, according to Mrs. Walter G. Kimmel, national P-TA coordinator of legilative activity.

Cause for concern, according to Mrs. Kimmel, was the recent hearings in the House Ways and Means Committee in Washington, D.C., on H. R. 16141, the Public and Private Education Assistance Act of 1972. If enacted, the bill would provide parents of students in non-public, non-profit elementary and secondary schools a credit of up to $200 against their income taxes for tuition paid to those schools.

"This new legislation would amount to a loss in revenue to the government of $790 million per year at a time when funds are not being increased, and in many cases, are being cut for needed programs in the public schools," she said. Mrs. Kimmel referred specifically to the veto of the recent Congressional appropriation for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Kimmel explained that it was assumed in the hearings that non-public schools will raise their tuition at least by the amount of the $200 granted the parents.

"We believe this to be indirect aid to non-public schools," she added.

The legislative program of the National P-TA has for many years stipulated that "Federal funds for the education of children and youth should be used only by public boards and departments." The P-TA has consistently opposed any legislation that would channel money into non-public schools and for the same reasons, has opposed the use of vouchers in the schools.

"At a time when the need for large amounts of federal funds is so clear, it appears to be most unwise to divert needed revenue at the federal level into non-public schools," Mrs. Kimmel asserted. "Because a dual system is more expensive to operate, the public schools will suffer when public money goes to private schools — directly or indirectly."

The National P-TA believes that the right of the non-public school to be selective of its students often forces the poor, and the black, as well as children with special needs, into the public school system. As more parents are encouraged to send their children to non-public schools, the general public becomes less willing to provide adequate support for public schools.

Variety Of Furs For This Season

Fur is being used in youthful jackets, briefed to blouse at the waist, trim and tailored to the hips, softly wrapped with sashes.

Fur and suede are combined, different kinds of furs combined, and for understatement, fur linings are used for fabric coats.

The variety of furs being shown this season includes long-haired hare, bright in coral red, raccoon in a cognac shade, deep rust fox, and mink in many shades including yellow.

For "his and her" sets, plaid lumberjackets lined with black mole are being shown, and beige raincoats lined with opossum.

Autograph Party

Dorothy Shinder of San Rafael will have an autograph party at the Cottage Bookstore in San Rafael from 11:30 to 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. Miss Shinder will autograph copies of her just-published book, "Mayhem on Women," which includes Miss Shinder's theories on how women are victimized by the tax laws and by medical practices.

Dye Shortcut

If you dye hair but don't have time for a full color repair, just get the hairline in front or the roots at the part touched up. It takes about 15 minutes.

Tallest Woman

The tallest living woman is believed to be Dolores Ann Pullard of DeQuincy, La. In November 1967 she was measured at a height of 7 feet, 9½ inches.

Palazzo Pants Will Return Next Spring

New York designers are so pleased with the response to palazzo pants, that they will be doing them again for Spring in different fabrics, according to Women's Wear Daily.

The palazzos are full, comfortable, soft-looking, and give the appearance of a skirt. They are being used for dressy evening wear this fall and winter. Designers predict they will be big for daytime in the Spring in gabardine and knits.

Soledad Bugging Attempt Bared

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A special agent for the state Department of Justice said yesterday he took part in a bugging attempt of a former Soledad Prison psychiatrist to determine his possible connection with prison violence.

Norman Gard told a special Senate subcommittee he participated in planting electonic listening devices on Tony Pewitt, then a convict, before he entered the Monterey home of Dr. Frank Rundle, former chief of psychiatry at Soledad.

The incident occurred Dec. 16, 1971, during an investigation Gard was conducting for the Department of Justice into possible instigation of prison violence by outsiders.

Gard said two prison guards, Moe Comacho and Loran Spoon, were also involved in the bugging attempt.

The director of the Department of Corrections, Raymond K. Procunier, has acknowledged that Comacho had removed Pewitt from Chino prison without proper authority.

Philip D. Guthrie, information officer for the department, has said, "We have investigated the incident, taken disciplinary action and so far as we are concerned it is a dead issue."

Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, chairman of the subcommittee, called today's hearing as a result of the disclosure of the incident in an article in the San Francisco Bay Guardian, which calls itself "the Bay Area's alternative newspaper."

Petris' committee held a closed door hearing last spring during which Pewitt and Rundle testified. A committee aide said they repeated the account of the bugging incident detailed in the Guardian's story.

The California Correctional Officers Association, of which Comacho was an officer, subsequently complained the guards had not been allowed to give their side of the incident.

Petris noted that all persons named in the Guardian article had been asked to testify today, but only Gard appeared.

Gard said Comacho had contacted the Department of Justice, saying Pewitt had information in connection with prison violence.

During discussions with Pewitt, Gard testified that the prisoner said he had tape recordings and letters which linked Rundle with violence at Soledad and San Quentin.

But Pewitt, according to the Guardian article, said he had been threatened with possible loss of an early parole date by Comacho if he did not cooperate.

Gard said he was not aware of any threats and believed Pewitt was acting in good faith. He suggested Pewitt may have later changed his story because he was put in "jeopardy."

According to Gard, Pewitt volunteered to take a "bug" into Rundle's home to gather additional evidence. Pewitt told the Guardian he disclosed the presence of the bug to Rundle in a note after he entered the psychiatrist's home.

Gard said the bugging attempt was unsuccessful either because of equipment failure or Pewitt not operating the equipment correctly. Pewitt's tape recording and letters also were never produced, Gard declared.

He said the investigation concerning Rundle had been closed and no criminal charges filed.

Petris and Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, both expressed dissatisfaction that other persons named in the incident had not testified at the hearing.

"This matter isn't going to end today," Petris declared.

Schultz' View On Tax Reform

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—What most Americans mean by tax reform is "keeping them down," said Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz Monday.

Schultz told newsmen that if Sen. George McGovern is elected president, there would be a large increase in taxes.

"We must make real choices here," Schultz said. "When it comes to the question of tax reform, this is the most fundamental tax reform-keeping taxes under control. Keeping them down is what people really want."

WORD-A-DAY

Danger Remains Despite Rains

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Despite recent rains, there is still a fire danger in many parts of California, the State Division of Forestry said Tuesday.

Information officer Bill Harrington said Modoc, Lassen, Siskiyou, Mariposa and Madera counties received little or no rain. Neither did the eastern parts of Fresno and Tulare counties, he added.

Even in areas where there was a downpour, the moisture could be dried out by three days of a stiff north wind and present firefighters with more danger areas, Harrington said.

Recreational Use Rises In Novato

Attendance at recreational activities in Novato was up slightly last year, according to the annual report of the Novato Parks and Recreation Department.

Attendance for last fiscal year was 459,833 compared to 447,244 the year before. The department budget was $218,825 last fiscal year, compared to $203,415 the year before.

The per capita cost of the recreation and park services to residents was $5 last year, compared to $4.97 the year before. The last two years cost per capita was considerably higher than the $3.89 in 1969-70.

The city operated swimming pool at Novato High School was used by 53,162 persons last year compared to 50,519 the year before.

Laurence Dito, recreation supervisor, presented the annual report to the parks and recreation commission as Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, was in Southern California Monday attending a convention.

Dito also reported that the department is working with the Novato Unified School District on a program of flag football and basketball for junior high school students.

The commission voted to recommend that tennis classes be started on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at Pioneer Memorial Park.

The report on the comparative cost of replacing the tombstones upright or flat in the ground at Pioneer Memorial Cemetery would not be ready until a later meeting of the commission, Dito said.

Officials Elected By Novato Kiwanis

Ronald Lipe has been installed as president of the Novato Kiwanis Club.

Other officers are: John Regan, first vice president; Robert Fisher, second vice president; Eldon Hasstedt, secretary, and Milton Kingsbury, treasurer.

Dope Case Is Bound Over

A 28-year-old Bel Aire woman arrested after a sheriff's deputy saw marijuana plants on her balcony was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on charges of growing and having pot.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ruled there is enough evidence to try Susan Gail Corwin of 20 Andrew Drive, Apt. 63, and told her to report to Superior Court Oct. 18.

She was charged in connection with 24 plants and a lid and a half of vegetable matter found at her home July 29. Sheriff's inspectors were told about the plants by a deputy who had driven by the previous day.

Mrs. Corwin allegedly told deputies the plants were a joke, and surrendered the bags of marijuana.

College Legal Matters Set In Closed Session

The Marin Community College District Board will meet in closed session to discuss legal matters today at 7:30 p.m. before its 8 o'clock meeting at room 101 in the science building at College of Marin.

Together with assistant county counsel Richard Godino, trustees will discuss the district's action against former language teacher Irene Moeller who never returned to the district after a year's sabbatical leave on 60 per cent salary.

Three suits relate to efforts by students, under the age of 21 whose parents reside outside the state, to gain admittance to the community college system.

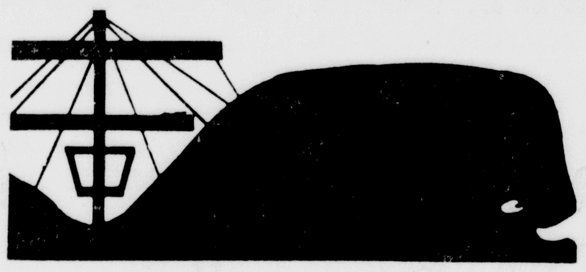

The remaining legal issue is the district's problems over its computer contract with Radio Corporation of America, which has gone out of the computer business since the district's purchase.

Agenda items before the board include authorizing payment for architectural fees for Indian Valley Colleges, proposed parking regulations and an enrollment report.

Baroque Eensemble Will Play Oct. 12

The Sacramento Baroque Ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. Oct. 12 in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College.

The group, formed in 1970, includes Ward Fenley, violin; Sven Hansell, harpsichord; Ruth Onstadt, soprano; Benjamin Glovinsky, oboe, and Thomas Stauffer, cello. The group also will present an open workshop at 4 p.m. that day.

MOVIE REVIEWS

A Black Classic And A Magnificent Voyage

By LOUISE SWEENEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "Sounder" may just be the first classic film about a black family.

It arrives at a time when the new genre, the black film, has hit the theaters like an avalanche — in many cases, an avalanche of violent and erotic fantasy with little redeeming social value.

Now along comes "Sounder," the gentle story of a starving family of black sharecroppers during the depression. And it's just as down-South real as sweet potato pie, just as sad as "taps."

Putting a finger on why is difficult. Certainly it has a great deal to do with the soulful performances of its stars — Cicely Tyson, magnificent as Rebecca Morgan the loving wife, the strong mother who brings in the entire crop with just her children's help when her husband goes to jail. Paul Winfield gives a rich performance as the father, Nathan Lee Morgan, who steals meat from a smokehouse rather than see his family go hungry.

The film opens with a twilight coon hunt, not a game, but a search for the meat of survival as the father and his oldest son David track the animal in vain with their hound, Sounder. The picture is deceptively named for Sounder, but it's not about a dog at all — its central character is really the boy, David Lee, played with incredible grit and sensitivity by Kevin Hooks. He is the son of actor Robert Hooks and starred in the TV drama "J.T."

His younger brother, Eric, plays that role in this film, while Yvonne Jarrell plays the sister, Josie Mae. Both performances are outstanding.

Certainly great credit must go to the guiding intelligence behind the film, producer Robert Radnitz, who has made a name for himself with such distinguished family pictures as "My Side of the Mountain," "Misty," and "A Dog of Flanders," which won the Golden Lion award at the Venice Film Festival.

Mr. Radnitz has said: "I've wanted for some time to do a film with a black theme, but without special pleading, without violence and ngry protest. I've wanted to find a simple story about people who were black, but in a larger and more important sense, identifiable as everyman."

Mr. Radnitz found his story in William Armstrong's novel, a Newbery Medal winner; it has been translated to film by scriptwriter Lonne Elder II with spare, pungent dialogue. "You got your low-life job, Mr. Sheriff," Rebecca says quietly as her husband is hustled off to a year of hard labor for stealing a ham.

Mr. Radnitz has chosen for his director a man not known for intimate family movies — Martin Ritt, whose big works include "The Long Hot Summer," "Hud," "The Great White Hope." Mr. Ritt has directed this one in a sure, realistic and tender style sauced with humor. (Its only flaw is its pacing, drawn out at 105 minutes.)

He has caught on camera how much these people love each other, with what warmth and indomitable spirit in the face of a dehumanizing system. Rebecca trudges the long, hot miles to town to see Nathan Lee in jail before trial, only to learn that black prisoners are not allowed to see their wives and that their families are never told what labor camp they've been sent to.

A compassionate white woman (Carmen Mathews), who sent Rebecca her laundry and loaned David Lee books, defies the system to find out where Nathan Lee is. Then David Lee sets out across the state on foot to find his father in prison; he doesn't find him, but he does find the first black school he's ever seen, where a sympathetic teacher (Janet MacLachlan) turns his life around with the promise of an education. His father insists that David Lee leave home for that chance, saying "I want to beat the life they got laid out here for you in this valley."

That life is beautifully, starkly caught by John Alonzo's camera in scenes filmed on location in Louisiana's East Feliciana and St. Helena parishes, with Taj Mahal's sweetly plaintive music as background.

"The Emigrants" is a magnificent voyage of a film, an epic about Swedish settlers in the United States which transcends boundaries and becomes the story of everyman seeking a better life.

Called "Utvandrarna" in Swedish, it is the first of a two-part series based on Vilhelm Moberg's quartet of classic novels about the exodus of 19th-century Swedes to America. The second part, "The Settlers," has already been filmed and is awaiting distribution.

This trenchantly beautiful film begins with a close-up of the life that drove the emigrants out. Karl Oskar (Max von Sydow) farms the land that his father sweated to earn — black-green pines ringing gold meadows whose earth is pocked with rocks. A harvest of rocks for a life of labor as Karl Oskar and his wife Kristina (Liv Ullmann) watch their family grow and their subsistence shrink. "Last year the crops rotted — this year they're burnt," Karl Oskar says bitterly during a drought.

Director Jan Troell faithfuliy, carefully compresses the Moberg story, so familiar to most Swedes. (Moberg withheld film rights to the novels until he saw "This is Your Life," a movie by ex-teacher Troell, and decided this was the only director for his story.) Mr. Troell tells the story in a lyrical, intensely visual style which keeps dialogue minimal and concentrates on the action mirrored in the faces of the film's admirable cast.

The screenplay, by director Troell and producer Bengt Forslund, divides the story into three parts: first, the miserable conditions in Sweden which force the emigrants out (poverty and near starvation, religious persecution, lack of opportunity, and economic servitude); second, the perilous sea voyage on a cramped, filthy, diseased, and lice-ridden ship; and third, the docking in America and the hazardous trip cross-country to the promised green land of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Stars von Sydow and Ullmann, who sometimes fare badly outside of Ingmar Bergman's inspired direction, give performances of great depth and intensity under director Troell. Mr. von Sydow's Karl Oskar is a blond paradox, — the hard-working, earnest, loving, family man whose bitter experience in Sweden has put steel in his back, leaving him cynical but not closed to hope. A difficult role, one Mr. von Sydow handles with subtlety and grace. Miss Utlmann, who has the face of a strong flower, gives a performance of great sweetness, kierceness, courage anc trust as his wife.

The rest of the cast has been unerringly chosen: Eddie Axberg as Karl Oskar's naive younger brother; Allan Edwall as Danjel, the devout minister who emigrates to follow the dictates of his own conscience; Monica Zetterlund as the prostitute whose life Danjel transforms; Eva-Lena Zetterlund as her demure daughter; Perre Lindstedt as Robert's great sad bear of a friend, Arvid.

Infant To Undergo Rare Brain Surgery

SAN JOSE, Calif., (UPI)—A six-month old baby whose brain protrudes through the front part of his skull is scheduled to undergo corrective surgery Thursday.

The boy, Manuel Torres, was flown here by Project Concern from Tijuana, Mexico. The bulging front part of his brain is protected by only a layer of skin.

Dr. Donald J. Prolo, a San Jose neurosurgeon and Stanford University faculty member, said the congenital defect occurs once in every 35,000 births.

The condition is frequently associated with hydrocephalus, an increased volume of fluid under the skull. Prolo said the operation may involve moving the fluid into another cavity of the boy's body.

The protruding part of the brain is then placed back in the skull and covered with a silicone plate. Prolo said the plate will be covered with a membraneous tissue taken from the baby's thigh.

The physician said the surgery involves the "silent portion" of the brain, and if successful, will not cause permanent damage.

The operation will be performed by a team of about 12 medical experts from Stanford University Medical School and the San Jose Hospitals and Health Center. Prolo said it will take up to four hours.

The boy is to be treated without charge by the medical team and the health center.

His case was brought to Dr. Prolo's attention by Project Concern, a group organized in Coronado, Calif. The organization is operating clinics to help young children in Hong Kong, Vietnam, Tijuana, Appalachia and other parts of the world.

Focal U.S. Energy Policy Agency Asked

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Faced with an impending fuel shortage, the United States "urgently needs a comprehensive energy policy," says Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman of Mobil Oil Corporation.

Since more than a dozen federal agencies have regulatory authority over the oil, gas, coal, and power industries, decisions are often made in "short-sighted, uncoordinated" fashion, Warner said. "The Bureau of Mines tells coal mine operators what to do, the Office of Emergency Preparedness issues oil-import tickets, and the Federal Power Commission sets natural-gas prices — to name just a few of those involved. Nobody looks at the energy picture as a whole."

Warner, who heads the American Petroleum Institute, the industry's largest trade group, believes that Congress should create a central authority to coordinate all aspects of U.S. energy policy. One of its first assignments would be to try to strike a balance between pressures for a cleaner environment and the growing demand for more energy.

To make a real dent in rising U.S. energy consumption, he maintains, would require "stringent rationing and mandatory reduction of living standards, together with zero population growth."

A rational energy policy would enable the U.S. to add significantly to its domestic energy reserves without degrading the quality of the environment, Warner believes. According to Mobil's projections, the U.S. will have to import over 40 per cent of its petroleum supplies by 1980, if present trends continue. Spending some $13 billion on oil imports by 1980 could put an intolerable burden on the U.S. balance of payments. And if foreign supplies were suddenly shut off, U.S. national security could be jeopardized.

The chief executive of the world's third largest international oil company also made the following points in an interview:

The U.S. faces a shortage of domestic refining capacity. Mobil's nine U.S. refineries are "running flat-out, three shifts, seven days a week. Production in 1972 will probably set a record," Warner said.

RAWLEIGH WARNER JR.
Mobile Oil Corp. chairman

One reason why the recent boost in gasoline prices is holding up is that most refiners are in a similar position and gasoline supplies are tight. In the recent past, surplus gasoline inventories often encouraged price wars, eroding industry efforts to achieve higher prices.

No company has announced plans for any major new refinery since 1969, and the only one under construction now is Mobil's 160,000-barrel-per-day plant in Joliet, Ill. "The industry should be building the equivalent of three or four large refineries a year between now and 1980," Warner said.

Instead, oil companies are being blocked from acquiring new refineries along the East Coast by environmental objections.

There also is widespread confusion in the industry over what types of units to design. Although it takes four years to build a refinery, the Environmental Protection Agency hasn't yet spelled out a timetable for phasing out leaded gas after 1975.

The East and Gulf Coasts badly need some deepwater tanker terminals. To accommodate projected oil imports, existing tanker fleets will have to be supplemented by supertankers of 250,000 tons or more. The hitch is that these supertankers require specially designed offshore terminals, none of which have been built as yet. Environment groups concerned about the dangers of massive oil spills are largely opposed to these offshore sites. According to Mobil, however, the use of supertankers would mean fewer spillage risks and better pollution controls than would otherwise be the case if additional smaller tankers were employed.

If environmentalist objections can't be overcome, Mobil may consider hauling Middle East oil to the Canadian Maritime Provinces by supertanker, bringing it to U.S. ports by smaller vessels. "But the ultimate cost to the consumer would be higher," Warner said. "In his high-volume business, big tankers, big refineries, and big pipelines are essentially dictated by economics — they lower average unit costs."

The Federal Power Commission's policy shift toward allowing higher natural gas prices provided a fillip to oil and gas sales in the Gulf of Mexico earlier this month.

Twenty-six companies — singly and in groups — spent a record $1,694 per acre for 346,000 acres of potentially rich leases in offshore Louisiana. Since Mobil has long been unable to provide sufficient domestic crude oil of its own for refinery runs, the company, together with its partners, invested more than $250 million during the spirited bidding. "We're highly pleased with the results," Warner said.

The fact that environmental groups withdrew their legal challenge to the Louisiana sale augurs well for future lease sales offshore, Warner believes. Environmentalists are beginning to face up to the energy gap. They now see that a worsening gas shortage would lead to increased use of alternative fuels that are not as clean-burning."

The North Slope of Alaska represents a major environmentalist challenge that Mobil and the rest of the oil industry haven't met successfully.

The three-year legal battle over the pipeline route has raised the project's cost from $1.5 to an estimated $3 million. Mobil planners aren't reckoning on any sizable flow from the Prudhoe Bay discoveries until 1980, when 2 million barrels a day may be produced. Even with the pipeline built, however, the North Slope is expected to supply less than one-tenth of U.S. crude oil consumption in 1985.

Missing Snake Sought In Fresno

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Police are looking for a 6 1-2-foot long boa constrictor that hasn't eaten in about two weeks.

Alvin Phillips said his pet, which he calls Peyote, escaped from his car in a parking lot Monday afternoon.

Peterson Says USSR No Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Americans need not fear loss of jobs or lessening of their security through trade negotiations with the Soviet Union, Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson said Tuesday.

Peterson told a World Affairs Council luncheon that the products the United States are most likely to sell to the Soviets are machine tools, machinery, equipment and grain. These have a considerably higher labor content than the raw materials which will constitute the bulk of the U.S. imports.

"Thus, we are not only likely to have a balance of trade surplus but also a balance of jobs surplus," Peterson said.

The commerce secretary said that strategic industries and those endangered by imports will continue to receive their present protection.

"In my opinion, one of the greatest gains which will accrue to the average American from reopening trade with the Soviet Union will be the enhancement of his security," Peterson said.

A's Skipper Is Revved Up For Playoff With Tigers

ANAHEIM (UPI) —Dick Williams was revved up.

"Sure I'm nervous," the manager of the Oakland A's admitted. "If anyone didn't have goosebumps at this time of year, there's got to be something wrong with him.

"It's a good feeling, though. I'd rather feel this way than be packing my bags and getting ready to go home. And I'll guarantee you it isn't something that will affect my managerial judgment."

The field boss of the best club in the American League West stood in the A's dressing room at Anaheim Stadium on a Tuesday night the Detroit Tigers clinched the league's Eastern Division pennant.

Clad in his underwear, Williams puffed nervously on a cigarette and sipped a cup of coffee.

"I smoked quite a bit getting us into this thing," he said, "but I may be smoking a little more now."

Detroit, he said, was his preseason choice to dethrone Baltimore in the American League East.

"I picked Detroit mainly because Baltimore had dealt away Frank Robinson," he offered. "To be honest, I didn't think Boston or New York would be in the race to the end."

Oakland takes a 92-62 record into its regular season finale against the California Angels tonight but Williams says his A's are a better team than the one which finished 41 games over .500 at 101-60 last year.

His 1971 club lost three straight to Baltimore in the best-of five American League playoffs.

"I think we're a much better balanced team than we were last season," William remarked, "In fact, I think we have more balance than any other club in the league.

"We're healthy, our pitching is in great shape and we're hitting the ball much better now than we've been all season. We didn't fare too well in the playoffs last season but that experience has to be beneficial."

Williams named Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 21-7, to start for the A's against Detroit at Oakland Saturday with Blue Moon Odom, 14-6, scheduled to go against the Tigers Sunday.

Ken Holtzman, 19-11, will go in the third game of the series for Oakland at Detroit Tuesday. If necessary, Vida Blue, 6-10, and Hunter will pitch at Detroit Wednesday and Thursday.

The Oakland manager revealed he would have Wes Stock, who will become the A's pitching coach next season, on hand to scout the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh National League playoff series.

"I know there is a lot of talk that the National League is stronger but I have to disagree with that," he said. "That's something National League writers write and I never believe anything I read.

"Pittsburgh-Cincinnati? Pittsburgh is supposed to be the most offensive club in baseball but Cincinnati beat them eight out of 12 so it's hard to figure out."

In regular season play, Oakland enjoyed an 8-4 edge over Detroit while it was 3-9 against Boston.

"From a monetary standpoint," Williams said, "we were pulling for Detroit to win because it has the bigger park."

Before Tuesday night's 3-2 loss to the Angels, the A's held a three-hour share-voting meeting.

"We had a full discussion on it," explained Williams, "we had a lot of players to consider."

MacKay Happy With Tourney's Success

Barry MacKay of Ross is a very jovial fellow these days.

Director of the Redwood Bank International Tennis Championships which concluded last weekend at Round Hill Golf and Country Club in Alamo, MacKay called the tournament "a tremendous success, but I expected it to be a success. After all, we had the best players in the world."

BARRY MacKAY

MacKay was not trying to rub salt in a wound of the Northern California Tennis Association, which was staging a tournament of its own in direct competition with the Redwood tourney. He's too much of a gentleman for that. He was just stating a fact. The touring pros of Lamar Hunt's World Championship of Tennis group (Laver, Ashe, Newcombe etc.) are a better draw than the men who were playing in the Pacific Coast International tourney at Golden Gate Fields.

On the final day of both tournaments Sunday, a crowd of 5,115 squeezed into the stands at Round Hill while only 1,000 were watching the finals at Golden Gate Fields. At one you had John Newcombe playing Cliff Drysdale and in the other you had Jim Connors playing Roscoe Tanner. And as MacKay says, the better players draw the better crowds.

For the record, Newcombe and Connors won the tourneys, "Newk" picking up $10,000 in the Redwood event and Connors $8,000 in the Pacific Coast International.

MacKay is now turning his attention to finding a location and then building a major league tennis facility in which to hold big league tournaments. Marin County is getting a long look by MacKay and his associates for such a facility, but so are pieces of property on the Peninsula and in San Francisco.

"We are trying to put it all together now," MacKay said yesterday. "We are hoping to be able to have the facility built by 1973, but most certainly by 1974."

The important thing, says MacKay, is the facility itself, not the location, in regards to drawing tennis fans. "With the best players in the proper setting the fans will come out." Nearly 30,000 turned out for the week-long tournament at Round Hill, which MacKay feels had the correct formula — good players and good facilities.

MELINDA BAILEY of Novato, a member of the Sonoma National Golf Club, broke the course record for women at San Geronimo National (sister club to Sonoma's) last week when she won the Pacific Women's Golf Association championship. On the final day of the match play tournament she shot a round of 74. Her opponent in the finals, Nancy Gapinski, San Geronimo women's champ, shot a 78. Some golf, eh?

BILL MOEN of Mill Valley, sports director of KABL Radio, won himself free use of a 1973 Gremlin "X" Levi for one year, prize for winning the hole-in-one contest at the press day golf tourney for the Kaiser International Open at Silverado's course in Napa. I mention this with tears in my eyes because I was too busy (honest) the day of the tourney and had to pass up the invitation. Oh well, back to my Volkswagen.

WHILE TALKING about cars (sniff), I see that Marin County people drove off with two of five 1973 cars given away at the Giants' an Appreciation Day Sunday. Mrs. Ferne Zell of San Anselmo won herself a Chevrolet Monte Carlo and Cindy Tinkham of Novato won a Ford Galaxie.

DETROIT CLINCHES TITLE

Kaline—Clutch Player Of Tiger Lineup

DETROIT (UPI)—Pressure does to Al Kaline the same thing age does to a superior scotch whiskey.

Kaline gave the Detroit Tigers the heady feeling of the American League Eastern Division crown Tuesday night when he singled home the tiebreaking run in the seventh inning of a 31 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

"If we had to get beat, I'm glad it was Kaline who did it," Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox said with the tears of his "biggest disappointment" glistening in his eyes. "He's a helluva ball player."

The Red Sox are thus reduced to trying to stop Joe Coleman's bid for his 20th victory in today's otherwise meaningless final game of a season. If Boston wins, it will finish second by a half-game—a game which it, too, would have played and possibly won if a players strike had not chopped off the start of the season.

Kaline now has an 11-game hitting streak going, just when the Tigers needed it most, and has lifted his batting average to a .312 percentage he hasn't topped for a season since he hit exactly that in 1963. He's had 22 hits in his last 44 times at bat.

"What is age?," Manager Billy Martin of the Tigers answered the folks who said his team was getting too old to win the division and qualify to meet the A's starting this Saturday in Oakland for the AL pennant.

"If a guy is a good ball player and he's 37, he's still a good ball player," Martin said. "If a guy's still good, there must be a reason for it. Age is how you feel."

"This is not as big a thrill as winning in 1968," Kaline said. "Not yet."

But for Woody Fryman, who gave up just four hits in 7 2-3 innings to merit his first postseason competition, it was a huge kick. The crowd of 54,079 gave the Aug. 2 acquisition from the Philadelphia Phillies a standing ovation when he left the mound for Chuck Seelbach, who protected Fryman's 10th win against three losses with his 14th save.

"I've never had a feeling like that in my life, in baseball or

Olympic Disappointment For Larkspur's Klopfer

Trip To Munich Called 'Fiasco' By Racewalker

By RON LENT

"Fiasco."

This was the word two-time Olympic Games racewalking participant Goetz Klopfer of Larkspur used in describing his Olympic days in Munich.

"My own experiences in the Olympics were disappointing, to say the least. I had set out to beat (U.S. 20-kilometer walkers) Tom Dooley and Larry Young and finish in the top 10. But I didn't meet any of these goals. It was a fiasco as far as I was concerned."

19TH PLACE

Klopfer, 29, finished 19th, four places behind his former Larkspur roommate Dooley. (Dooley, now residing in San Carlos, could not be reached for comment.)

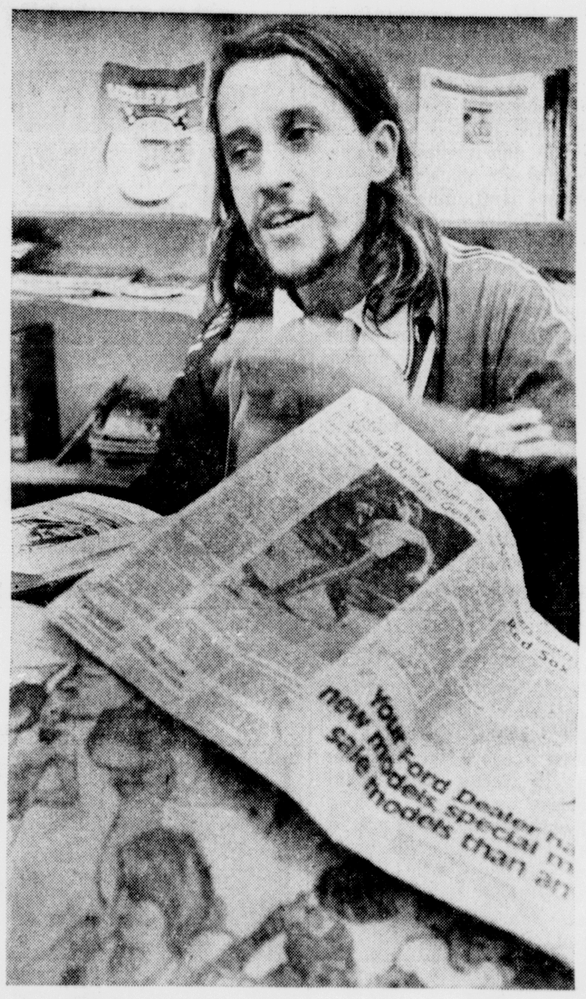

"I wasn't thrilled with my showing or even just being there. After all, I was there in 1968 in Mexico. And, once you've been there, the thrill is gone. I went just to compete. And I didn't fulfill my own expectations."

The 5-foot-6, 130-pound walker was also disillusioned with the U.S. Olympic Committee's dealings with the track and field team.

PROBLEMS

"We (the team) were pretty much on our own because of an experiment allowing us to go off and practice three weeks before the Olympics in Oslo, Norway. And that's where the problem was. We were not supplied our proper equipment, such as sweatsuits. We had to get our own. When we got to the Games, we had two sets of equipment. So we were arguing with our coaches. We knew it wasn't the coaches' fault but. . ."

Klopfer added, "This type of difficulty doesn't help matters. Also, the U.S. dormitory was like a slum. The place was not kept up by our maids. What made us angry was that the dormitories of the other countries were properly maintained.

Goetz Klopfer discusses days in Munich.

Things like this destroyed the morale of the team.

"It was all quite disappointing, so after I competed, I just watched the games, did some sightseeing and visited some beer halls."

However, Klopfer, a San Rafael High School physical education aide, did relate one rewarding experience — a discussion with Israeli 50-kilometer walker, Shaul Ladany, a survivor of the Black September terrorist attack in the Israeli Olympic team dorm.

"He told me that as soon as he heard that first shot on the Tuesday morning, he jumped out of the second story window." Later, Ladany was asked why he did not stay to help his compatriots, Klopfer recalled, "and he replied 'did you want me to stay there and get killed?' "

Klopfer laid the blame for the deaths of the Israeli hostages with the German police. "It was their fault. Shooting it out with them (the terrorists) was the wrong thing to do."

Klopfer noted a report that the International Amateur Athletic Federation may eliminate racewalking from the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

When asked why this might happen, Klopfer replied: "Many countries do not have

Warriors Cut Three Players

SAN JOSE (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors have cut three players but they don't know whether they will have to cut three or four more by the time the season opens Oct. 14.

Axed Tuesday were Art Harris, Charles Dudley and last year's reserve center Vic Bartolome. His departure means that 7-foot George Johnson apparently will be kept to play backup center to Nate Thurmond.

The reason the Warriors don't know if three or four more men must be cut is that they don't know whether Rick Barry will join the club.

He legally belongs to the Warriors, but the blond forward says he'll stay in New York even if he has to quit the game.

Guard Jeff Mullins says the Warrior players want him.

"If he plays, we'll have a very good team, one of the best in the NBA," he commented. It's hard to say who will win, because the key is going to be injuries, but the best teams will be Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Boston and New York. With Rick, we'll be right there with them."

Drake Slips Into First In Soccer

Defending champion Drake High School backed into sole possession of first place in Marin County Athletic League soccer competition by virtue of a 0-0 tie with Novato, while Terra Linda was losing to San Marin, 2-1.

In other matches yesterday, Tamalpais tied Marin Catholic 1-1, while Redwood shut out San Rafael, 2-0.

Terra Linda fell back a half a game to tie San Marin and Redwood for second place at 2-1. Mike Linder and Andy Gustianiano scored for the Mustangs.

Redwood moved into second position, beating San Rafael with goals by Tom Sleisinger and Manny Natsois.

Marin Catholic held Tam to a 1-1 tie behind a Mike Johnson goal. Hank Omwubiko scored for the Indians.

STANDINGS

Drake 2-0-1, Redwood 2-1, San Marin 2-1, Terra Linda 2-1, Tamalpais 1-1-1, San Rafael 1-2, Marin Catholic 0-2-1, Novato 0-2-1.

Skyline Defeats Marin Booters

Skyline College scored a goal with two minutes remaining to defeat College of Marin yesterday, 2-1, in a Camino Norte Conference soccer game in San Bruno.

The defeat gave the Tars a 3-4-1 over-all record and a 1-4 mark at the midway point in CNC play.

Next Tuesday, Marin opens play in the nine-team Western Junior College Conference, involving six Camino Norte teams and three others. (WJCC play runs concurrently with the second half of the CNC season.) Top four teams in the WJCC compete in a post-season playoff, the winner of which advances to the state tournament.

Trade Possibility Looms For Bonds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Outfielder Bobby Bonds predicted a pennant for the Giants in 1973, but he isn't sure he is going to be around to help win it.

"This team will win if I'm here or not," Bonds said after he scored three runs to help the Giants beat the San Diego Padres 7-4 Tuesday night.

Bonds has heard the trade rumors that have him going to almost every other team in the majors.

"The only place I don't want to go is Philadelphia," Bonds said. "This team has the talent to win even if I'm not here," he added.

Bonds was happy with most aspects of the 1972 season which ends this afternoon when the Giants play the Padres again.

"Everything but my average," he said. Bonds went into the season finale with a .257 average.

"I'm happy with my home runs, stolen bases and runs scored. I don't think there is any other leadoff man in baseball who drove in as many runs as I did."

Bonds has 77 rbi, 25 homers, 116 runs scored and stole 42 bases.

Despite his lack of enthusiasm for Philadelphia, one rumor has him going to the Phillies in a multiplayer deal that might also include pitcher Steve Carlton of the Phils.

"That's all the Giants need to win next year," Bonds said, "one more good pitcher."

A pitcher the Giants are counting on next season was the winner Tuesday night.

Steve Stone pitched five scoreless innings in relief to pick up his sixth victory of the season. He allowed only three singles after taking over for Jim Willoughby, who gave up four runs in four innings.

"I wish I could have pitched more innings, Stone said. "The sore arm came just when I was going good." Stone missed six weeks in the middle of the season at a time when he was one of the most effective pitchers on the staff.

"It still hurts a little bit," Stone said.

Ron Bryant, the Giants top winner with 13 victories goes against the Padres in the season final today. Fred Norman pitches for the Padres.

Tuesday night's game drew only 1755 fans, the smallest crowd the Giants have drawn since they moved to San Francisco in 1958.

Their season total will be about 650,000, more than 400,000 less than they drew last year when they won the National League West crown.

Rozelle Denounces Nixon's TV Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle denounced proposed legislation to forbid blackouts of home games when the contests involved are sold out 48 hours before game time.

"In my opinion, Rozelle told a Senate communications subcommittee, "the bill being here proposed would in essence be self-defeating. It would virtually assure that in a period of a few years' time there would be no such thing as a sell-out and therefore no local television. At the same time it would have made non-buyers of former fans ...

"Human nature is such that when people get accustomed to having something free they are not likely to be enthusiastic about paying for it on other occasions," he added. He claimed unqualified support for his stand from all 26 NFL clubs.

Similar complaints came from spokesmen for the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey league, which also would be affected by the legislation. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was to testify Thursday.

"The NBA and its member teams oppose the proposed legislation, which we believe is unfair and which we believe will have a serious financial impact on our member teams ...," NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said.

The legislation would revamp the special antitrust exemption Congress granted the four major professional sports in 1961. That measure enabled them to negotiate package deals with television networks and dictate which games should not be telecast.

The new legislation is aimed primarily at the NFL, which forbids any station within a 75 mile radius of a home team's city from telecasting home games.

Rozelle said the rule is still needed to protect gate receipts, despite the league's financial successes.

Every committee member and every witness at the first day of the hearings Tuesday made it clear they thought the rules should be changed —and that they considered the NFL to be the top public enemy of the hometown fan.

A Justice Department official supported the legislation in behalf of the administration, and the White House made clear later that the President himself was leading the support —and hoped to sign the bill before Congress adjourns.

Water Polo Star Kamler Scores 11

San Rafael beat Redwood, 17-12, yesterday in Marin County Athletic League water polo action, behind an amazing 11-goal effort by Bulldog Mike Kamler.

In other league matches, Terra Linda remained in first place smothering San Marin, 16-5, while surprising Tamalpais High remained a half game back, beating Novato, 12-6. Drake High drew a bye.

Terra Linda had an easy time of it beating San Marin at Novato High. The Trojans spread their scoring, with Todd Gulick putting through five goals.

Host Tamalpais was led by Paul Moe with four goals and Pat Norton, three. Brian Vaghn scored five of Novato's goals.

Seeking 'Continuity,' Royals Make Change

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "During the next 10 years I expect to win at least five out of 10 pennants," said Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Kansas City Royals while announcing that Jack McKeon was replacing Bob Lemon as manager of the American League team.

To do that, Kauffman said Tuesday, it would be necessary to establish continuity of management, which the 52-year-old Lemon would be unable to provide.

However, McKeon, 41, was given a one-year contract "like everyone else in the Royals' organization," he said.

Flanked by the outgoing and incoming managers and Cedric Tallis, executive vice president and general manager, Kauffman told a news conference:

"I want a younger manager."

Statistic Surprises In Preps

Statistics after only one game always produce some surprises, and this week's figures for Marin County Athletic League football provide no exception.

For example, undefeated co-leader Novato High School (1-0) is last in passing offense and total offense, an oddity due more to a tough defensive opponent, Terra Linda, than any offensive failings.

For another example, San Rafael has five ball carriers in the top 10, including the reserve quarterback, Dave Steele.

Jim Grigg of San Rafael, who last year was proclaimed the best back-up runner in the league by coach Bob Muster, this week leads in rushing with 79 yards in 11 carries, a 7l2 average. Workhorse Mark Magers of Novato is five yards behind him.

Tom MacAusland of Drake leads the quarterbacks in attempts, completions, and yardage, and is tied for the lead in touchdowns.

Tamalpais receiver Dennis Morini leads in receptions and yardage and is tied with Grigg and San Rafael's Craig Saunders as the top scorer.

First-week figures do not include Redwood High School, which played non-league foe Clayton Valley in Concord last weekend.

SHOWERED WITH AFFECTION — Detroit manager Billy Martin (right) was given a drenching with champagne yesterday after making good his springtime boast and guiding the Tigers to the championship of the American League East. Detroit clinched the title with a 3-1 victory in Boston yesterday, and Tigers Mickey Lolich (left) and John Knox participated in the victory celebration. (UPI Telephoto) anywhere else," Fryman, 32, said. "I didn't know if I could get anybody out when I came over here."

Luis Tiant, given an unearned run to protect in the first inning, looked like he was going to do it with his baffling variety of motions and pitches.

But Norm Cash walked, Duke Sims bunted him to second, and Jim Northrup tied the game 1-1 in the sixth with a line single to the right field wall.

Dick McAuliffe, who "blew" an easy double play relay in the first to give Boston its unearned run, doubled with one out in the seventh to bring Kaline to bat.

Tiant gave him a slow, sweeping outside slider on 1-1 and Kaline looked bad missing the pitch.

"I gave him another slider, a backup slider inside," Tiant said of the pitch which made him 15-6 rather than 16-5. "I don't know how he hit that pitch. I can't understand it.

"But then, he's hitting everything right now. For almost 20 years he's been hitting everybody."

The old pro of 37 skipped over Duke Sims' slow roller to short and likely caused Luis Aparicio to muff the ball, giving the Detroit catcher a single and setting things up for Kaline to score an insurance run when Yastrzemski saw Cash's grounder squirt out of his glove. Bill Lee of Terra Linda finished up on the mound for Boston, pitching the final 1⅔ innings.

racewalkers. And so these countries want to stop Olympic racewalking."

Despite this uncertainty, Klopfer was optimistic about U.S. racewalking's future.

"Larry Young took a third in the 50-kilometer. He should improve. He definitely has talent. Possibly, this might start something for our country."

When mentioning his own plans, Klopfer said he will retire after 1973.

"Next year, I hope to compete in the U.S.-Soviet Union track and field meet in Russia. I also hope to take part in the world racewalking championships next fall in Edinburgh, Scotland.

"For now," he concluded, "I'll continue my work at San Rafael High. Then, in January, I'll be moving to Berkeley to study for my Ph.D. in mechanical engineering at the University of California."

Portland Cagers Waive Guard Fields

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— The Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association reached the 12-player limit by placing guard Bobby Fields on waivers.

Fields, 6-foot-3 from La Salle, played briefly with Utah in the American Basketball Association last year. He came to the Blazer camp this year as a free agent.

Detroit Fans, Police Scuffle

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

DETROIT — Thousands of Detroit Tiger baseball fans, celebrating their team's winning of the American League's Eastern Division title, scuffled with police and threw bottles last night and early today in downtown Kennedy Square.

Police said at least 18 persons were arrested. "Perhaps an occasional bottle-thrower was arrested," one police officer said. "But I can't tell you how many."

Several other persons were reported injured, and while police confirmed there were injuries they were unable to ascertain the number. A policeman suffered a broken arm when a fan jumped on him trying to get to the Tiger dugout shortly after the game.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some New Rules On Boat Sanitation

It now appears certain that the only marine sanitation devices ultimately permitted on pleasure craft with marine toilets, or "heads," will be holding tanks.

This comes out of the announcement by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) which has been studying the problem for a year.

However, it also appears that the standards will be phased-in very gradually, and the present boat owner could have as long as eight years in which to fully comply with the "no sewage discharge" rules. This will irritate a lot of people demanding instand action.

Robert Fri, the EPA's deputy administrator, said in Washington the standards will apply only to vessels on which marine toilet facilities are installed — about 600,000 vessels, including pleasure craft, in the U.S.

The cost of the changeover will be about $1,057,000 to install holding tanks on all craft requiring them, Fri said.

The standards will affect only "navigable waters," and thus could not apply to many very large lakes and rivers used by pleasure craft.

The standards, and the timing of their application is a complicated thing. Anyone can get a copy by writing: Outboard Boating Club of America, 401 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., 60611.

New government regulations at all levels are of great concern to boaters as some of the letters we get indicate:

Q. We plan a protest to our state legislature on an amendment to a boat law. Where can we get help?

A. Write to Boat Owners Council Of America, 401 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60611. This organization, supported by boating organizations and industry, has a very expert legal department which exists to help such groups as yours.

Q. I am moving to California (with our cabin cruiser) and I'm told anti-pollution laws vary widely from area to area in the state. Where can I find Out?

A. There are local (county or municipal) ordinances covering boating, including anti-pollution, in some California areas. This is also true of the other West Coast states, especially Washington. First write to the Division of Small Craft Harbors, Sacramento, Calif. Ask for a copy of the state boating law. Also write to Boat Owners Council, mentioned above and ask for their digest of boating laws of the western states.

Q. Why aren't present pollution laws uniform throughout one state?

A. I can't find a reasonable answer to that question. In Ohio, the present anti-pollution law requiring holding tanks for sewage aboard boats does not apply on the Ohio river or Lake Erie. Maybe because it's difficult to control the 25,000 or so cruise-type boats in the Toledo-Sandusky-Cleveland area.

Q. If a boat conforms to present anti-pollution rules in one state, will it be accepted in another?

A. Not necessarily. Reciprocity is not the usual thing at the moment between states in this matter. However, there will be uniformity under the new EPA regulations. Reciprocity is better between international neighbors. For instance, boats from New York State (which still permits sewage chlorinators) are accepted in neighborhing Canadian provinces which prohibit chlorinators and demand holding tanks.

Q. Do any states prohibit flushing marine toilets into the ocean or offshore waters?

A. I can't find any that do. For example, up to now, New Jersey has specified "non-tidal" waters in its antipollution regulations, although all other new Jersey boating laws generally apply to these waters.

Stanford Coach Sees No USC Weaknesses

OAKLAND (UPI)—Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen can't find a weakness in the top-rated USC Trojans although he also wonders if they haven't been running up the scores a bit in their games so far.

The two unbeaten teams collide Saturday at Stanford and the winner will be the favorite to go to the Rose Bowl although Washington and UCLA still are very much in the running, too.

"USC is a great team," Christiansen told the Northern California writers Tuesday. "It is very tough for us to see any weakness."

USC publicist Don Anderson defended coach John McKay against the charge of running up big scores.

"We've used all 59 players in each of our four games," he said, "and 13 different players have scored touchdowns."

But Christiansen noted wryly that first-string Lynn Swann was the guy who caught a last-second touchdown in the 51-6 romp over Michigan State last Saturday.

Some 73,000 tickets have been sold for Saturday's Stanford battle, but another 17,000 are still around.

John Winesberry, Stanford's running back who caught passes for 50 yards and ran for 135 more last Saturday against West Virginia, was named Northern California offensive player of the week.

California has a 1-3 record and now must face Ohio State, USC, UCLA and Washington on successive weeks. That's four of the nation's top 20-rated teams.

San Jose State coach Dewey King, whose Spartans lost 23-21 to Fresno, praised the Bulldogs as having their finest team in his four years as coach.

Spartan defensive back Mike Hopkins, who intercepted three Fresno passes, was named defensive player of the week.

San Jose State has to call on San Diego State this week while UOP is at Fresno State.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

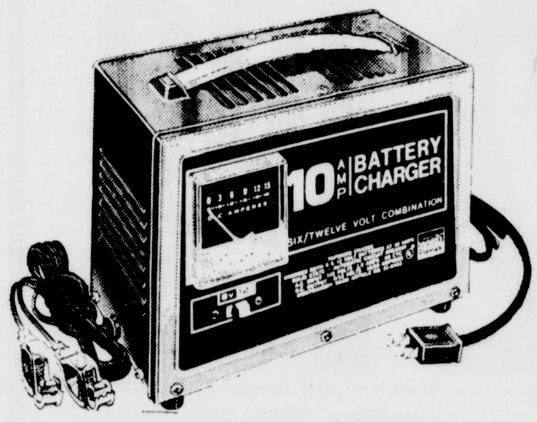

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

A Great Year For Carlton

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Steve Carlton is not a member of the "Over the Hill" gang but aims to reach 30 anyway next year.

Wins, that is.

Philadelphia's star lefty tied one of Sandy Koufax' records and completed a brilliant season with his 27th victory Tuesday while the anemic Phillies broke loose with a barrage of six home runs in a 11-1 romp over the Chicago Cubs.

Carlton aimed for 25 in spring training and is now shooting for 30 next season.

"I attained my goal of 25 victories when I was traded this year, so next year I'll have to come up with a larger goal, like 30. It's something to strive a little harder for," Carlton said.

When someone asked that despite Carlton's achievements this year, a goal exceeding 25 victories next season might be too much to ask, he retorted, "a lot of things can be accomplished if you believe in yourself."

Carlton led the National League in six categories this season and tied Koufax's mark for the most victories by a lefthander in the National League in the modern era (since 1900).

Carlton led the league in strikeouts, with 310, the majors in complete games with 30, innings pitched (346) and earned run average (1.98).

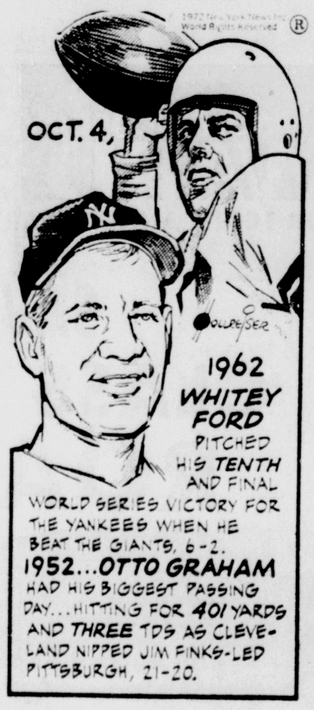

"The most satisfying one of all was the 27 victories," said Carlton, who won more games for a last place team than any other pitcher in modern history. His 27 represents more than 45 per cent of the Phillies total of 58 wins, with one game remaining in the season.

Don Money and Greg Luzinski paced the 14-hit Philadelphia attack by hitting back-to-back home runs in both the third and fifth innings. Bill Robinson and Terry Harmon also homered for the Phillies.

In other National League games, New York beat Montreal 5-2 and 4-3 in 12, Pittsburgh stopped St. Louis 6-2, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 6-5, Cincinnati trounced Houston 6-1 and San Francisco defeated San Diego 7-4.

In the American League, Detroit clinched the AL East title with a 3-1 win over Boston, California edged Oakland, 3-2, Cleveland won in 10, 6-5 before bowing to Baltimore in the nightcap, 4-3, Minnesota topped Chicago, 5-4, Texas stopped Kansas City, 3-0 and Milwaukee eked past New York, 3-2.

Tar Harriers 2nd In Triangular Meet

Led by Bob Bunnell, the College of Marin cross-country team finished second in a triangular non-league meet yesterday at the Tars' course at Lake Lagunitas, scoring 41 points to trail Diablo Valley College of Pleasant Hill (32) and defeat San Joaquin Delta of Fresno (55).

Bunnell ran the four-mile course in 21:15 and was the individual winner. Lee Hotchkin was third, John Streett eighth, Joe Kinn 14th and John Ladd 15th for the Tars.

Rams Seem Vulnerable To The Run

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams seem to be vulnerable to the rushing game. The San Francisco 49ers hope they have the ground attack to exploit this weakness in their clash at Los Angeles this Sunday.

While Atlanta rolled for 297 yards against Los Angeles last Sunday, the 49ers could only go for 126 yards against New Orleans, which had a rag-tag defensive line.

The week before against injury-riddled Buffalo, the 49ers only mustered 33 yards.

"We're still not executing properly," offensive coach Dick Stanfel said. "A few times Sunday (against New Orleans) one more block would have sprung a back for long yardage. It was a lot better performance than what we showed at Buffalo, but we're still making mistakes."

Stanfel also said that the Rams' defense had an off day against Atlanta.

"You can bet your bottom dollar Los Angeles will be coming after us," said Stanfel. "They can't be too proud over their performance in Atlanta and you know how they enjoy beating us."

There is a question of whether Roman Gabriel, who has a tendinitis-plagued elbow, or backup man Pete Beathard, who has yet to move the Rams effectively, will play most of Sunday's battle.

Perry Stakes Claim To Cy Young Award

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Gaylord Perry, the first 24-game winner the Cleveland Indians have had since 1946, says he deserves to win the Cy Young Award in the American League "as much as anybody else."

"I thought I had a good year," said Perry who had a 1.92 earned run average this season in compiling a 24-16 record which included five shutouts and one save in relief last April 30 at Kansas City. "My chances are as good as the other guys."

"There are a couple of reasons why I should win it. First is because I had the best ball control this season that I've had in years and second is because (I pitched every fourth day (342⅔ innings) and that's what helped me. I hope I'm still in contention for it, but we'll wait and see what happens."

Perry, who came to the Tribe from San Francisco with shortstop Frank Duffy in a trade last Nov. 30 for Sam McDowell, lost eight games by one run this year. Rookie Manager Ken Aspromonte said there was "no doubt in my mind that with more runs behind him he could have coasted to 30 victories."

"His games were decided by one run and at the maximum two runs on either side," said Aspromonte, who has not yet been approached by President and General Manager Gabe Paul as to whether or not he will be back as manager next season.

"He's in a class with Whitey Ford, Don Drysdale and all the other tough competitors all the way down the line. He kept us in the (pennant) race until the middle of September. I think he should win the Cy Young Award because he won 24 games with a fifth-place ball club."

With or without the so-called horses, winning the Cy Young Award is not the foremost thought in the 34-year-old right-hander's mind.

"I talked with Mr. Paul about being traded this (Tuesday) morning," said Perry as he casually autographed his picture post cards and then addressed them to his followers. "I told him if they would trade me there would be no hard feelings.

"I'd go away from here like I did from the Giants. The Giants, over my 14 years there, treated me with respect and so have the Indians. But I told him that I hope to be back here next year."

If that decision is left up to Aspromonte, Perry will be back. But right now Aspromonte is more worried about his own neck.

Raiders Begin Work For Houston Game

ALAMEDA (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders resume workouts today as they prep for Monday night's battle at Houston.

Coach John Madden gave his team the day off Tuesday since they play a day late next week. But Clarence Davis, who will be activated for the Houston game, worked out on his own along with a few other eager Raiders.

Seals To End Exhibition Slate

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)— The California Golden Seals close out their exhibition season here tonight against their Salt Lake City Western Hockey League farm team.

The Seals took the Phoenix Roadrunners of the WHL 6-3 Tuesday night as half a dozen players scored one goal each.

Terra Linda Kaiser Hospital Begins $5.5 Million Facelift

Kaiser Foundation Hospital at 99 Monticello Road in Terra Linda is undergoing a $5.5 million expansion and modernization job that will increase the number of hospital beds from 73 to 94.

Plans call for a three-story clinic and a two-story hospital addition to be built behind the existing facility. Completion is expected by the end of 1973.

The expansion will include new medical offices, operating rooms, recovery rooms, delivery suites, intensive and coronary care beds, enlarged laboratory, X-ray and emergency services.

The existing facility was a convalescent home when Kaiser took over in 1967.

MOTORCYCLES UNLIMITED Inc., which started from scratch five years ago in Corte Madera, has grown so rapidly that it is tripling its space in a new building next to its present site at 5776 Paradise Drive, south of J & B Ford Sales.

Alex McLean of Corte Madera, owner of the motorcycle sales and repair shop, hopes to have the new two-story concrete structure completed in December. He carries Honda, Norton, Suzuki and AJS British motorcycles, and operates a complete repair and service shop.

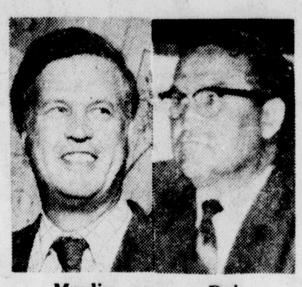

Among new equipment he hopes to install in the new building is a Dyno-tester, by which he can "road-test" a motorcycle without taking it out on the road.

Motorcycles Unlimited is open six days a week from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

THOMAS M. MOULIN of San Rafael, president of Gabriel Moulin Studios in San Francisco, is the new president of the Executives Association of San Francisco. He was elected to succeed Peter Paige of Paige Glass Co.

The Executives Association is a non-profit organization founded in 1916 for the mutual support of member busnesses. About 80 business executives from the Bay Area meet weekly at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

Moulin is the third-generation owner of the photo studio, which was founded by his grandfather, Gabriel Moulin.

Moulin Dei

JACK W. DEI of Sebastopol was re-elected president of the Petaluma Co-operative Creamery at the annual meeting held in Veterans Memorial Building in Petaluma last week. Clinton C. Beebe of Petaluma was re-elected vice president.

POOR RICHARD'S Beauty Salon at 36 Caledonia Street in Sausalito came under new ownership this week, but the name and service will continue unchanged.

Mrs. Mary Crosby of Sausalito, who has been an accountant with Ireland, Robinson and Hadley custom home builders of Belvedere, bought the beauty shop from Richard Snow of San Rafael, who founded it 12 years ago. Snow will enter the real estate field and plans to be affiliated with Trojan Properties real estate in Sausalito.

Mrs. Crosby said her operator-manager will be Stella Shea, who has been with Poor Richard's for the past 10 years. Other members of the salon staff are David Stark, who has worked there for the past five years, and a new operator from New Orleans, Raymond Pate.

Poor Richard's Beauty Salon is open six days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Thursday evenings by appointment.

GROUNDBREAKING ceremonies for Old Brown's Store, Mill Valley's answer to Ghirardelli Square, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at 30 Miller Avenue, the former Brown's Furniture building.

Work will begin to convert the old furniture building into a series of boutiques, with extensive use of redwood and stained glass. The 20,000-square-foot shopping area will be completed early next spring. Haas and Haynie Corp. of South San Francisco is the developer. Baker and Co. of Mill Valley is leasing agent.

MADERA FOODS at 508 Tamalpais Drive in Corte Madera was in the process of changing ownerships, but the deal was called off at the last minute.

Owners of the store are Guido Molinari of San Rafael, Albert Sferrati of Larkspur and Vincent Gianni of South San Francisco. Until last week, Gianni was set to buy out the other two and bring in another partner. However, Gianni said this week they decided against any change. The present owners will operate as they have for 10 years.

THOMAS E. BARTLETT, president of Wyvern Research Associates of San Rafael, will address the Western Agency Officers' Association fall meeting tomorrow at the Mariott Inn in Berkeley. He will speak on "Marketing Surveys and Agent Selection for Tomorrow."

About 75 regional vice presidents and marketing vice presidents of major insurance agencies are expected to attend.

GOLDEN WEST Savings and Loan Association has applied for permission to relocate its Corte Madera branch from 36 Corte Madera Center to a new regional shopping center planned on the other side of Highway 101. Southern California developer Ernest W. Hahn will build the new shopping center at the northeast corner of Highway 101 and Paradise Drive, where the California Highway Patrol office now is located.

JOSEPH J. TALARICO of Novato has been promoted to director of systems training for Fireman's Fund American Insurance Cos. Based in the San Francisco headquarters, he will train branch and regional personnel in the use of computer systems.

Talarico started with Firemen's Fund in Philadelphia in 1967. He came to the San Francisco office in 1969 and in 1971 became systems training coordinator for the manpower development and training department.

JOHN M. ALLEN of Tiburon and Stephen G. Lewis of Sausalito have been appointed assistant managers of New York Life Insurance Company's financial center general office in San Francisco.

DENNIS CHASE of San Rafael, field sales representative for Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp., attended a company conference in Louisville, Ky., to discuss modern cigarette manufacturing methods.

1973 OPEL GT

Opel's sporty GT model retains its popular styling for 1973 but adds a number of new features including the new sport wheels shown here, in silver with black accenting. The GT interior continues to feature foam-padded, perforated vinyl trim with adjustable seat backs, a three-spoke, simulated wood grain steering wheel, control center instrument panel grouping, shifting console and carpeting. Marin dealer is Don Collins Buick of San Rafael.

Substantial Gains Made On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —Buying activity increased and some selected issues made substantial gains in the first two hours today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Turnover picked up from its sluggish course of recent sessions and came to better than 7.8 million shares in the first two hours.

Analysts said the renewed interest might have been sparked by a government report Tuesday of a sharp gain in factory orders in August. However, the buying activity was selective and it seemed a majority of investors still remain on the sidelines.

AT&T warrants were most active in the morning, gaining 1-4 to 7 1-2 on a volume of 184,600.

Also on the active list were Curtiss-Wright and Levitz Furniture. The two glamors have taken severe losses on heavy volume in recent sessions. Curtiss-Wright was down 3 7-8 on more than 12,000 shares while Levitz was off 3-8 on some 121,000 shares.

Prices also were slightly higher on the American Stock Exchange but leaders were mostly lower. American Israeli Paper was the most active issue, off 7-8 to 12 7-8 on 37,700 shares.

On the Big Board, steels, motors and chemicals were changed fractionally, mostly on the upside.

1973 JEEP WAGONEER

A revolutionary new full-time four-wheel-drive system, Quadra-Trac, is the big news with Jeep vehicles for 1973. Offered as a low-cost option on the Wagoneer (limited production for the first few months of the model year) and four models of the Jeep truck (after October), Quadra-Trac increases the Jeep go-anywhere capability and adds to mobility and safety. The complete 1973 Jeep line goes on sale in mid-September.

Old Scare Tactic For Proposition 9

The effort to make it easier to pass bond issues for building schools is continued in Proposition 9, which will be on the Nov. 7 ballot.

This proposal, put on the ballot by the Legislature, would reduce the requirement for passage of a school bond issue to a simple majority instead of two-thirds — where that bond issue is to replace or repair buildings which do not meet requirements of the Field Act.

THE FIELD ACT was enacted after the Long Beach earthquake of 1933 shook down several new brick school buildings. It set up earthquake-resistance standards for all public school buildings built thereafter in California. It has been amended several times to tighten the requirements.

According to proponents of Proposition 9, some 1,600 school buildings which do not meet these standards are still in use in California. Bond issues to replace them have had tough sledding, seldom mustering the necessary two-thirds.

To help school districts replace these buildings, the Legislature two years ago set up a procedure whereby, if a bond issue fails to pass, a school district may levy a special tax toward repair or replacement of unsafe buildings.

To further help, voters in the June 2 primary this year approved a state bond issue of $250 million toward such replacements, thus making it possible to finance the new buildings with only half the cost falling directly on the local property tax. The efficacy of this measure — which certainly should make it easier to pass local bond issues to replace unsafe schools — has yet to be tested.

NOW WE ARE being asked to permit passage of bond issues for repair or replacement of schools which have been ruled legally unsafe by simply vajority vote.

To get us to vote for this, proponents of Proposition 9 are relying on the old scare tactic. They are painting a picture of thousands of little school children in peril of their lives because the mean old voters won't give two-thirds approval to bond issues. They are playing the earthquake scare for all it's worth.

If it is not necessary to have two-thirds majority to pass a bond issue to replace a legally unsafe school building, why should it be necessary to have two-thirds majority to pass a bond issue to prevent crowding and double sessions — which may pose an actual hazard greater than alleged lack of earthquake resistance in an old structure?

PROPOSITION 9 would be an entering wedge toward reducing the requirement for all school bond issues —and proliferating new school construction for not-always-necessary purposes. It would set a bad precedent.

It is unnecessary, in view of the measures already taken by Legislature and voters to speed the replacement of actually unsafe schools. We therefore recommend its defeat.

Election Law Enforcement Depends On Who Wants It

By RUS WALTON

Sec. of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. is bound and determined to enforce the state's election laws. That's what he says. And, that's good. As long as the laws are on the books they should be upheld.

The trouble is, Mr. Brown uses a rubber yardstick. His law enforcement seems selective, tilted toward his personal political peccadillos rather than the public's best interest.

Look what has happened in the 57th Assembly District (San Fernando Valley). An election law is being ignored there.

THE WHOLE CAPER started in the fall of 1971, when the Democrat-controlled Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee began chopping out new Assembly districts based on the 1970 census.

Chairman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, put his aide, Michael Berman, to work hacking out new lines and districts. Michael's brother, Howard Berman, had a yen to run for office. A new 57th district was drawn that put Howard within its boundaries and handed him a 62 per cent Democatic registration. This was nice for Howie but rough on incumbent Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks; it just about consigned Conrad to retirement.

The whole thing came unglued when Governor Reagan vetoed the Democrats' gerrymandering bill. Then, the State Supreme Court gave things another whack when it upheld Reagan's veto and told the Legislature to go back to the drawing board. Meanwhile, said the court, the old legislative districts remain status quo for the 1972 elections.

Poor old Howard Berman! There he was without a district to call his own.

BUT HOWARD'S yen for office was not to be deflated. He jumped the fence and landed in the old 57th district, rented an apartment, registered to vote on March 5, and filed his candidacy papers on March 6. That was only 93 days before the June primary and 247 days before the November general election.

The state constitution says Howard pulled a no-no. Article IV, Section 2 (c) states:

"A person is ineligible to be a member of the Legislature unless he is an elector and has been a resident of his district for one year . . . immediately preceding his election."

You'd think Jerry Brown — being so all-fired up about enforcing the election laws — would have enforced that section of the constitution and told Howard Berman he had missed the boat.

But not Mr. Brown. He not only refused to invoke the law, he wrote a letter of endorsement for Howard Berman — wrote it on official secretary of state letterhead and mailed it to folks in the 57th district.

BERMAN'S DEMOCRATIC primary opponents took the case to court — first to the superior court and then to the state supreme court.

"One year in the district preceding his election — that's what the constitution says, your honor. Obviously Mr. Berman does not fulfill that residency requirement."

But your honors were a bit short on honor, that day. They said the constitution notwithstanding, the Legislature is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members; let the fox guard the hen house, the consitution and the public notwithstanding.

Howard Berman got more votes than any of the other 10 Democrats in the 57th Assembly District primary. But, when the Los Angeles County registrar of voters sent the nomination papers to Sacramento, he included a memo to the secretary of state. Wrote the registrar: in my opinion Mr. Berman does not qualify for election because of failure to meet the one-year residency requirement.

NOW, WHEN Senators John Tunney and Edward Kennedy suggested Brown find a way to get Proposition 22 off the ballot, Jerry jumped — the same way Bob Moretti jumped last year when Tunney and Kennedy asked him to bury a similar farm labor bill in the Assembly. What Cesar Chavez wants, Cesar gets.

But, what's a memo from a nonpartisan registrar of voters who is simply trying to uphold the law? Forget it! Mr. Berman's name stays on the ballot.

'Butterfingers!"

San Franciscan Enters Fluoridation Dispute

As a San Francisco resident who buys bottled water for her family at least partly to avoid the fluoride in the municipal water supply, I have been following Marin County's fluoridation issue with interest and some amazement. In answer to the dentists and pediatricians who support fluoridation of the entire water supply, may I point out that teeth are only one part of the body and children only one part of the population.

To the economic argument of protection for the poor, one may ask how well the poor family, concerned about its children's long-range, over-all health, can afford to buy fluoride-free bottled water if t feels that to be the safer course.

Many Helped Success Of Marin County Fair

Please accept this belated, but deep-felt expression of appreciation for your coverage of our recent Marin County Fair.

The attendance was at record levels, and much of this was due to the effort by your staff to inform the residents of Marin County about the varied and interesting aspects of their county fair.

Bob Strebeigh and his staff of reporters and photographers, including Mary Leydecker, Jeff Greer, Pat Angle, Jim Kean, Al Arn, Bob Hax, and many others whose names I should add to this list, went to great lengths to report on the news generated by the fair. Don Keown in the Marin Magazine also did an excellent job of informing your readers about our event. . .

The success of the 1972 Marin County Fair was a tribute to the effort of literally hundreds of people, but close to the top of this list was the competent professional job done by the I-J. We on the fair staff are most grateful.

'Non-Human Embryo' Salve To Conscience

We want to highly commend Rus Walton for his column "Life Within the Womb and Issue of Abortion." His words make sense and hit the nail on the head.

Those who want to salve their consciences must argue that the embryo is not human. But can they really believe what they say? The mental state of many women who have had abortions would indicate that they are only fooling themselves.

How true that the only solution to "unwanted" babies is self control. Another thought: there are really no unwanted babies, because God wants all of them, or He woudln't have given them the gift of life.

Women Voters Back Transit Director

One of the most important decisions concerningtransportation in Marin County will be presented at the meeting of the Marin Transit District Board on Oct. 3 at 8:30 a.m. in the supervisors' chambers, Civic Center.

The board will consider whether to dissolve the position of acting general maager and place all transit matters under the County Public Works Department.

The League of Women Voters of Central Marin has, for the past five years, studied inter- and intra-county transportation, as well as participated in a Bay Area study of transportation. We feel that Marin County needs the services of a professional transit district general manager who will be responsible and accountable to the county residents for service, scheduling, promotion and planning.

At present, the transit district contracts for intra-county service from the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, and we feel that Marin County should have a strong voice in planning the services we contract.

Every citizen who is concerned should write to the transit district board which consists of the board of supervisors, plus Kenneth L. Anderso, councilman, San Anselm and Edward W. Colthurst, councilman, Corte Madera, and attend the meeting next Tuesday.

Bell On Cat's Neck Cruelty To Animal

About 10 days ago, my neighbor across the street told me that he saw a white cat belonging to a Nelson Avenue family running down our street with something which sounded like a can attached to it. He said it had gone down my driveway. I searched my backyard but to no avail.

Yesterday morning early, when I went out to empty garbage, I heard the piteous cry of a cat. Upon investigation, I found this little white cat huddled on the side of my compost bed. It was unable to lift its head and my first thought was that it was ill. I went to pick it up and found that a cord had been tightly tied around its neck and at the end of this cord was a large brass bell — the kind imported from India or the East. The cord had become entangled around the branches of a lilac tree and the cat could not be moved for fear of being strangled. It must have crouched there all night in the rain and the cord around its neck had tightened and badly lacerated the cat's neck. It was impossible to untie the knot so I cut through it with scissors. The poor animal was so starved after that long 10-day ordeal. Luckily, it has been returned to its owner and chances are that it will recover.

I've heard of putting little bells around cats' necks to warn the bird but this act of cruelty is nothing but the work of a depraved, sick mind. If the owner of the bell wishes to claim it, it is hanging on my front porch, still attached to what would have been the death cord.

How Far Dare President Go To End The War In Vietnam?

WASHINGTON — Vietnam can still be a peril to President Nixon's re-election.

The danger will not come from the doves and others who want the war over at once.

It would come from quite a different direction — from his supporters who have accepted the President's word that he will get "an honorable peace" and who may not relish what comes.

IT IS NOW altogether possible that the most crucial you-give-some-and-we'll-give-some negotiations with Hanoi will come to a head before Nov. 7.

They're already reaching the point at which Nixon will have to make a very delicate compromise from which the most uncertain consequences could flow or else rule out all hope of a negotiated peace fôr many months to come.

The razor-edge decision is this: How far can the President go in giving the Communist Viet Cong a role in a transitional Saigon government without inviting — even furthering — a Communist takeover?

THE MINORITY segment of the nation —those who demand above anything else to end the war now — will want Nixon to go to any lengths to get Hanoi to agree.

But the President has persuaded a decisive majority of the American people (67 per cent to 25 per cent according to Gallup) to approve his assurance that he will not do anything to "impose a Communist dictatorship" on the people of South Vietnam.

The President's dilemma is right here: Can he get a settlement with Hanoi without giving the Communists some role in a pre-election Saigon government and, if he does, will he not be seriously risking a Communist takeover which he has promised he would not permit?

THIS GOES to the heart of the private talks which Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho are having.

It is clear that the secret Paris talks have reached the most sensitive area of possible compromise between Hanoi and Washington. One dispatch puts it this way:

"Informed sources indicate that the main focus of the private bargaining now is over a political formula for shaping the future Siagon government."

My information parallels this report and suggests that the major negotiating differences have narrowed to determining how authority in Saigon shall be shared prior to new South Vietnamese elections.

HERE WE COME to a fine but vital distinction.

The United States has already proposed, and President Thieu has agreed, that the Communist Viet Cong can have co-equal responsibility in a commission of government officials and neutrals to 'organize and run" (these are Kissinger words) new South Vietnamese elections, that Thieu himself will resign a month ahead of the voting, and that the integrity of the elections will be guaranteed by international supervision.

But Hanoi demands more. It wants to become a co-equal participant in running the Saigon government as well as the elections even before a new government is chosen.

That's the rub. Should the United States negotiate to put unelected Communists in the government of South Vietnam before the South Vietnamese people have decided whether they want them there?

If President Nixon makes that concession, many Americans will understandably feel that he is helping to "impose a Communist dictatorship on South Vietnam."

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

All-Volunteer Armed Forces Now Near; How Will They Work?

WASHINGTON — Unless we are all victims of a historic, long-drawn-out political hoax, the pipe dream of all-volunteer armed forces is about to become a reality in America for the first time since the cold war began in Harry Truman's time. The question of whether no longer exists. The question of when will be answered shortly: next July at the latest, but don't be surprised if Mr. Nixon makes a happily timed announcement between now and Election Day that monthly draft calls are to be halted as of Jan. 1, 1973.

Still to come are the answers to how it will work out — whether the worst fears of the antimilitarists will materialize and we will have to cope with a professional military clique grasping for political power, whether we can afford all-volunteer services in a country already deeply in debt, and whether an all-volunteer force would depend unfairly on the poor and black for its manpower.

THE FIRST of those fears has no foundation in our history. For most of the years since 1776, we have had a standing army but no draft. During the years between Korea and Vietnam, while the current draft program was in operation, it was used only to fill out the numbers beyond those who volunteered.

The Navy, and especially the Marine Corps, have resorted to the draft only at times of peak wartime demand. Except during late World War II, the entire officer corps above the company level has been made up of career military men. The civilian side has remained unchallenged in control for all these years.

Of course there remains the concern, often elaborated in the Senate, that the military by sheer weight of spending is too dominant in the country. But that is not the same as a military clique's bidding directly for political control and bears only indirect relation to the subject of the draft. Shifting to a volunteer force already has cost billions and is going to cost many more, thus adding to the economic burden of the military establishment. But a political decision has been made that we will afford volunteer services —whether we can or not — and unlike vast outlays for new hardware, this is an aim with which even the antimilitarists in the Senate have to concur.

THE MOST GENUINE concern is that enlistment bonuses and increased active duty pay will prove attractive to blacks and undereducated whites, but not equally to other social and economic groups — and therefore the heaviest combat role in the future will fall on the already disadvantaged. Currently the Army and Marine Corps are paying $1,500 bonuses to four-year enlistees in the combat branches. That $1,500 undoubtedly looks like more money to an 18-year-old from a ghetto or rural slum than to a middle- or upper-class youth who has college in the front of his mind.

A remedy is offered in an article by Jerald G. Bachman and Jerome Johnston in the current Psychology Today, an adaptation of their study described in the book, 'Young Men Look At Military Service." They questioned more than 2,000 young civilians in detail during the height of the Vietnam fighting, and discovered among other things what they call "a backlog of positive feeling about military service."

They asked these young men which would be the more tempting inducement to volunteer: a pay scale starting at $5,000 a year and going to $7,200 in the fourth year (not quite double the present, already sweetened scale) or government payment of all costs, including living expenses, for four years of college or technical school, either before or after the service tour (if current college costs are $3,000 a year, this would approximately double the present GI Bill base allowance of $175 a month for 36 college months).

NOT ONLY DID more of those questioned choose the paid-schooling plan, but there was a clear difference in their intelligence ratings. The pay incentive generally was preferred by those with lower intelligence test scores and college support was picked by those who scored higher.

This points the way for the services to avoid the dreaded possibility of a mostly black, mostly poor "mercenary" force, and to have instead an army roughly representative of the country's population. It would be expensive; any all-volunteer force will be. But it would be worth the expense, especially when fantastic college costs are pricing many young Americans out of an education.

Planning Is Unplanned World In Larkspur And Corte Madera

You would think that Planning would be an orderly matter. Just the word itself carries connotations of design and method and order.

Not in Corte Madera and Larkspur it doesn't. In those two towns, Planning is a synonym for confusion and controversy.

In comparison to things like trucks and landscaping, which have to go out to bid, planning appears to be accomplished (and not accomplished) by a bewildering mishmash of private and public consultants and planning experts.

IN LARKSPUR, where a director of planning and community development was hired in August, the city earlier paid $10,000 to Mocine and Williams, planning consultants, for the first phase of a planning program.

There is some question over whether the city council later authorized Mocine and Williams to do $2,000 worth of revision on city ordinances. Some councilmen at the Sept. 7 council meeting thought it had. Others didn't.

And at some time during the last two months — when is not exactly clear — the city hired Dan Coleman and Associates to prepare a general plan for city territory on the San Quentin Peninsula. That was paid for by T. I. Properties, who hold the Hutchinson Quarry and Remillard lands, in effect almost all the land involved.

In the meantime, the new city planning director is working on general plan recommendations to be presented at an Oct. 11 joint city council and planning commission meeting.

The Larkspur Town Meeting has asked for citizen involvement in preparing the general plan.

What the council and planning commission will do with all these general plan recommendations from so many sources is unclear. They've admitted to being confused lately, and it's hardly surprising.

CORTE MADERA on the other hand, appears to be completely committed to the planning firm of Sedway-Cooke, although they've never officially announced the fact.

Sedway-Cooke, of San Francisco, was hired by the town Redevelopment Agency (which is in fact, the five town councilmen) on Sept. 23 to update the town's general plan for $10,000.

These planning consultants have had three contracts with Corte Madera for reviewing specific developments, Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told me.

These included Madera del Presidio, and the quarry site, both studies paid for by prospective developers, and the seven-acre office site on Tamal Vista.

Did the jobs go out to bid?

"When you are dealing with a professional firm like that you don't take bids," Bartels said. "What we did a year ago, I proposed the general plan revision in the budget. I contracted several planners I knew and went through proposals they had received — you look at statements.

"We then talked to three firms and at that point picked Sedway and Cooke as the one we wanted. It was left to the mayor's final decision."

I questioned whether the redevelopment contract to Sedway-Cooke might not appear to be something of a rubberstamp action, but Bartels disagreed. He said he went over their proposal for the $35,000 plan for the redevelopment agency work, and the $10,000 for the town's general plan, several times before they were presented.

"And when they come up with general plan recommendations they go through a series of hearings. What comes out has to be something acceptable to the public," he said.

Which sounds reasonable . . . always supposing the public can understand what has gone before in the peculiar world of Planning.

First Bonds Sold Under New Rating

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California sold its first bonds under its new blue chip AAA credit rating yesterday at a 4.6122 per cent interest rate, State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest said.

A syndicate headed by First National City Bank of New York, Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., Salmon Brothers and United California Bank bought the $90 million in bonds to finance veterans home loans, parks and recreation programs.

A second bid with a 4.627 per cent interest rate was submitted by a syndicate headed by Bank of America, Mrs. Priest added in a statement.

Veterans farm and home loans will use $50 million of the bonds, $25 million will go for State park, recreation and historical facilities, and $15 million will pay for fish and wildlife programs.

The sale was the first since the boost from an AA credit rating to AAA by Moody's Investment Service. The other major rating service, Standard and Poor's, had rated California as AAA for many years. The triple-A rating by Moody's is shared by 14 other states, Mrs. Priest said.

Generally, the higher the credit rating, the lower the interest rate.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

'Released' Teachers Are Still On The Job

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

When most California school districts last March sent notices to some teachers that they might not be rehired for this school year, the California Teachers Association raised a storm.

The notices, declared CTA, were "unnecessary and disruptive."

Actually, the notices were necessary to comply with the law. Elementary school enrollments were declining, which meant fewer teachers would be needed and less money to pay them would be available through state appropriations based on attendance. Under California law, the only way staff reductions can be made in the schools is by releasing the newest teachers, strictly on a seniority basis — and they must be notified by March 15 or else rehired automatically.

In many cases, the notices were sent purely as a precautionary measure. Ordinary turnover of the teaching ranks was expected to obviate the need to release any teacher.

WHAT ACTUALLY happened as result of what CTA blasted as an attempt at wholesale discharge of teachers can be gauged now that the new school year has started.

In Marin County last spring, seven districts sent notices to a total of 208 teachers — as required by law — saying they might not be rehired because of enrollment decreases.

This did not mean the seven districts planned to release 208 teachers. Far from it! But to comply with the law, they sent notices to all first-year teachers, since releases would have to be solely on the basis of "last come, first severed." All but two of the superintendents stated publicly that they did not expect to release any teachers, but were sending the notices just in case the usual turnover failed to cover staff reductions.

When schools opened this fall, the enrollment in the elementary schools of Marin County was down by slightly more than 1,000 from opening day in 1971. On the basis of 25 pupils per teacher, staff reductions would have totaled about 40.

But, as the superintendents had forecast, normal turnover had taken care of practically all of these.

CTA, HOWEVER, found a way to make new capital out of the situation. The CTA Council of Marin, in its Sept. 14 newsletter, reported:

"The final score in the county leaves only two of the original 208 still out of a job. An additional 12 county school teachers still await final governmental appropriations for their positions.

"When someone asks what CTA has done for Marin County teachers lately . . . Ask the teachers whose jobs were saved by CTA."

As a matter of fact, despite the decline of more than 1,000 pupils, nearly all of the Marin County school districts actually hired some new teachers this year — more than 20 in Dixie Elementary School District alone, where opening day enrollment was down 237 from a year ago. Normal turnover had more than taken care of the enrollment decline, and some districts restored some special programs because they found money available through reduction of the number of regular classes.

The same was largely true in most counties.

But CTA, with its alarm over "unnecessary and disruptive" notices, had forced many school districts to go to a hearing process for teachers whom there was no intention of dismissing. By doing this, of course, the union could claim it "saved their jobs."

THE NOTICES and hearings were made necessary by California's "instant tenure" law, under which a teacher once hired has job protection although classified as "probationary" for the first three years.

Grand Jury Use Hit By Lawyers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National Lawyers Guild yesterday accused the Justice Department's internal security division of beginning a "political inquisition" by convening a federal grand jury here.

Barbara Hyland, of the guild's grand jury defense office, said 11 witnesses from seven American cities had been called to testify before the San Francisco jury. She said all are associated in some degree with the New Left movexnt.

Marty Fassler, another grand jury defense office spokesman, told a news conference that the government seeks by its grand jury investigations to "suppress dissent and create a climate of fear."

Miss Hyland and Fassler urged a "protest against the manipulation of the grand jury process for political purposes."

A protest rally was to be held today in front of the Federal Building.

Miss Hyland said government attorneys had refused to disclose the subject of the investigation to the witnesses, their attorneys and the press.

"But the involvement of the internal security division makes clear the political motivation of the investigation," she said.

"This agency's political nature is a matter of record. Last July, 23 leaders of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War were subpoenaed to appeared before the Tallahassee, Fla., grand jury on the first day of the Democratic National Convention," Miss Hyland said.

Fassler added: "They were held under subpoena until the last day of the combination and thus were prevented from taking part in the antiwar demonstrations which they had helped organize.

"We believe that the time of this grand jury inquiry-one month before an election and in the midst of an intensified American bombing campaign in Indochina and its location in San Francisco are not accidental."

Fassler said the San Francisco Grand Jury is the government's response to a large scale antiwar demonstration planned in San Francisco for Oct. 14.

David Grabill of Venice, Calif., told the news conference he had been subpoenaed as one of the witnesses. He said its purpose has been kept secret "from us, from our attorneys and from the public."

"In secret proceedings, we expect that a lawyer from the internal security division will interrogate us about our associations, political activities and personal lifes," Grabill said.

"If we refuse to testify and refuse to cooperate with this inquisition, we face up to 18 months imprisonment when our only single 'crime' is silence," he said.

"The government's abuse of the grand jury system to suppress rightful dissent must be stopped."

Grabill refused to answer questions asking his occupation and age. He said he refused to say anything beyond his statement on the advice of counsel.

Fassler said witnesses had been called from Minneapolis, Colorado, Oregon and the Los Angeles area.

Status Divisions 'Must Be Removed'

LONDON (AP) — "The Director," journal of the Institute of Directors, says unnecessary status divisions between office and factory workers must be broken down.

It says it is time the "landscaped office" with plants, acoustic screens, air-conditioning and subtle lighting and color was brought to the work bench.

Come to Fidelity for a savings account and you'll never come back.

Now, Fidelity Savings can transfer whatever amount you say—automatically—from your bank checking account into a Fidelity Savings account. An account that will let you earn 25% more interest than most commercial banks savings accounts. And you don't have to remember to come in, write a check, lick a stamp, or find an envelope. Put your feet up and save your soles. Fidelity does everything for you. At no charge.

Fidelity's convenient, new way to save: The Transmatic System. Transmatic is the technical name for Fidelity's brand new way to save, but what it's called isn't nearly as important as how it works. Here's how: simply stop in one of our 28 branch office locations in Northern California. Obviously, the one that's most convenient for you.

All you'll have to do is sign two short, uncomplicated forms. One gives us the say-so to withdraw the amount you've specified from your bank checking account, and the second form tells your bank we have your approval. And don't worry. It has all been set up so your bank will co-operate. Automatically.

When you stop in, please bring along two of your pre-printed checking account deposit slips. That's so we can get the exact account and bank numbers. After that? You do nothing. We do everything. With one short visit to a Fidelity office, you've set the whole, simple, convenient, computerized system into action.

From then on, we'll notify you—again, automatically—of just how much you have in your Fidelity Savings account, and how much interest you're earning. We even give you a little sticky thing to paste in your own checkbook with the date we make the transfer. So you won't forget to indicate the amount in your balance.

Most banks, as you know, pay a flat 4% on savings accounts. At Fidelity, our current annual rate is 5%. A neat 1% that could be working for you. Instead of your bank.

Doesn't that speak for itself? Especially when you don't have to go to the bother of making the monthly transfer? Or trip?

Fidelity Savings. The first in Marin County to offer this new convenience.

Sooner or later, some of the other savings and loans in this area may be able to offer the Transmatic System. But it's us sooner, them later. Only Fidelity Savings can do it right now. Why wait? Let us do all the work for you. While you put your feet up.

Sure, we'd like to see you. Once. One trip is all it will take to get you signed up for this convenient, new way to save. Go ahead. Make it. Maybe you'll never come back.

Because you won't have to.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR STATE CERTIFICATION OF McNEAR PLANT MAINTENANCE DREDGING by BASALT ROCK COMPANY, INC. P.O. BOX 2540 NAPA, CALIFORNIA 94558

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Basalt Rock Company, Inc. has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 21(b) Federal Water Pollution Control Act for certification to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the maintenance dredging by Basalt Rock Company, Inc. as described below will be conducted in a manner which will not violate the California Water Quality Control Policy.

Basalt Rock Company, Inc. intends to do maintenance dredging of their barge loading area at Point San Pedro, Marin County. The work will consist of dredging approximately 10,000 cubic yards of bay mud and disposing of this material on their property. The proposed project will be completed by September 30, 1973.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364 - 14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by November 3, 1972.

No. 1471 Oct. 4, 1972

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice—Civil No. C-71-1245 SC. In the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, United States of America, Plaintiff, vs. 32.52 Acres of Land, more or less, situate in the County of Marin, State of California; HAROLD F. GENAZZI, also known as Harold Genazzi, et al., and UNKNOWN OWNERS, Defendants. To Defendants, the heirs or devisees of Galen Burdell, deceased; and all other persons or parties unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property hereinafter described in this Notice under the designation "unknown owners": You are hereby notified that a complaint in condemnation has heretofore been filed in the office of the Clerk of the above named Court in an action to condemn the following estate and interest in the lands described in Schedule "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof, for use in connection with the construction of housing facilities at Point Reyes for the proposed San Francisco Coast Guard Radio Station, and for such other uses as may be authorized by Congress or by Executive Order: The fee simple title, subject, however, to existing rights of way, easements for public roads and highways, public utilities, and pipelines. The authority for the taking is the Act of Congress approved February 26, 1931 (46 Stat. 1421, 40 U.S.C. 258a); the Act of Congress approved August 1, 1888 (25 Stat.357, 40 U.S.C. 257); 14 U.S.C. 92(f); section 6(b)(1) of the Department of Transportation Act (Public Law 89-670, 80 Stat. 938, 49 U.S.C. 1655 (b) (1); the Act of Congress approved May 21, 1970 (84 Stat. 255, Public Law 91-261) which act authorizes acquisition of a site for the project for which the land is taken; the Act of March 30, 1971 (85 Stat. 12, Public Law 92-7) which act appropriates funds for such purpose; and acts supplementary to and amendatory of the foregoing acts. You are further notified that if you have any objection or defense to the taking of your property, you are required to serve upon plaintiff's attorney at the address herein designated within twenty (20) days after October 18, 1972, an answer identifying the property in which you claim to have an interest, stating the nature and extent of the interest claimed and stating all your objections and defenses to the taking of your property. A failure so to serve an answer shall constitute a consent to the taking and to the authority of the court to proceed to hear the action and to fix the just compensation, and shall constitute a waiver of all defenses and objections not so presented. You are further notified that if you have no objection or defense to the taking, you may serve upon plaintiff's attorney a notice of appearance designating the property in which you claim to be interested, and thereafter you shall receive notice of all proceedings affecting the said property. You are further notified that at the trial of the issue of just compensation, whether or not you have answered or served a notice of appearance, you may present evidence as to the amount of the compensation to be paid for the property in which you have any interest, and you may share in the distribution of the award of compensation. You are further notified that trial by jury of the issue of just compensation is demanded by plaintiff. Dated: September 28, 1972. JAMES L. BROWNING, JR., United States Attorney; By FRANCIS B. BOONE, Assistant United States Attorney, Attorneys for Plaintiff. Schedule "A". Parcel D. INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10:00 a.m., Tuesday, October 24th, 1972, at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 8,500 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances, fire hydrants and service connections. The work to be done lies in the various city street, roads and rights-of-way all located in various cities and county areas in the central part of Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Bond Project No. 9" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

WEATHER FORECAST

The National Weather Service's outlook for October calls for temperatures to be normal to above normal, and for rainfall to be below and near normal in Northern California. In October 1971, the average temperature measured at San Rafael was 61.5 degrees, with a high of 93 on Oct. 13. Total rainfall in October 1971 was .04 inches, with the high of .02 inches on Oct. 23.

(UPI Telephoto)

San Rafael air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

San Francisco Bay Area: Mostly fair through Thursday except low cloudiness or fog night and mornings. Highs today and Thursday in the mid 60s to mid 70s. Low tonight in the 50s. Westerly wind 10 to 20 m.p.h. in afternoons.

Northwestern California: Fair through Thursday except coastal low overcast and fog spreading into coastal valleys night and mornings. High today, low tonight and high Thursday at Fort Bragg 62, 48 and 62, Ukiah 82, 53 and 86.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some Believe Lincoln Couldn't Have Lived Another 6 Months

Many investigators have speculated on Abraham Lincoln's health during his second term in office. Dr. Harold Schwartz of Lynwood, Calif., believes the President was a sick man and probably would have lived no more than six months had he not been assassinated. He recently found support for his hypothesis that L

ZORA, DAUGHTER OF GYPSIES

Priestess Of The Occult

By PAT ANGLE

"Temple of the Occult."

The name conjures up eerie pictures of witches dancing wildly in shadowy forest glades, devil worshipping under a full moon and strange brews of lizard hearts and eyes of newt.

But a visit to the temple in Fairfax tends to dispel the notion that something sinister is happening in the tiny occult shop, housed in a storefront at 1605 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Zora, the proprietress and psychic reader, greets visitors in what resembles a tasteful Victorian parlor, except for a few occult ornaments and shelves of unusual looking candles, crystal balls, incense oils and herbs.

With her dark gypsy looks and exotic robes, 28-year-old Zora (her real name is Anastasia Todorovorich), fits the part of a white magic practitioner.

If this gentle, kindly woman seems at home in an occult shop, it's no wonder because the occult is as natural to Zora as driving a car is to most of us.

She was literally brought up in it in San Francisco, tutored by her Serbian Gypsy mother and Turkish Gypsy father. (Later she studied and worked for three years at the Mystic Eye occult shop in San Francisco.)

Ritual, including occult ritual, is very much a part of gypsy life, handed down from generation to generation.

"Gypsies have a ritual for everything, the way they comb their hair, the clothes they wear, what they eat, even how they walk and stand," she said with a smile.

There is definitely no aura of hocus-pocus about Zora and her shop and she makes no claims to having "mysterious powers" not granted to the rest of us.

"Every person is born with a psychic energy; some have just developed theirs more than others have," she explained. "It's the fear of failure that stops most people from using their psychic gifts."

The proprietoress sounds remarkably like Norman Vincent Peale in his "Power of Positive Thinking" when she explains how the occult can make wishes and dreams come true.

"Everybody has the ability to obtain what they want if they have patience, will work hard enough and desire it above all," she said with conviction.

Zora makes no bones about the fact that the psychic power to make the magic work must come from individuals doing the wishing and wanting, rather than from herself.

"People come here seeking magic to help them so they won't have to do the work themselves; they're looking for an elevator to get where they want to go. But when they get here, I make them take the stairs."

She added: "I can provide the supplies and tutor people on how to perform rituals, but the rest is up to them."

THE INNER SANCTUM — Zora, heiress to generations of Gypsy lore and mistress of the Gypsy gift of psychic reading, greets a visitor to her "temple of the occult." The rather primly Victorian parlor sets the temple's tone and is the setting for an unusual practice, which she regards as quite commonplace.

Most people coming to the occult shop ask for readings before going on to rituals which are rather like recipes for the particular magic desired and utilize candles, incense, herbs, lodestones and oils.

In a typical reading, Zora will take the person into a small dimly-lit back room containing a table and two chairs as its basic furnishing.

She sits down with the subject, takes his hand and concentrates in silence for a moment or two.

Readings will, of course, vary widely from person to person. Zora may begin, for example, by telling an individual something about his childhood, perhaps how he got along with his parents or anything else she deems relevant.

Usually, she will go on to tell a person what some of his chief problems are in relation to others, his profession or the world in general.

Zora will also talk about the things which are troubling him at the moment and discuss what he wants or needs. She may tell him about his future.

The reader says she knows what to tell each individual from "the vibrations I pick up from him; it's amazing how much you can learn about someone just from his vibrations."

It all sounds a bit unbelievable and strange and will certainly set the sceptics to scoffing. But a brief reading Zora did for an Independent-Journal reporter proved to be weirdly accurate, detailed and specific.

Occasionally Zora will use a crystal ball or Tarot cards as tools to assist her in the readings, but she usually prefers to work without them. It has taken her many years to "develop" her "gift," she says, and she prefers simply to "just use myself."

Once a person has decided exactly what he hopes to obtain from the occult, usually after one or several readings, Zora shows him how to perform the ritual to get it and may participate in that "ceremony."

Rituals cost from $1 to $50 depending on the ingredients used and are good for just about anything, from spiritual awareness, to money, she said.

According to Zora, most people come to her seeking love or money, but many come for other reasons too. One couple came to her after doctors assured them they couldn't have a child — they have named their little girl after Zora, she recounted.

A little boy and his father came in for advice on a beloved dog which had been missing for three weeks. The next morning, the dog returned home and Zora happily shows the letter with their enthusiastic praise and thanks.

Surprisingly, she says that the majority of her customers are staid, feet-in-the-ground businessmen who come to her for advice on business deals. "I know it's hard to believe," she laughed, "but it's really true."

Zora sees the occult as "a very sacred thing, a universal religion" which can work for everyone.

Skeptics don't bother her in the least and she treats them courteously and kindly and answers their questions.

"Too many people are quite willing to believe in a plastic, fantastic world, in things they can touch and ignore the mental and psychic world," she said. "That is really strange to me."

She most enjoys sharing her gift with others but feels no guilt whatsoever for charging those who come to her "because if something has a price it makes people appreciate it that much more."

Although she says she can foretell the future as well as the past, Zora doesn't want to be known as a fortuneteller because "that is a disgraceful, cheap label; anyone at a carnival can call themselves fortunetellers" and describes those readers who "put on a good act or try to be mysterious."

Helping people to "realize their potential" and "achieve their goals" is Zora's greatest pleasure and the reason she intends to spend the rest of her life in the world of occult.

"It gets me high, makes me feel good and proud of myself when I can really do something good for someone and help them to do something good for themselves."

Arab Book Store Hit By Bomb

PARIS (UPI)—An explosion badly damaged a Palestinian book store today in what appeared to be the first incident of Jewish anti-Arab violence in the country. Police said an extremist Jewish group claimed responsibility for the attack; the Palestinians said "Zionists" did it.

Mahmoud Hamchari, the French representative of the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO), called the bombing "a Zionist attack" and said, "We consider that this cowardly attack is an act of provocation aimed at disturbing Franco-Arab relations."

"We had received threats before, and they became more frequent these past days," Hamchari said.

Below the shop's black, white and green sign in Arabic and French, the glass in the front door was blown out, other windows broken and a piece of metal paneling torn off by the blast.

Police said that a group called the "Massada Action and Defense Movement" claimed responsibility for the bombing but that they knew of no such organization.

Hamchari said he had heard of Massada and that "they carried out attacks against Arabs in Jerusalem."

A police spokesman said the Palestine Bookshop, on Rue de la Reunion in a working class district, was heavily damaged by the 1:30 a.m. blast. There were no injuries.

Barely half an hour later, anonymous messengers delivered to Paris newspaper editorial rooms a statement signed by "The Massada Action and Defense Movement," claiming responsibility for the attack and warning of possible other such incidents.

Police said they knew of no such organization. They said it would be the first time a Jewish group had staged a terrorist attack in France. So far, various Jewish students and activists have staged nonviolent protests in France such as chaining themselves in front of Arab airlines offices or picketing them.

The name of the clandestine group, Massada, stems from a fortress in Israel whose Jewish population committed suicide rather than fall to besieging Roman troops in the year 73 A.D.

The communique said, "In response to the terrorist campaign launched against Israel and the Jews, Massada has carried out its first operation. A low yield explosive charge was placed at the Palestine Bookstore, Rue de la Reunion, during the evening. To anti-Semite terror, Jewish terror will respond. This is our first warning."

The explosion ripped away the steel door of the library, which specializes in literature favoring the Palestinian cause, smashed the book racks and shredded books and brochures.

Police investigators said they found the word Massada written in Hebrew scrawled onto a piece of white paper stuck behind the windshield wiper of a car parked near the damaged bookstore.

Unlike Israeli and Arab airline and tourist offices and embassy buildings, which are heavily guarded around the clock by police, the bookstore was not under police protection.

Police said the Criminel Brigade has been instructed to track down the attackers.

The explosion came two weeks after Israeli embassy officials found and defused terrorist bombs mailed in brown envelopes to France from Amsterdam. It also followed a statement by the Israeli ambassador to France, Asher ben Natan, at a press luncheon Tuesday praising French police for "adequately guarding" Israeli buildings.

Audience Ired, Hearing On Novato Road Plan Slated

The Novato City Council session erupted in pandemonium last night over plans to buy property on South Novato Boulevard in order to provide a road to Hill Junior High School.

At one point, councilmen engaged in a shouting match with a woman in the audience protesting the street, and she was threatened with ejection by police.

When the woman, Mrs. Albert R. Arendell of 1640 Hill Road, left, the council postponed action, agreeing to hold a public hearing on long-contemplated purchase of the land Tuesday.

The rhubarb, centered on loud audience complaints that the council was trying to force a new road on the Hill Junior High area, began when City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported the city had reached agreement to buy the Richard Connell property at 1523 South Novato Boulevard for $45,000.

Purchase of the Connell property, along with condemnation of a second parcel and an agreement with a third landowner to use his property, would enable a small connector road between Hill Road and the school property.

Former Mayor J. Wayne Womack, in the audience, said Hill Road had been planned for years as a major connector street in the area.

This brought catcalls from the crowded audience, as well as shouts that the council wished to "ram that street through" contrary to the desires of area citizens.

Although Mrs. Arendell asked that the matter be postponed for at least a week to enable Hill Road residents to organize, Mayor F. Wayne Sartain told her she was out of order. Mrs. Arendell persisted. Sartain began rapping his gavel in an unending beat.

Councilman George C. Quesada threatened to call police to eject Mrs. Arendell, finally fuming in a query to City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr.: "Isn't that woman in contempt of the council?"

"You'd better believe it. I'm in contempt of this council," Mrs. Arendell shot back. Then she left.

Boulevard Guidelines Are Adopted

A development policy for a portion of Novato Boulevard, largely in accord with present uses, was adopted last night by the Novato City Council.

The stretch of the street involved is from Diablo Avenue to St. Paul's Circle.

The policy calls for commercial development in the Tamalpais Avenue area, where compatible construction already has occurred, and for single-family residential in the region from Diablo to Tamalpais avenues, also conforming to present use.

West of Tamalpais Avenue, Novato Boulevard frontage is designated under the policy for planned professional use, while land to the south of Warner Creek calls for multiple zoning at 10 to 18 units per acre.

The Novato City Council also:

ANNEXATION — Introduced an ordinance annexing 92 acres in 14 parcels from Olive to Railroad avenues, planned for residential development.

VACATE — Voted to vacate 15 feet on the south side of Logan Street between Railroad and Madrone avenues. With completion of the Highway 101 bypass, Logan Street originally had been planned as an 80-foot street, but it now will become 50 feet wide.

SUBDIVISION — Referred back to the planning commission for discussion of zoning questions a proposed subdivision on 40 acres, the William Gottschalk property on Sunset Parkway.

SWIMMING — Indicated preference for a site on or near San Marin High School property for a planned community swimming pool. A $5000,000 bond issue is to be voted on by residents Nov. 7.

ZONES — Approved an ordinance creating first and secondary flood zones in the Novato Creek watershed.

CONGRATULATIONS — Voted to send congratulations to former Police Chief Robert DiGrazia, named police commissioner of Boston.

WEEKEND — Received a report from Billie Garl, treasurer of Western Weekend, that of $2,000 allocated by the city to the event, $1,000 was spent for advertising and $1,000 for security.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow to discuss the state Supreme Court decision requiring environmental impact reports on all except minor developments, and said it would meet again at 8 p.m. Tuesday in another adjourned session.

Novato Building Ban Temporarily Imposed

The Novato City Council last night slapped a temporary moratorium on planned construction of nearly 400 dwelling units in the wake of a state Supreme Court decision on a Mono County condominium project. (See related board of supervisors story, page 1.)

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. told the council the court decision, handed down last month, requires environmental impact reports on all but trivial development proposals.

"The ramifications of this decision are enormous," Palmer said.

The council, scheduling further discussion on the issue for 8 p.m. tomorrow, voted to halt all major building projects in the city until guidelines are developed. Palmer believed the court decision, interpreting the state Environmental Quality Act of 1970 as requiring impact reports for private as well as public developments, meant only single-family construction would be exempt.

Immediately affected by the council decision are these projects: Crossroads condominium and townhouse development at Highways 101 and 37, 182 units; Cowbarn apartments, 90 units; Oaks apartments, 48 units; Rowland Boulevard apartments, 32 units; Fonseca apartments, 18 units, and the Pickart apartments, undetermined units.

Practice Hilarita Burning Approved

The Marin County Housing Authority board last night approved a request from the Tiburon Fire Department to burn portions of the aging Hilarita housing project in a fire fighting exercise.

According to Wallace K. Shepherd, authority executive director, details for the training exercise will be worked out in the near future.

The 40-year-old housing project has been slated for demolition by the authority to make way for more low and moderate-income family housing.

Currently, 24 of the project's 120 dwelling units are occupied.

Shepherd said the board directed him to negoitate with Tiburon Sanitary District for lower sewer fees for the authority.

He siad the authority now pays the district about $120 per month — based on $1 per unit — but only 24 units are occupied.

Paperwork was approved transferring the ridgelands above Marin City to California Development Co. of New York in exchange for development rights within the community.

As part of the exchange, Cal Development's final payment of $144,000 — held for years in escrow — was placed in the housing authority's account.

Fairfax 'Springfest' Is Urged

The Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission last night recommended that the city hold a spring festival in May.

"The recent Septemberfest festival was so successful that the commission feels the city should hold a similar celebration in spring," said Ernestine Healy, commission secretary.

The Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission also:

YOUTH — Approved a request by the Catholic Youth Organization of Fairfax to use the Fairfax Pavillion for basketball practice.

LANDSCAPING — Recommended that the city council remove concrete islands on both sides of Center Boulevard at Pastori Avenue and plant the areas with a ground cover.

TENNIS — Asked City Administrator Robert E. Crowe to approve purchase of new nets for the city's two tennis courts.

CHRISTMAS — Suggested a "season's greetings" sign be placed in town at Christmas time and recommended that downtown merchants sponsor school classes to paint Christmas murals on business windows.

TREE SURGEON — Recommended that the council hire a tree surgeon to examine the redwood trees behind the town hall.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Oct. 31.

McGovern To Campaign Like Truman

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — George S. McGovern plans a "give'em hell" campaign in the last five weeks before the election in an attempt to duplicate Harry S. Truman's startling 1948 upset.

The Democratic presidential candidate frankly admits he faces "an uphill fight" in seeking to deny President Nixon a second term. But he insists, speaking to crowds or in taped television interviews, that he only faces the same situation "as Harry Truman faced in 1948 and John F. Kennedy in 1960."

At an airport rally in Niagara Falls Tuesday night, with about 4,000 mostly youthful admirers straining at an iron fence, McGovern borrowed from Truman's text.

The South Dakota senator said that Truman in 1948 told questioners, "I don't give them hell. I just tell them the truth and they think it's hell." To that, McGovern added, "That's what we intend to do with this administration" and promised an intensive, all-out campaign before the election.

Sources Say Russia's Brezhnev Will Visit U.S. Next Spring

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev will make an official visit to Washington next spring, diplomatic sources said today.

They said that this was agreed on during meetings at the White House and at Camp David Monday between President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The Soviet leader probably will come here in April but the sources declined to pinpoint the exact time.

During his historic visit to Moscow last May, Nixon extended an invitation to Brezhnev, Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei I. Kosygin to come to the United States.

The invitation was announced at the time. Nixon's close adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, told newsmen in Moscow then that the visit would not take place until after the U.S. presidential election Nov. 7.

Soviet officials said then that all three men could not make the trip but indicated Brezhnev, who has emerged over the past year as the dominant member of the trio, probably would be the one to make the pilgrimage to America.

Since that time it had been generally speculated that the visit would take place some time early in 1973, assuming Nixon's re-election.

Diplomats said during their talks, Nixon and Gromyko nailed down plans for the visit although details are yet to be worked out.

They said that an official announcement of the visit would most likely be withheld until after the election.

The Russians, on the basis of diplomatic protocol, would not ordinarily announce a specific plan for a visit of this type in advance of a forthcoming U.S. presidential election.

If Sen. George S. McGovern, contrary to indications of current polls, should beat Nixon, it would be necessary for him to extend a new invitation to the Russians.

It is assumed that should he win, McGovern would want to re-extend an invitation but it would be necessary to go through the proper protocol.

Brezhnev is one of the least traveled of Moscow leaders outside the Soviet bloc. His only previous international visit was a trip to Paris last fall.

Kosygin was in the United States in June, 1967, to attend the United Nations General Assembly and while in the country, he held two meetings with President Lyndon B. Johnson at Glassboro, N.J.

Johnson subsequently arranged to visit Moscow during the fall of 1968, where he intended to begin negotiations with the Russians on the limitation and possible reduction of strategic nuclear arms.

However, in August, 1968, just before the White House had planned to disclose the Johnson visit, the President canceled the trip because of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Boxer, Arrigoni On Radio Show

Runoff candidates for the Second District seat on the Marin County Board of Supervisors will appear at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

The broadcast, featuring incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Barbara Boxer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday. Questions are invited for tomorrow's show.

Land Near Shop Center Rezoned

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night approved rezoning of 38 acres behind the Washington Square shopping center for future subdivision development.

Qantas Development Co. asked to change the property from single-family residential zoning to planned community.

The property fronts on McDowell Park, Washington Creek and McGregor Avenue.

Board Ordered To Reapportion

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A superior court judge has issued a ruling that could require all county school boards to reapportion themselves so that members are chosen on a "one-man, one-vote" basis.

In a three-page decision Tuesday, Judge William M. Gallagher ordered the Sacramento County school board to reapportion itself by March 1, 1973, into areas which are equal in population.

Gallagher said unequal population in member-represented districts is a "violation of the one-man, one-vote doctrine."

Gallagher's ruling came in a suit filed by Daniel Visnich, staff director of the state Senate Democratic caucus. Visnich, who narrowly lost a recent election for a spot on the county school board, noted in the suit that one board member represents 126,684 voters while another represents only 1,987 voters.

Fire Dispatcher Program Sought

The San Rafael Fire Commission last night recommended to the city council that a student dispatcher program be established for the city fire department.

The program would allow the department to hire Terra Linda fire volunteers on a part-time basis if annexation of the unincorporated community to the city is approved by voters next month, according to Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci.

Commissioners set no rate of pay for the dispatcher work but agreed student dispatchers would not participate in fire-fighting work, according to Marcucci.

The commission next meets at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 7.

Innocent Plea To Bomb Report

A telephone installer charged with making a false bomb report to his answering service has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

Steven C. Chapter, 28, of San Anselmo, is to return to court Monday for setting of a preliminary hearing date.

Chapter was charged with the felony last week after a seven-month investigation of a bomb threat Feb. 1 made over the telephone to a recorder that takes messages from 18 installers at Pacific Telephone Co. in San Rafael.

During the investigation each installer made a voice print which was then compared to the tape by an expert from the Michigan State Police, according to San Rafael police.

BART Director Blake Resigns

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — William Blake has resigned from the Board of Directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) it was disclosed Tuesday. Blake was appointed to the post after he lost his position as a member of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors in the November, 1969, election.

He gave no reason for his resignation, but called BART a "magnificent new rapid transit system."

Blake is operations manager for Freighters, Inc., a shipping company headed by John Alioto, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's son.

Flames Destroy Police Copter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (XUPI)—A police helicopter burst into flames and was destroyed Tuesday night soon after the pilot made an emergency landing.

Pilot Robert B. Andre said he and observer Jerry Bussard were on a routine patrol when the helicopter began vibrating.

He brought it down in a field on the city's southwest side and found gas pouring from the engine. The copter then burst into flames.

Senate Approves Sabotage Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—By an 89-0 vote, the Senate has ratified a new treaty requiring extradition or swift prosecution of airline saboteurs.

The pact was drawn up in Montreal last year and is designed to cope with acts of sabotage directed against Israelis by Arab terrorists. The Senate took the vote Tuesday.

IRS 'Rent Watch' Will Include Marin

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Internal Revenue Service agents will include Marin County in their rounds as part of a nationwide watch on possible rent increases in the wake of increased Social Security payments.

The nationwide rent watch is to prevent landlords from increasing rents in order to take advantage of a 20 per cent increase for 28 million Social Security recipients across the country, according to the IRS.

"We are urging landlords not to raise rents unless they are certain such increases are legal," said Charles E. Kingman, IRS district director for Northern California. "In many cases, landlords have already raised rents this year and must wait until 12 months have elapsed since that increase before raising rents again."

Under federal economic guidelines, landlords must not raise rents beyond a maximum 2.5 per cent a year, plus prorated passthroughs of increased taxes, municipal fees and services and capital improvements. Tenants must receive a detailed 30-day notice of rent increases.

The IRS said it will refer to the Justice Department those cases of "flagrant and willful" violation of rent rules.

Rare, Valuable Icons Stolen

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The theft of two rare 15th Century Russian icons was reported Tuesday.

Olga Kitchen, wife of a retired Army colonel, said the art works taken from her home were valued at more than $100,000.

The icons included one of the Madonna and Christ, a foot wide and 16 inches tall and inlaid with gold and silver. The other depicts Christ as the Savior and is incrusted with pearls, diamonds and rubies and inlaid with gold and silver.

Neither was insured, Mrs. Kitchen told police.

Italia Nostra—Dedicated To Preserving Italy

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

ROME, Italy — Giorgio Bassani is a man of the past, which is not to say that he lives in it but that he loves it. His novel, "The Garden of the Finzi-Continis," from which the Academy Award-winning film was made, is a lament over the Jewish persecutions and the passing of a rarefied, aesthetic life-style which the family of the Finzi-Continis epitomizes.

Mr. Bassani, who describes the novel as autobiographical, admired Vittorio De Sica's film with reservations: "It was a cinematic masterpiece but only in itself, not in relation to the book. There were more levels in the book, and the film was a simplification of a more complicated novel."

Mr. Bassani is a small, impatient man who seems in a hurry to get out his words and get on with his life.

He emanates energy and conviction, which he channels into his writing, his teaching of Italian literature, and his position as president of Italia Nostra, an organization dedicated to the preservation of Italian art and landscape from the ravages of industrialization, overpopulation, natural disasters, and time.

Italia Nostra has organized an exhibition of some 250 photographs and photomurals, slides, and fils that is touring throughout the United States under the title "Art and Landscape of Italy, Too Late to Be Saved?"

Sponsored by the Italian Art and Landscape Foundation, it is a revised and enlarged version of a small show that originally opened in Italy in 1967 and swelled into one of national significance. Its purpose is to awaken the international conscience to the plight of the cultural and natural environments, and bring preseure to bear on the Italians themselves, whom the catalogue chastizes for their "general apathy and lack of sensitivity."

Mr. Bassani explained in a Rome interview: "We are conducting this exposition in the United States to convince the Americans the Italian heritage must be preserved, and that it is their concern as much as the Italians. Italy is the link between the modern world and the ancient, the origin of Western civilization. The world as we know it would not exist without it. America was born in Italy."

Significantly, Mr. Bassani is a resident of Rome, that most touching of cities where beauty seems so fragile and antiquity so evanescent.

Italia Nostra was founded in 1955, continued Mr. Bassani, "by a small group of friends who shared common experiences. We were men of culture, antifascists, and fighters in the resistance who had no idea of starting an organization but were disturbed by the changes the country was undergoing. We began with a small office in Rome and now there are 20 branches scattered throughout Italy."

"Our goal is not only to protect Italy's artistic and natural patrimony but to further the progress of democracy. Because of this double goal we are completely different from any other organization of this type. We have not allied ourselves with any political party or class, though most of us are intellectuals, but we feel that fascism and obsolete systems of government are responsible for the current state of affairs. We are directing our appeal to the people, to popular opinion as an instrument for reform."

Among Italia's Nostra's achievements has been the designation of three villas and an archaeological site along the Via Appia in Rome as public parks, the relocation of an oil refinery near Milan and another near Eriee in Sicily, and the rescue of a pine forest along the Tuscan coast.

But these victories represent only a fraction of what needs to be done to combat, in the words of the exhibition, "those landowners and developers without social, ethical, and esthetical concerns." Denouncing the pollution, razing, despoliation, and neglect that imperil art treasures and the urban, rural, and natural landscapes, the exhibition advocates "a courageous new attitude toward culture" which would integrate ancient structures into present life.

The exhibition, which is now housed at the Schroder Bank in New York City, will travel next to Pittsburgh where it will be on display at the University of Pittsburgh Art Gallery Oct. 15-Nov. 12, and on to the Toledo Art Museum around the beginning of February. From there it will go to Seattle, New Orleans, Atlanta, and Phoenix, and finally to the Fogg Art Museum in Cambridge, Mass., from Oct. 19-Nov. 24, 1974.

BEDECKED FOR THE FESTIVAL

Who is not tempted by the sparkle and beauty of gold earrings? Leo Bell, owner of deBeau's Jewelers, will pierce ears during the Fall Art Show Festival days at Strawberry.

SUMMER IS OVER

The end of summer is a breezy day's ride on a bicycle to Strawberry's Little Daisy Shop where you can prepare for your fall wardrobe from pantsuits to coats while enjoying the day's sidewalk activites planned especially for customers.

Season Festival At Town And Country

Harvest time is the festival season of the year. Here, nature's rewards are shared by friend and neighbor in a host of special occasions throughout the world.

Perhaps October is the scene for the most notable celebrations. There is excitement and fulfillment in the air, a sense of relief and relaxation. A desire to delay winter and its solemn conditions permeates the holiday. Special sounds and dress reflect the excitement in the village. Bells, torches, masks, music and ritual dancing seek to delay the interruption of winter's demons.

As the bell strikes 10 on Oct. 6, the festival begins at Town and Country Village in Mill Valley. Artists and artisans unfold their works along the passageways and cobblestone streets. Shopkeepers returning from the marketplaces of the world adorn their windows with ideas for fall and the holidays. The village becomes transformed into a storyland of special moments told through the picturebook windows of the shops.

The crisp air is seasoned with the aroma of barbecue from the Hickory Pit, the fragrance of fresh-baked buns from Walther's Bakery, and charcoal embers of the Ancient Mariner.

Shiny pennies and new dollar bills are exchanged for homemade candies, baubles and fashions.

Sounds of the Prince Charles Pipe Band celebrate festival times in the Village. Softer sounds of the Marin Symphony reflect the moods and warmth of fall traditions in Marin. Dancers twirl carefree along the passageways and the square.

Hospitality coffees, refreshments and gifts are offered visitors.

Festival To Hear Orchestra Members

The Marin Symphony Association will be represented at the Town and Country Village Fall Arts Festival by some members of the Marin Youth Orchestra on Saturday from noon until 2 p.m.

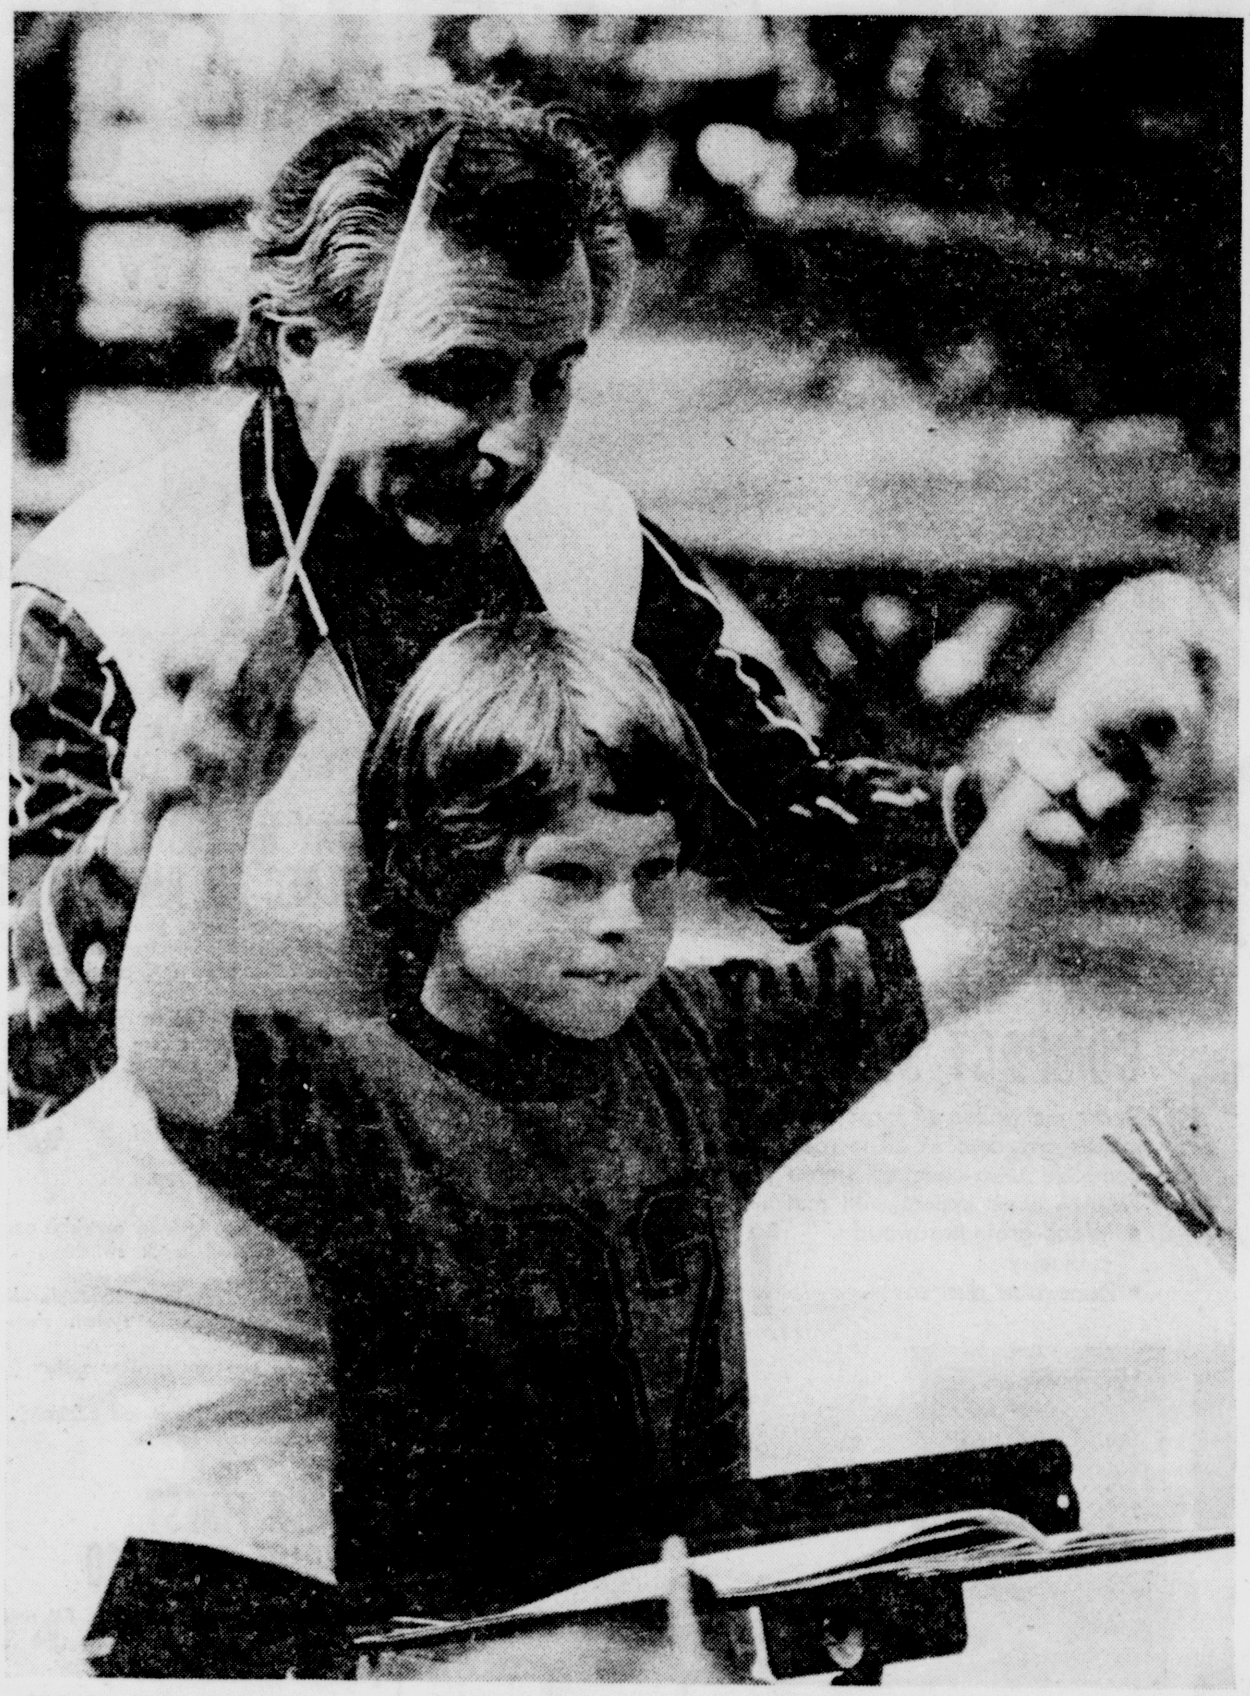

The 92-piece Marin Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Sandor Salgo, will begin a 1972-73 concert season at the Marin Veteran's Memorial Auditorium on Nov. 28 with performances by famed soprano Mary Costa and violist Lucien Mitcheli, followed by the Jan. 30 concert with solo cellist Jed Barahal. The April 13 concert will have pianist Garrick Ohlsson, the first American winner of the International Chopin Competition in Warsaw, as guest soloist.

The Marin Youth Orchestra also will present a series of formal concerts on Jan. 17 and May 9. The Orchestra Piccola, a chamber group selected from the Marin Youth Orchestra's outstanding players, also will present a concert on Feb. 28th. The young group of musicians is hoping to tour abroad during the summer of 1973. Both the Marin Youth Orchestra and the Orchestra Piccola are under the direction of Hugo Rinaldi.

The Marin Symphony Association also will take part in a series of concerts sponsored by "Youth in Arts," a combined effort on the part of the symphony, the Marin Civic Ballet, the Marin Junior Theater and the Marin Museum Association.

A delightful children's concert series of four programs will be presented by the Marin Youth Orchestra and/or the Orchestra Piccola. The first of these concerts is a "Sit-In," at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross on October 14th.

For all ticket information please contact the Marin Symphony Association office at P.O. Box 32, Ross.

HOW IT'S DONE — Hugo Rinaldi, Conductor of the Marin Youth Orchestra, shows how it's done. Orchestra members will perform at Town & Country Village Art Festival from noon until 2 p.m., Saturday, October 7th.

A New Kind Of Store Opens Up

Jim Webb, manager of Strawberry's Town and Country Village has announced the grand opening of Pillows Plus, a new business joining the family of merchants in Strawberry.

Pillows Plus was begun in Los Altos by Gary Strong in July 1970. Strong is a former Peninsula electronics marketing executive and University of California, Berkeley, engineer graduate. He owns two other businesses, in Palo Alto's Town and Country Village and in Los Altos.

Chris Coombs, Pillows Plus manager, said his is "a new kind of furniture store," filling a demand for comfort and quality in pillow chairs and waterbeds.

Coombs, a native of Marin and the son of Carl S. Coombs of Tiburon, resides in San Anselmo with his wife, Janet, and their son Daniel. Mrs. Coombs's father also is a Marinite, Eugene Ostaggi.

The Coombses both graduated from Redwood High School and attended College of Marin.

OPENING — The grand opening of a new business, Pillows Plus, will continue through the art festivites at Town and Country Village. Manager Chris Coombs invites you to drop by the new business and try a waterbed or pillow chair.

Year Round Training For Tennis

Jim Barney, sales representative, introduces and demonstrates the Bancroft-Tretorn Tennis Trainer to the Marin County Public.

He will be the guest of Marina Tennis Shop at Strawberry's Town and Country Village on Saturday, and will be there between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Len Davis, owner, reports that the product has received nationwide attention on the Johnny Carson "Tonight Show".

Gibraltar's Record Rate Of Inflow

Savings inflow at Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association's Mill Valley office, in Strawberry Town and Country Village, has continued at a record rate since its opening in April, it was announced today by John Gilbert, manager.

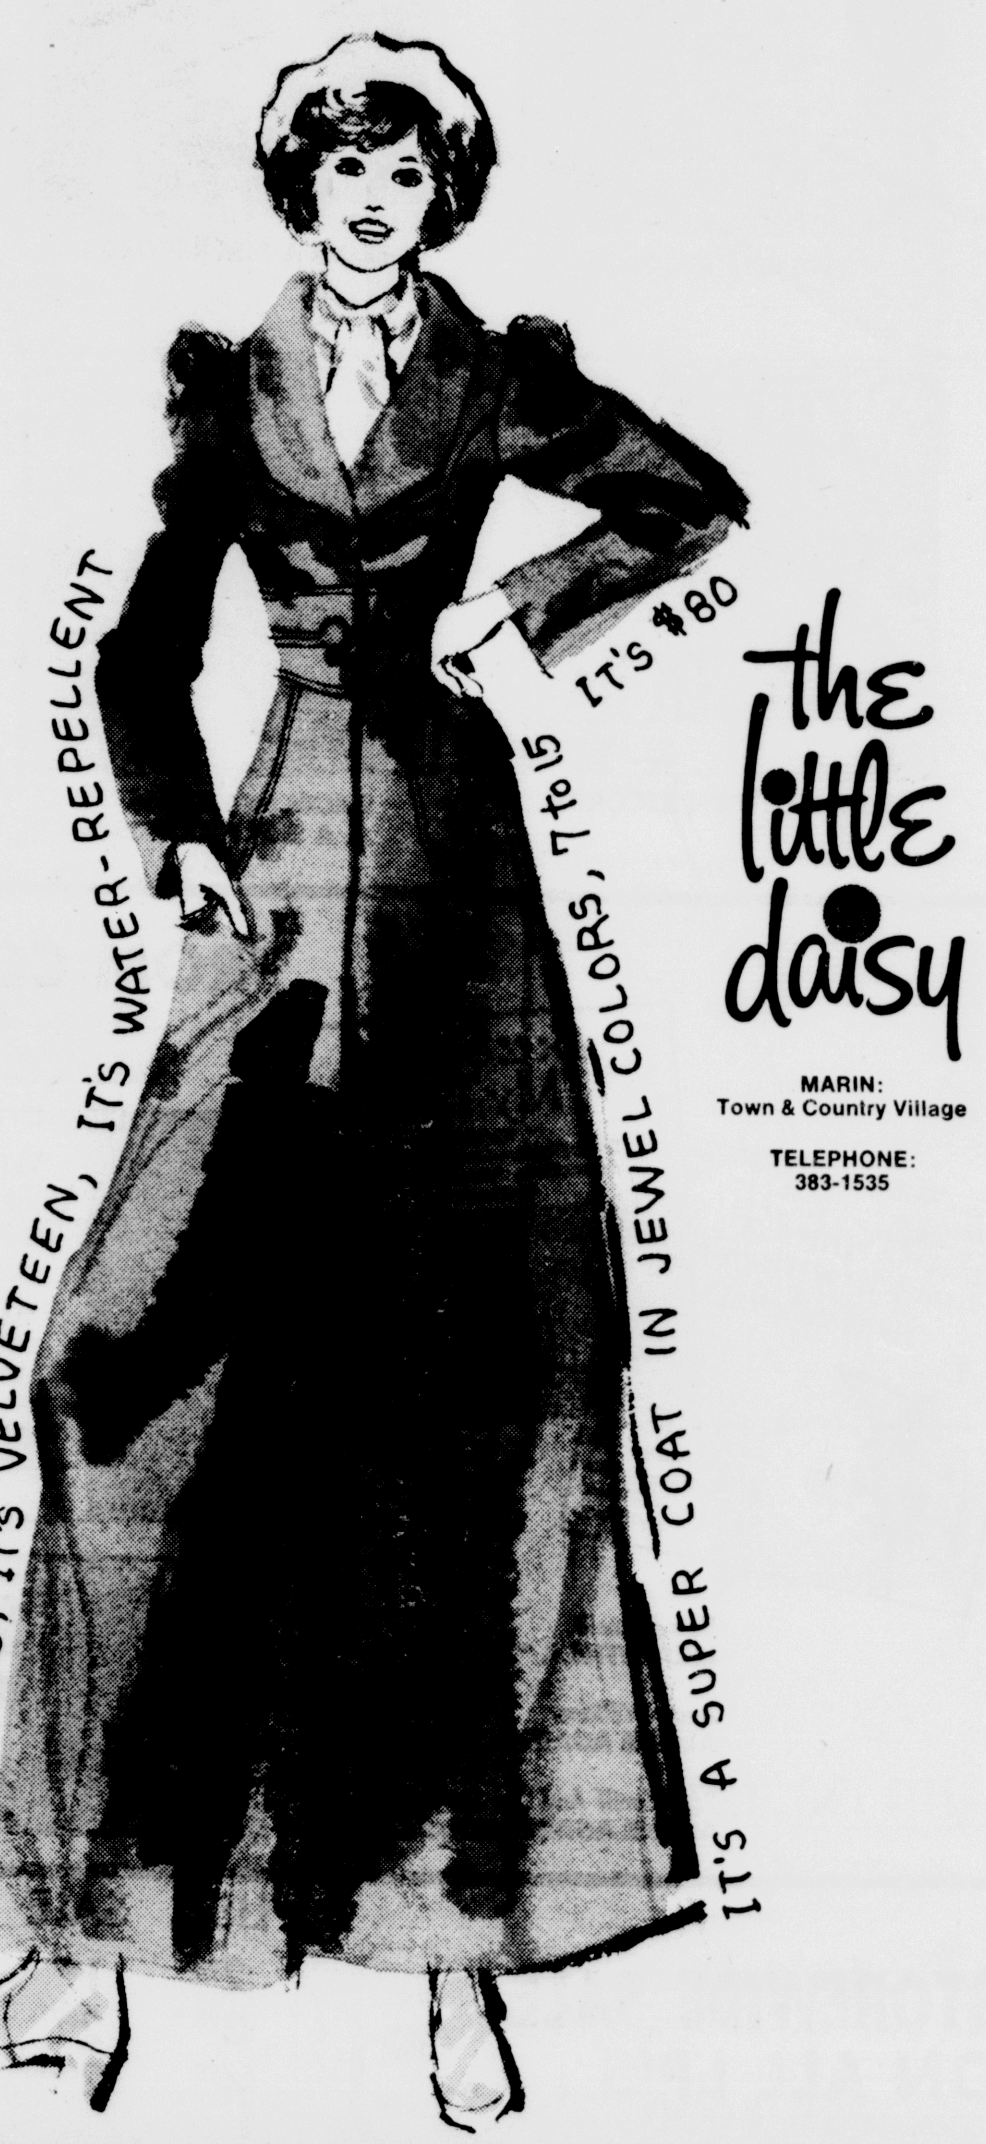

"Savings deposits received from the April 17 opening until June 30, 1972, totaled $674,000," Gilbert said.

In addition to offering the nation's highest rates on insured savings, many free financial services, and Saturday business hours (9 a.m. to 1 p.m.) Gilbert attributes the rapid growth of Gibraltar's Mill Valley office to its shopping center location, and to the fact that a post office substation is located nearby. Gilbert pointed out that the post office substation is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, and from 10 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Consolidated assets of the parent company, Gibraltar Financial Corp., showed an increase of 8 per cent in the first half of 1972. Total consolidated assets of the parent company, GFC, now exceed $1 billion.

WELCOME — John Gilbert, manager of Gibraltar Savings and Loan in Town and Country Village, welcomes everyone attending the Fall Art Festival. Gibraltar Savings will be hosting an open house.

Duskin Celebrates First Anniversary

Alvin Duskin Store at Strawberry's Town and Country Village is celebrating its first anniversary. "It has now been in operation for a year," says Harry Shain, owner. Shain is a personal friend of Alvin Duskin and during the early beginnings of Shain's business only Alvin Duskin styles were carried. Now Shain has expanded his fashion lines to include Hubba-Hubba, Utopia, Wrangler, and Joshua Tree among others. He goes on to explain the Alvin Duskin retail stores are actually independent operations of the manufacturing entity. Paul Maris operates the factory while Shain owns and operates the retail companies which have grown to 10 stores in the northern California area with their newest store opening in San Francisco. Ailee Reis manages the Strawberry location.

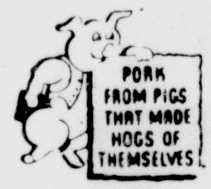

The staff at Alvin Duskin is quite proud of its store in Strawberry and is inviting the general public to participate in its anniversary celebration with no purchases necessary. Several prizes will be given away during these special days including a coat from the Duskin collection.

A special highlight of the anniversary will be the cosmetic demonstration by Mary Quant on Saturday.

EUROPE TO AMERICA

The European influence prevails, and the colors of the artists' palettes swirl, as Betty Haymen spontaneously shows her delight with her new outfit. She is wearing a pantsuit selected from Gigi's Paris Collection at Town and Country Village which will be featured for the Fall Arts Festival.

FASHION FOR MOTHERS-TO-BE — No longer must pregnant women remain at home while other family members party. Merete Bendtsen, manager of Strawberry's Motherhood Maternity Shop, introduces this cotton/polyester dress to women concerned about their appearance during this special time in their lives.

New Strawberry Post Office 'Is A Big Help'

"The recent opening of a U.S. Post Office substation at 334 Town and Country Village has proved to be helpful in the handling and moving of mail in the Strawberry-Mill Valley area," said Bill Bessing, post office head who was appointed by Delmar Smith, officer in charge of the Mill Valley Post Office.

Bessing and his wife, Olive, have been residents of Corte Madera for several years. After 30 years of post office service, Bessing retired as a supervisor from the San Francisco Post Office Department.

Among regular mailing services of postage selling and parcel post handling, the Strawberry Post Office sells money orders.

Deadline Approaches For Beauty Contest

"The deadline for unmarried women aged 18 to 25 entering the Farmers Insurance Group contest is fast approaching," said insurance agent John Klefstad.

Entry deadling is Oct. 15 at midnight.

The applications will be reviewed on a local, state and regional basis for the selection of a woman to preside as queen of the 1973 Farmers Insurance Group float. She will ride in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day in Pasadena. The theme of the 1973 parade, "Movie Memories," is nostalgic of past movie greats.

Klefstad said all entrants should include an 8-by-10-inch head-and-shoulders photograph and a full-length snapshot (not larger than 4 inches by 5 inches, of herself in street attire with the entry form. Entries will be judged by a committee of Television and film stars.

Entry forms may be picked up at Klefstad's office at 433 Town and Country Village, or at any Farmers Insurance Group office.

Farms Figures

BERKELEY (UPI) — There are less than 3 million farms in the U.S., averaging a little under 400 acres of land per farm, reports the California Farm Bureau.

HAVE A NICE DAY

Everyone finds some kind of enjoyment on the sidewalks of Town and Country Village. "One never knows who they will bump into," says Everett Palmer, manager of Safeway.

Busy Firebug

TOKYO (UPI) — A 27-year-old man arrested on a theft charge told police he had committed 30 acts of arson since January, 1971, destroying 79 buildings in Tokyo, including a cabaret.

Art And Garden Center Plans Comedy Evening

An evening of light comedy is planned forriday Oct. 20. "The Gingerbread Lady" will be presented at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The performance will be in The Barn at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased for $3, and a ticket-selling table will be set up near Safeway in Strawberry's Town and Country Village on Sat. Oct. 14, the weekend preceding the performance.

Marin residents participating in the play are Malania Washburn of Greenbrae, Hugh Leppo of Mill Valley, Ronald Benjamin of Novato and Russell Blum of San Anselmo, among others. Champagne may be purchased during the intermission.

"The Gigerbread Lady" performance receipts will go toward the support of the Marin Suicide Prevention Center which has been in operation since July 1971. Volunteers to staff the organization would be appreciated. Those interested in ticket information, helping or joining the Auxiliary should contact Marin Suicide Prevention Center, P.O. Box 792, San Anselmo.

Abandoned Pets

ROME (UPI) — Italians abandon more than 1 million pets every summer when they leave the cities for vacations at mountains and beaches, says the Animal Protection League.

TOP LINE ADDED

A personal touch to the culture of visual pleasure was recently added by Peter Straube to his store, T&C TV in Strawberry. Zenith color television will be highlighted by Peter during the art festival activities. He'll be on hand then to defend himself against the "football widows."

Strawberry Menswear Store Has New Owner

The Strawberry shopping center management welcomes Stanley Tropp and his wife Thelma to Marin.

Tropp is the new owner of Carlton's Village Sportswear in Town and Country Village. Tropp, formerly of New York, has worked for such firms as Interstate Stores and Macy's. Most recently, he was employed as buyer and merchandise manager for Amfac, which operates department stores in San Francisco.

The Tropps live in Oakland but are anxious to settle in Marin. They enjoy Marin and want to be closer to their business at Town and Country Village.

Tropp has 20 years of experience on the east and west coasts in men's clothing. "Carlton's is for those who have arrived and those who are going to arrive. We will continue to cater to gentlemen of Marin and hope to enhance our supply with a few more fine imports," Tropp said.
